BOAT STRIKE FAILS TO TIE UP FOOD, COAL OR FERRIES

Eighty Per Cent. of Tugs, Lighters and Barges Are Out of Service.

STRIKEBREAKERS WORKING

Union Leaders Attempt to Persuade Longshoremen to Walk Out in Sympathy.

FIGURES ON MEN OUT DIFFER

Erie Railroad Denies Charge That It Broke the Law by Sale of Lighters.

Railroad officials declared last night that the strike of harbor employes had collapsed so far as the operation of ferries was concerned and that, while the situation with respect to tugs, lighters and barges was more serious, all danger of an interruption in the city's food supply had been averted.

Leaders of the Marine Workers' Alliance, on the other hand, asserted that a misunderstanding had prevented all of the workers frrom joining the strike and predicted that the ferries would all be tied up by nightfall today. The railroad men, however, were confident in their assurances that normal schedules would be restored on Monday. Members of the old crews in sufficient numbers to man the boats had remained loyal, according to the railroad managers, and the deficiency was being made up by men from other cities.

The situation last night with respect to the ferry lines was as follows:

The Lackawanna ferries kept up their usual service, and other lines which had suspended during the previous night, resumed trips early in the morning with the exception of the West Shore, which was completely tied up all day.

Pennsylvania Railroad ferries between Manhattan and Jersey City were operating on irregular schedules. Tickets were sold "subject to delay."

The Erie boats between Twenty-third Street and Pavonia Avenue, Jersey City, which had been maintaining an irregular schedule all day, suspended service shortly after 8 o'clock last night, when the crews deserted. There was a long line of trucks on both sides of the river, and many passengers were waiting in the ferryhouses. The crews of the Erie ferries from Chambers Street also quit about the same time, stopping the boats.

Central Railroad of New Jersey, from Jersey City to West Twenty-third Street and Liberty Street, had two boats running on each line as usual, but there were many delays, said to be due to the fog.

Fog Hampers Ferry Service.

The service went to pieces during the rush hour last night, but the heavy fog, which harbor men say was the worst in years, was blamed for the delay. The railroad men assert that it would have been impossible, even with regular crews, to make normal headway. The municipal ferryboats, which are not involved in the strike, were as irregular in their trips as the railroad ferries.

A riot started on the ferryboat Chicago of the Pennsylvania Railroad late last night when twenty-five men, said to be strikers, attacked the deckhands. One man was badly hurt, several others received minor injuries, and a panic among the passengers resulted.

The disturbance started just as the boat pulled out of the slip at the foot of Cortland Street. The uproar was heard all over the boat, and the passengers ran to the cabins, seeking safety. When the Captain learned of the trouble he stopped his engines and then backed the boat into the ferry slip. Five policemen from the Old Slip Station had heard the tumult from the shore, and they were waiting when the boat was tied up.

When the rioters became aware of the Captain's strategem they scattered and mingled with the passengers. Only six were found and they were all placed under arrest. They described themselves as Fred Carlson, a fireman, of 501 Grove Street, Jersey City; John Gee, a deckhand, of 320 Seventh Avenue, Jersey City; Frank Canary, who said he was an official of "Local No. 8," of 209 Eighth Avenue, Jersey City; Charles White, a deckhand, of 45 Montgomery Street, Jersey City; Alphonso Laugel, a tug dispatcher, of 1,002 Birch Street, West Bergen, N. J., and William Smith, a deckhand, of 327 Seventh Avenue, Jersey City.

Alfred Howe, a deckhand, of 5 Stratford Road, Brooklyn, was the most seriously injured. He was taken to a Jersey City hospital suffering from severe cuts and bruises on his head and body. Howe had been employed on the Chicago for several years and had refused to respond to the strike call.

Eighty per cent. of the tugs, lighters and barges are laid up, the railroad men admitted, but they said that, with the diversion of food by the Poughkeepsie bridge route, through the tunnels and over the ferries, the city was getting about 40 per cent. of its normal supply. Fortunately, it was said, the holidays give the railroads extra time to bring in new men, so that on Monday conditions would be sufficiently improved to guarantee a steady food supply.

An embargo on all incoming and outgoing freight requiring lighterage has been declared, J. J. Mantell, Chairman of the New York Railroad Managers' Association, said, but he added that it would hardly be effective before it would be lifted.

The number of strikers, according to Mr. Mantell, who is also General Man-

Poles Reject Red Overture For a Truce During Parleys

WARSAW, April 2.—The Polish Government has rejected a counter-proposal by the Russian Soviet Government for an armistice along the entire battlefront during the proposed peace negotiations between Poland and Soviet Russia.

In the note rejecting the armistice proposal the Poles also opposed the holding of the peace conference in Esthonia, as had been proposed by the Bolsheviki in answer to the acceptance of peace pourparlers by the Poles, who suggested Borisov as the seat for the negotiations.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—At the Polish Legation here today it was stated that the Polish Government has taken the position that peace negotiations could not be conducted in Esthonia without outside pressure. Objection has also been made on the ground that Esthonia negotiated a treaty with the Russian Soviets and violated the terms of its treaty with Poland.

FIRE AND EXPLOSION ROCK 42D STREET

Flash Powder Splits Building and Showers Sidewalk Near Eighth Avenue with Glass.

MANY HURT, THREE SAVED

Mother and Three Children Are Rescued During Blaze in Thirty-fourth Street.

With a glare and a detonation that caused excitement all along West Forty-second Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, a large quantity of photographer's flashlight powder was accidentally set off in the studios of Hughes & Esterbrook, commercial photographers, on the top floor of 251 West Forty-second Street, yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock. The explosion wrecked the building, hurt three men seriously and half a dozen slightly. The rescue of the three men was made hazardous by a fire that followed the explosion, but they finally were taken out and sent to Bellevue Hospital in two ambulances.

Firemen, working under the direction of Assistant Chief "Smoky" Joe Martin, were caught in a second explosion and burned slightly. Part of the rear wall of the structure and large plate glass windows in the front of the studio were blown out. The street was showered with broken glass and other fragments, and scores of pedestrians fled to cover.

Three of the injured men gave their names as Louis Cohen, 22 years, 1,132 Kelly Street, the Bronx; Clifford Krieger, 23 years, of River Edge, N. J., and Jack Mescan, 25 years, of 687 East 224th Street, the Bronx. At Bellevue Hospital their injuries were said to be serious, though not necessarily fatal. All had been cut by flying glass and burned on the faces and shoulders.

Tenants Next Door Shocked.

An adjoining building, the five-story Clinton apartment house, where there were forty or more tenants, was shaken by the explosion and several women fainted. These were attended by Dr. D. M. Unger, also a tenant of the Clinton. Mrs. Emma Corrigan, who has an apartment on the third floor and was seated by a window facing the studio, was knocked out of her chair and bruised and shocked. The windows of the apartment of Colonel Allan Edwards, on the second floor, were shattered.

The shock caused alarm in the Automat restaurant directly across the street and patrons ran out, leaving their food. In a barber shop in the rear of the gymnasium of George Bothner, over the Automat, a man who was being shaved was so startled by the explosion that he jumped and caused the barber to cut him slightly on the cheek.

That no loss of life occurred in the building where the explosion happened was considered unusual by Assistant Chief Martin. The explosion attracted the attention of Patrolman John Craig of the West Forty-seventh Street station, who sent in an alarm. Engine companies 54, 65, 26 and 2 and Trucks 4 and 21 answered, with Deputy Chief King. Police reserves from the West Forty-seventh Street station were called to handle the crowds.

Before the arrival of the firemen Robert White, a street cleaner of 509 West Forty-sixth Street, and Emil Moller of 227 West Thirty-eighth Street ran into the burning studio and helped remove the three injured men to the hallway. White and Moller were slightly burned on their faces.

Second Explosion Occurs.

When firemen of Engine 56 dragged a line of hose up the stairs to the top floor opposite the entrance to the studio a second explosion occurred and they were hurled back against the wall. Deputy Chief Curtain was struck by a burst of flame that singed the whiskers off one side of his face. His comrades also were slightly burned. The men of the truck company were ordered to run ladders to the top of the building, but when Assistant Chief Martin discovered the dangerous condition of the rear wall he called the truck fighters back.

Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy started an investigation soon after the fire was extinguished. He said he had been told by other tenants of the building that they had heard similar but lighter explosions throughout the day. They had become accustomed to think the reports were merely the result of flashlight exposures, but noticed the explosions were getting louder and louder.

The condition of the men injured in the explosion was such that the Fire

RAIL UNIONS APPEAL TO THE PRESIDENT ON WAGE DEMANDS

Characterize as Unjustified the Employers' Action in Terminating Conference.

STRIKES NOW ON TWO ROADS

Seven Hundred Chicago & Milwaukee Switchmen Quit—N. & W. Strike May Spread.

TRAINMEN VOTE ON JOINING

Both Walkouts Are Declared Illegal and Unauthorized by Trainmen's Brotherhood.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Wilson again has the railroad wage demands in his hands. Following the refusal yesterday of the railway managers on the conference committee to consider the billion-dollar wage increase unless the public was represented upon the tribunal, the railway unions today appealed to the President, which means that the matter must now go to the Labor Board authorized under the new Transportation bill.

In behalf of the unions Bert M. Jewell, who headed the workers' representation upon the bi-partisan board, wrote to the President, attaching a copy of a letter which Mr. Jewell had written to E. T. Whiter, Chairman of the railway managers' delegates upon the conference committee. This letter set forth the standpoint of the employes.

Mr. Jewell in this letter charged the railway managers with declining to try to reach a settlement and dodging responsibility imposed under the new railway law. Mr. Jewell characterized the action of the executives as a surprise and said it would result in "keen disappointment" not only to his fellow-workers but to the general public.

The letter, in part, follows:

"Washington, D. C., April 1.

"E. T. Whiter, Chairman Railway Executives' Conference Committee:

"Dear Sir—Replying to your letter of March 30, setting forth the position of the railroads your committee represents, respecting the requests for increases in rates of pay, &c., for railroad employes, which were submitted by the standard recognized railroad labor organizations.

"The attitude of your committee in failing to carry out the wishes of the President of the United States comes as a surprise to us, and will result in keen disappointment to our constituents, as well as the general public, both of whom are parties at interest and entitled to more consideration from the bipartisan board than you have elected to give.

"We understand that your committee has definitely declined to assume the responsibility and perform the duty which is so clearly desired in the public interest, and which Section 301, as we understand it, contemplates—that of agreeing in conference upon rates of pay for railroad employes which are just and reasonable.

Disputes Interpretation of Law.

"Your statement that no agreement should be reached by the railroads and employes which has not been passed upon by the representatives of the public, given as the reason for terminating the negotiations, is not in accord with our understanding of the law. Section 301 clearly intends that the representatives of the railroads and employes should by conference agree upon just and reasonable rates of pay, working conditions, &c.

"Section 307, Paragraph B, as applicable to this issue, provides:

"'That the Labor Board may, upon its own motion, within ten days after the decision, in accordance with the provisions of Section 301, of any dispute with respect to wages or salaries of employes or subordinate officials of carriers, suspend the operation of such decision if the Labor Board is of the opinion that the decision involves such an increase in wages or salaries as will be likely to necessitate a substantial readjustment of the rates of any carriers.

"'The Labor Board shall hear any decision so suspended as soon as practicable, and with due diligence decide to affirm or modify such suspended decision.'

"Section 307, Paragraph D, reads as follows:

"'All the decisions of the Labor Board in respect to wages or salaries, and of the Labor Board or an adjustment board in respect to working conditions of employes or subordinate officials of carriers, shall establish rates of wages and salaries and standards of working conditions which in the opinion of the Board are just and reasonable. In determining the justice and reasonableness of such wages and salaries or working conditions, the Board shall, so far as applicable, take into consideration among other relevant circumstances:

"'1.—The scales of wages paid for similar kinds of work in other industries.

"'2.—The relation between wages and the cost of living.

"'3.—The hazards of the employment.

"'4.—The training and skill required.

"'5.—The degree of responsibility.

"'6.—The character and regularity of the employment, and;

"'7.—Inequalities of increases in wages or of treatment, the result of previous wage orders or adjustments.'

"Your committee has declined to comply with the plain provisions of the law, and assume the responsibility of

RENT GOUGING LAWS HALT REALTY DEALS

Lack of Power to Assure Full Possession Blamed by Member of Board.

TO PERFECT MACHINERY

Municipal Court Justices Will Confer Monday on Uniform Application.

An unfavorable reaction already has been noticed in the real estate market as a result of the rent laws just enacted by the Legislature, according to a statement made yesterday afternoon to a TIMES reporter by Edward P. Doyle, legislative agent of the Real Estate Board of New York and Chairman of its Budget Committee. He said that not only were prospective buyers refusing to purchase real estate because the owners, under the terms af the new laws, are unable to guarantee possession of every apartment in a given building, but that the prospective purchasers actually are backing out of negotiations that had been considered practically closed. As he spoke Mr. Doyle was called on the telephone by a real estate man who told him a deal for an apartment house had just been called off because of the rent laws.

Mr. Doyle pointed out that it was impossible for an owner, under the present laws, to guarantee the possession of all apartments of a building, because they did not know how many tenants were going to get an extension of perhaps twelve months at the discretion of the courts next October when their leases expire, on the claim of inability to find other places to live in.

"I am more than ever convinced that the effect of these laws will increase the demoralisation in the real estate business," Mr. Doyle added. "Builders are bound to hold off when they understand the restrictions that have been imposed upon them in disposing of their property. A house is just like anything else. You can't expect to find a purchaser unless you can guarantee him full possession, and that's just what these new laws make it impossible for a real estate owner to do."

Mr. Doyle said he would go to Albany on Monday when, in behalf of the real estate men, he would ask for an exemption for new buildings and buildings under reconstruction from the application of the provision regulating the increase of rentals.

To Provide Uniform Application.

Preparations were being made in this city yesterday to set in motion the new machinery created by the Legislature dealing with the thousands of disputes that occasioned the enactment of the twelve anti-rent profiteering bills. Little progress was made during the day, but the Municipal Court Justices have planned to hold a conference on Monday at 3 o'clock in the Ninth District Municipal Court, Madison Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, at which they will endeavor to develop uniform methods of applying the rent laws.

This meeting was called by Justice Spiegelberg, Chairman of the Special Committee on Rent Legislation of the Municipal Court Justices, who explained that the committee would hold a private session just preceding the conference at 3 o'clock, which is to be open to the public. At the latter session the Judges will give a hearing to the representatives of both tenants and real estate owners. So far as could be learned, the most important suggestion that the real estate dealers will have to make will be the request that the Municipal Judges put into effect a uniform application of the new acts.

Justice Spiegelberg said there had been a great deal of misapprehension on the part of the public as to the effects of the fixing of the limit of rental increases at 25 per cent. He pointed out that in fact such a limit had not been defined by the new law. If an increase up to 25 per cent. is considered oppressive and unjustifiable by a tenant, he said, the law placed upon the tenant the burden of proving that it was oppressive. On the other hand, if the increase is greater than 25 per cent., the presumption is that it is unjustifiable, and the burden of proving otherwise falls upon the landlord. In a memorandum, summarizing the effects of the rent legislation, Justice Spiegelberg said of this particular measure:

"This action permits the defendant in an action at law for the recovery of rent to set up the defense that the rent is unjust and unreasonable and that the agreement under which the same is sought to be recovered is oppressive. The facts constituting the present emergency are set forth in Section 1 of the bill. Neither in this bill, nor in any of the other bills, is the right given to the court to fix the rent or make a new agreement for the parties. The court, upon proper facts shown, may hold that

HOUSE COMMITTEE FOR SOLDIER BONUS; SALES TAX TO PAY

Votes 15 to 6 to Report Relief Legislation Within a Month.

$1,500,000,000 IS NEEDED

One Per Cent. Levy on Sales Under $500 Proposed and 5 Per Cent. Over That Amount.

MAY TAX REALTY TRANSFERS

Republican Leaders Do Not Intend to Eliminate the Excess Profits Tax at This Session.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—By a vote of 15 to 6 the Ways and Means Committee adopted today a resolution offered by Representative Longworth to report bonus legislation before another month. The resolution also declared against raising the money through a bond issue and favors obtaining it by means of a sales or luxury tax. It is expected that the bonus bill will provide for vocational education and monetary bonuses and involves an expenditure in excess of $1,500,000,000. This legislation will be worked out in detail by sub-committees, which begin work Monday.

Despite the announcement by Senator Watson, acting for Senator Penrose as Chairman of the Finance Committee, that excess profits would be eliminated this year, it has been learned authoritatively that there will be no changes in the present revenue law at this session aside from amending it to provide sale taxes to meet the cost of bonuses. Members of the Ways and Means Committee are greatly exercised over the attitude of Senator Watson in giving the impression that the excess profits taxes would be lifted this year.

There is no intention of touching excess profits until early in next session, when an effort will be made to raise as much through placing a tax on manufactures as now comes from the excess profits. This tax THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent was told today by one who speaks with authority, will be lifted next year because by that time it will fail to raise sufficient revenue.

Members of the Ways and Means Committee are in agreement with the argument that the excess profits tax is unjust and that it tends to retard business expansion, and that it will not be productive of continued large returns after this year. It is estimated that this tax will produce about $1,200,000,000 in 1920 and that it will drop 25 per cent. in 1921.

There is no necessity to change this law hastily, it is pointed out. It is operative in the taxable year of 1920, but before the last of 1921 it is planned to substitute a tax on production which, it is believed, will be fairer. According to Republican leaders their platform will promise the elimination of excess profits, but they add that it is not the purpose of the Republicans to place the tax burden on the masses.

Money for the bonuses will be raised by a sales tax of 1 per cent. on goods sold under $500 and of 5 per cent. on goods sold over that amount. There will be a tax of one-half of 1 per cent. on the sales of real estate. It is estimated by Treasury officials that such a sales tax will yield $1,000,000,000 yearly.

100 HOUSE MEMBERS PLAN ORIENT VISIT

Will Cross Pacific to Study Questions Affecting Hawaii, Philippines, China and Japan.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—More than a hundred members of the House plan to leave San Francisco on July 5 on the transport Mount Vernon for a two months' trip to the Orient. The itinerary will include Hawaii, the Philippines, China and Japan.

The growing importance of legislative questions involving the Pacific, those contemplating the trip said today, necessitates obtaining first-hand information. The matters to be studied include the request of Hawaii for statehood, the movement in the Philippines for independence, and Chinese and Japanese immigration. The party will go overland to San Francisco and on the return will visit Los Angeles and other Southern California cities and the Yosemite National Park.

The first stop will be in Hawaii, where the party plans to spend four or five days, going from there to the Philippines for a ten-day visit. Four days each will be spent in China and Japan. Smaller transports will be available for thorough inspection purposes in the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands, members said.

Democratic House members announced today that they planned a trip from New York to San Francisco by way of the Panama Canal. They plan to study conditions in the Canal Zone and arrive in San Francisco in time for the Democratic National Convention.

WOMEN POST PICKETS AT BRITISH EMBASSY, DEMAND IRISH FREEDOM, ATTACK ENGLAND; COLBY APOLOGIZES, BUT PICKETING GOES ON

Lloyd George Urges Tracing of Irish Assassins; Declares the Government Will Not Be Swerved

DUBLIN, April 2 (Associated Press).—The Lord Mayor of Dublin has received a letter from Premier Lloyd George, dated March 31, alluding to the impossibility of securing evidence in the ordinary way calculated to lead to the arrest and conviction of murderers in the formidible campaign of terrorism now menacing Ireland.

The letter says that this fact places the executives under great difficulty, because they do not desire to arrest the guiltless. On the other hand, it adds, the first duty of the executives is to leave no stone unturned to lay hands on those terrorizing society and that it may, therefore, be necessary to dislocate in some degree the normal life of the community.

The Premier expresses the belief that the terrorist campaign is prompted largely by a desire to prevent a settlement of the Irish question by reason and good will, which he believes the only means for attaining unity and conciliation.

He declares that the Government will not be deflected from what it believes to be the only course consistent with reason and common sense by a "ruthless and cruel campaign of assassination," but says he is anxious to make as easy as possible the task of those endeavoring to carry on the administration of the country on reasonable lines. If there are any means by which moderate men can be helped or encouraged to withstand or oppose the present campaign of intimidation so as to bring nearer a settlement of the Irish question, he adds, "I will gladly co-operate in bringing them into effect."

FRIENDS FEAR LIGHT ON CROKER'S WEALTH

Former Political Associates Unite in Effort to Keep Him Off Witness Stand.

MEDIATION PLAN STARTED

Attempt Will Be Made to Persuade Children and Father to Agree Out of Court.

Former political associates and personal friends of Richard Croker in this city are at work in an effort to obtain a speedy settlement out of court of the controversy over his $10,000,000 estate.

Those who are undertaking to act as mediators are concerned about embarrassing questions which may be put to the former Tammany chief as to how he accummulated his great fortune. They feel that such questions are almost inevitable in case Mr. Croker takes the witness stand. His friends say they are not at all apprehensive about the proposed examination as to his mental condition, but they are deeply anxious to avoid a rigid inquiry into his personal and political activities in the past.

An old friend of the Croker family said yesterday that many of the men whom Richard Croker, Sr., helped to affluence through his control of Tammany Hall a score or more years ago are arranging to come to their old leader's aid. It was said that there was not so much worry about Mr. Croker's ability to answer satisfactorily all questions about the sources of his wealth as there is regarding the possible misconstruction which may be placed on his answers.

Friends Expect Settlement.

It was said that a settlement of the differences between Croker and three of his four children was expected to be accomplished through friendly pressure on the children. One of Mr. Croker's friends asserted yesterday that several friends of Mr. Croker, now at Palm Beach, have undertaken to conciliate the father and stepmother with a view to preventing the appearance of Mr. Croker on the witness stand.

It is understood that the friends of Mr. Croker feel that if the injunction proceeding started by Howard Croker as his father's "next friend," gets beyond an argument on the motion to dissolve the injunction before Judge E. B. Donnell in Palm Beach about two weeks hence, it may be necessary to place the one-time leader of Tammany on the witness stand.

Richard Croker, it was recalled yesterday, was never noted for his willingness to discuss his personal affairs, and particularly regarding the means by which he rose from an obscure Tammany politician in the gas house district of the east side to the owner of large estates in Ireland and Palm Beach, as well as of some of the most costly race horses on the turf in this country and Europe.

Although both Richard Croker, Sr., and his young wife, who was Miss Bula Edmonson of Oklahoma, when he married her in the home of Nathan Straus in November, 1914, yesterday declared at their home in Palm Beach that they were going to fight the legal proceedings instituted against her by Howard Croker, it was said yesterday that friends of the elder Croker interested in the move to bring the matter to a close, as far as the courts are concerned, feel that they will be able to dissuade them from insisting on going through with the court proceeding by the time it comes up for a hearing, if Judge Donnell does not dissolve the present injunction.

Hope to End Legal Fight.

It was declared that some of the friends of Richard Croker, Sr., in this city have been in communication with him at regular intervals during his present stay at his home in Palm Beach.

SINN FEIN RAIDERS ADOPT NEW POLICY

Renew Attacks on Barracks, Wrecking Buildings, but Sparing the Police.

NO SIGN OF EASTER RISING

Situation in Dublin Normal—Prediction That Lord French Will Resign.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, April 2.—After a short interval of abstention the war on police barracks in various parts of the country is being resumed with renewed vigor. Apparently the policy pursued is that of destroying buildings, for once this has been achieved, either wholly or in part, the raiders withdraw.

In one case recently the man in charge of the raiding party permitted the police to leave their wrecked barracks and even personally restrained some of the more vindictive among his followers from inflicting injury upon the defenders as they came out from the ruins.

The barracks are being enormously strengthened by the authorities. Part of the defences of one building in the southeast, which is typical of others, is a disappearing platform on the roof, from which a machine gun can be operated.

In the early hours of Thursday morning two police barracks, respectively at Clonoulty, near Goold's Cross Station and at Scartaglen, seven miles from Castle Island, were attacked. The former was wrecked by bombs, while the latter was subjected to a three hours' attack, in which no casualties were reported.

Situation Normal in Dublin.

DUBLIN, April 2 (Associated Press).—The situation in Dublin today was normal. There was not the slightest sign of any Easter rising, rumors concerning the possibility of which recently became so general as to provoke questions on the subject in Parliament.

The resignation of James Ian MacPherson as Chief Secretary for Ireland did not cause a ripple of excitement here. Irishmen regard Field Marshal Viscount French as solely responsible for the direction of affairs, and seem not to be interested in Mr. MacPherson's successor.

The Freeman's Journal in an article today advances the belief that Field Marshal Viscount French is to resign his post, and that he will be succeeded by Lord Decies. The newspaper adds that Viscount French will probably go to Canada as Governor General.

Some fears are entertained that there may be trouble in Cork when the result of the inquest into the death of Lord Mayor MacCurtain, who was murdered last week, is announced. The inquest is still proceeding.

The new Field Marshal, Sir William Robertson, who, it has been rumored, is likely to succeed General Sir Frederick Shaw as commander of the troops in Ireland, is on a visit to Belfast with Lord Devenport. They are stopping with Lord Pirrie.

Fifty armed men today held up a train at Lillonan, near Limerick, and escaped with £3,000. The money was to have been used to pay off workmen.

LONDON, April 2.—Sir Hamar Greenwood, Under Secretary for Home Affairs, has been appointed Chief Secretary for Ireland, according to official announcement this afternoon.

Sir Hamar succeeds Ian Macpherson, who resigned yesterday.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, the new Chief Secretary for Ireland, was born in Canada in 1870, and received his education in that country. He served in the war from 1914 to 1918, in the latter year becoming attached to the staff of Lord Derby, at that time the War Minister.

Sir Hamar has represented the Sunderland constituency in the House of Commons since 1910. In January, 1919, he was appointed Under Secretary for Home Affairs in Premier Lloyd George's Cabinet. He was created a Baronet in 1915.

Frederick G. Kellaway, Secretary to the Minister of Munitions, will succeed Sir Hamar Greenwood in the Overseas Trade Department. Mr. Macpherson has been appointed Minister of Pensions and Sir Laming Worthington Evans has been made a Minister without portfolio.

BANNERS ASSAIL ENGLAND

Women Bearing Them Walk Before Embassy Undisturbed by Police.

COLBY EXPRESSES REGRET

But City Authorities Say They Can Do Nothing Under White House Picketing Decision.

SOLDIERS MAY BE SENT

Women Say They Are Organizing a Long Campaign and May Picket State Department.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The United States Government and the local authorities of the District of Columbia were confronted today with an international incident growing out of the agitation for Irish freedom. In the forenoon a number of women bearing placards condemnatory of Great Britain's attitude toward Ireland appeared at the British Embassy and began to picket it in a manner similar to the system followed by the militant suffragists at the White House during the war. No complaint was made by the Embassy officials, but the State Department took cognisance of the situation, and after a conference with Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President, Secretary Colby issued this statement:

"The Government deeply regrets the demonstration before the British Embassy today. As to the true nature and extent of the demonstration we are not at the moment fully informed. I can say that the Government will, without delay, take effective measures to perform its duty of hospitable courtesy to the British Embassy and to preserve its own dignity against conduct which tends in the least degree to a breach of that courtesy to the representatives of a friendly power."

What the Government's "effective measures" would be the State Department did not state. It is understood that officials contemplated placing soldiers of the regular army around the Embassy, but later it was said this idea had been abandoned. Policemen have been guarding the Embassy ever since the World War began in 1914, and several were on duty there when the pickets appeared this morning. Captain Doyle of the police precinct which includes the Embassy interviewed Embassy officials, and found that they had no complaint to make, so the police did nothing except notify the pickets that they must keep moving.

Propose to Extend Picketing.

It was explained by some of the pickets that they did not represent any organization devoted to the cause of Irish freedom, but were perfecting a plan for keeping up the picketing until something was done. The picketing, it was explained, might be extended to British Consulates in other cities, and to the State Department, in the hope of obtaining at the latter a definite promise from the Government that it would aid the cause of Ireland. It had been decided not to picket the White House.

Most of the women who did picket duty today were from out of town, and most were from New York.

The first to appear at the Embassy this morning were Mrs. James Walsh and Mrs. Harry Walker of New York, who arrived in a motor car. Each bore a pasteboard placard. The legend borne by Mrs. Walsh read:

"England, American women condemn your reign of terror in the Irish Republic."

Mrs. Walker carried this:

"America cannot continue relations with an England ruled by assassins."

Other placards that appeared later had these inscriptions:

"England, hands off the women of the Irish Republic."

"Ireland's best and bravest are rotting in English jails."

"England has perpetrated eighty military murders in Ireland."

Soon after the State Department heard of the picketing officials took up the matter with Louis Brownlow, President of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia. Mr. Brownlow said that the local authorities could do nothing in view of the action of the courts in the cases of the suffragists arrested for picketing the White House. The police, he said, could not be instructed to arrest the pickets at the Embassy unless they were disorderly. Not a word came from the Embassy to indicate that it had any complaint to make. During the afternoon the pickets on duty were invited by some of the Embassy attachés to come inside and have tea. The pickets declined.

Pickets Call at Other Embassies.

While the picketing was in progress Miss Kathleen Shehan of New York called at several embassies of foreign Governments and left literature favoring the creation of an Irish republic. When she called at the British Embassy she was courteously received, according to the pickets, and was permitted to leave the literature.

Mrs. Annie Riley Hale of New York, one of the picketing group, went to the Capitol and laid the case of Ireland before Chairman Porter of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs.

The British Embassy, a red brick building, stands at the corner of Connecticut Avenue and N Street. It was once in the centre of the most fashionable quarter and is now on the edge of it. Just across the way is the Church of the Covenant. Opposite on Connecticut Avenue is the building occupied by the Austrian Embassy prior to the entrance of the United States into the war. Attached to the Embassy are several office buildings which runs along N Street for a block.

Connecticut Avenue is still a highway of travel for the fashionable world. Many of these stopped when they saw the pickets, and after reading the inscriptions on the placards asked policemen what it all meant. Mrs. Walsh, who bore the placard inscribed "England, American women condemn your reign of terror in the Irish Republic," complained to a police Sergeant that a woman fashionably dressed had torn it and demanded her arrest. The woman said that she had stumbled against Mrs. Walsh accidentally. The Sergeant declined to make an arrest unless he was authorized to do so by the Corporation Counsel. When he communicated with the latter the Sergeant was told that there was no ground for arresting the woman against whom Mrs. Walsh complained.

The pickets, Mrs. Walsh said, expected to keep up their vigil indefinitely.

"We are American women and represent every section of the country," said Mrs. Walsh. "As such we have banded ourselves together to make open protest against what we consider to be the greatest injustice against a small nation ever attempted in the history of the world."

Actress Goes for Recruits.

Miss Mollie Carroll of Boston, who said she was an actress, and had been playing in Belasco's "Dark Rosaleen" company, said she was going to New York tonight to get recruits for the picketing. She declared that the picketing might be extended to British consulates and the State Department. According to Miss Carroll there was expectation that a massacre would take place in Ireland on Easter Monday.

Miss Carroll explained that her interest in the Irish movement came from the fact that it "was in the blood." Her father, she said, was an Irish-American devoted to the cause of Irish freedom and her mother had been confined in a British jail for her efforts in behalf of the Irish cause.

When Miss Carroll was asked if there had been any interference with the pickets by anybody connected with the Embassy she said that there had been none.

"Some of the aids inside asked us to come in and have a dish of tea," she added, "but I told them that as it was a hot day I'd prefer something cooler. We didn't go in."

The others on picket duty today were Miss Margaret Ryan of Boston, Mrs. Malcolm Duncan and Miss Anna Keena of New York, Miss Helen Merriam of St. Louis and Miss Helen Crowe of Chicago.

Mrs. Thomas Corliss of New York said tonight that she had arranged the plan of picketing. She said that the movement was the outgrowth of a meeting at her residence in New York at which it was determined that something should be done to call attention to the condition of affairs in Ireland. As a result of this decision she had written to a number of women asking them to meet her in Washington.

These women marched yesterday past the White House to the Capitol carrying banners inscribed with legends similar to those displayed at the British Embassy today. At the entrance to the Capitol grounds the women were stopped by police, who explained that banners could not be carried into the grounds without a special permit. After a parley the women abandoned the banners and were permitted to enter the Capitol, where they saw a number of Senators and Representatives and asked them to do something for the cause of Irish independence.

Estimates vary as to how many women were in yesterday's procession. The lowest number estimated is 20 and the highest at 100.

In addition to the list of those who did picket duty today an afternoon newspaper prints a list of women who are said to have volunteered for picketing, but it contains names of some women who say they were not asked to serve as pickets and do not intend to take part in the demonstration.

The New York women on this list, in addition to those given are: Mrs. S. W. Warner, Mrs. Peter Golden, Mrs. Margaret Cullen, Miss Mary Donegan, Miss Jessica G. Smith, Miss Katherine Lincoln, Miss Mary D. Brown, Miss Nora Lydon and Miss Leonora Reilly of Brooklyn.

Pending the arrival of the new Ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, the Embassy is in charge of the Honorable Roland Lindsay.

COURT UPHOLDS STRIKERS.

Refuses an Injunction Against Auto Body Makers.

Supreme Court Justice Gavegan denied yesterday an application by Locke & Co., manufacturers of automobile bodies, in behalf of themselves and twenty other members of the Automobile Body Manufacturing and Allied Trades of New York, for an injunction preventing the officers of the United Automobile, Aircraft and Vehicle Workers' Union of America and Local Union 49 from interfering with the business of the employers and with their non-union employes and from picketing in connection with the union's strike for increased wages and a forty-four-hour week. The court ruled that nothing illegal had been proved.

S. John Block, for the defendants, told the court that since the strike was called last October in nearly 100 shops the employers had rejected a settlement proposed by the Bureau of Mediation and Arbitration of the New York State Department of Labor, while about seventy-five members of the employers' organization had settled with their men and formed the Automobile Coach Builders' Association of Greater New York, operating under union conditions.

REASSURES COAL BUYERS.

Indiana Operator Says Prices Will Advance Only as Wages Do.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 2.—The price of coal at the mines will be affected only to the extent that wages have been increased as a result of the wage scale signed at New York Wednesday, according to a statement issued today by Phil H. Penna, Secretary-Treasurer of the Indiana Bituminous Coal Operators' Association.

"This contract," said Mr. Penna, "provided for increases of from 20 to 33 1-3 per cent., an average increase of 27 per cent., as found by the commission, to all forms of labor, effective April 1. The increased price of coal will be proportionate to the increase in wages, being slightly greater or less, according to market conditions. The wage increase will increase the cost of mining coal at least 50 cents a ton, on an average.

"No operators have said they would increase the price of coal $1.25 to $1.50 a ton, and a widely circulated statement saying they had so asserted is absolutely without foundation.

"The Government figures show that the average profit of Indiana operators during the year 1919 was less than six cents a ton. The operators are not going to conduct their properties at a loss, if they can help it. Consequently the increase in wages to the miners will just about measure the increase in the selling price."

REPUBLICANS DOOM THE SMITH PROGRAM

Women to Make Last Appeal for Adoption of Welfare Measures.

RECONSTRUCTION BILLS DIE

Col. Gillett Reintroduces Beer and Wine Bill Killed by Both Standing Committees.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 2.—Women who want the Legislature to enact the social welfare program, including the Minimum Wage and Eight-Hour-Day bills, will make their final effort for favorable consideration next week. Lieut. Col. Roosevelt, sponsor for the bills in the Assembly, will be called on formally to move for the discharge of the Rules Committee, which takes charge of all legislation now before standing committees on Monday, from further considering the measures, it was announced today.

The Assembly Labor and Industries Committee has refused this year, as last, to report out the welfare program, despite the fact that Colonel Roosevelt is a member of the committee. Women sent urgent demands to Assemblyman Brady, Chairman of the committee today, asking that the measures be reported out, but the committee failed to act, and tonight representatives of the women's joint legislative conference charged that the legislative leaders are employing the same methods they used last year—stifling the bills in committee and then sending them to the Rules Committee, the "Morgue."

Miss Mary E. Dreier, chairman of the conference, said today that the bills, with the exception of the minimum wage measure, had not been permitted on the floor of the Assembly for discussion during the five successive years they have been introduced.

So far the Republican Legislature has given Governor Smith only one of his major recommendations—that appropriating $15,000,000 for the maintenance of highways—and the amount was cut in half before passage.

The Rules Committee will reject the Governor's reconstruction program. The Republican legislative leaders are working out a program of their own, which will differ materially from that recommended by the Governor. It will not centralize power in the Governor nor provide a four year term for the State's Executive and the short ballot. Some concessions will be made to the Governor's recommendations for the State budget.

The wine and beer bills, killed in the standing committees, will go to the Rules Committee on Monday, but the committee, according to Speaker Sweet, will not have jurisdiction because of the Assembly Excise Committee's refusal to report them out. Colonel Gillett reintroduced his Wine and Beer bill today and next week will move to take it from the Rules Committee. Legislators tonight said there was some chance that this motion would be carried so as to put all the members on record on prohibition enforcement.

Rumors persist that Governor Smith may call a special session if a beer bill is not passed at the regular session. That pressure on him to call a special session might become irresistible is deemed possible, especially should he be a candidate for re-election.

Chairman Martin of the Assembly Judiciary Committee today in view of the fact that the committee's life had been extended, appointed Assemblymen Edward A. Everett, George H. Rowe and Louis A. Cuvillier, a sub-committee, to determine whether the committee shall call William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, before the bar of the House to answer for contempt because of attacks on certain legislators. The sub-committee will have the power of determining whether the Judiciary Committee should proceed with the investigation of Mr. Anderson and the League and will makes its decision early next week.

HELD AS GIRL'S TORTURER.

Clay Modeler Arraigned in Brooklyn on Daughter's Charges.

Charged with torturing his daughter Minnie, now 17 years old, John Gallander, a clay modeler of Brooklyn, was arraigned in the New Jersey Avenue Court yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Harry H. Dale. On a plea of not guilty the case was continued until next Monday.

The girl told District Attorney Harry E. Lewis and Assistant District Attorney McCormick yesterday afternoon that ever since childhood she had been mistreated by her father and stepmother. She said she had been struck with an icepick, branded with pokers and locked up in a trunk. District Attorney Lewis said he had photographs showing numerous wounds and bruises on the girl's body.

Four younger children of the family, from 9 to 13 years old, are being held at the Brooklyn branch of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children and are expected to testify for the prosecution on Monday.

Fishermen Ready for Trout Season.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., April 2.—A large number of fishermen are planning to start early tomorrow morning for the trout streams of Orange and Sullivan Counties to be on hand for the opening of the trout season. Many are arriving from New York already, despite the fact that the weather is not favorable. Pinekill, Beaverkill, Bashaskill and Otterkill are the most favored sections. The season is from April 3 to Aug. 31, inclusive.

French Raise Cuban Cigar Prices.

PARIS, April 2.—Increases in the prices of Havana cigars by 8, 12 and 16 sous, according to size and quality, are made effective by a Government decree issued today. The purchasing price of native French tobacco fixed by the Government is also increased for the purpose of encouraging production. Retail prices of cigarettes are also augmented, but the retail price of common tobacco has not been changed.

EASTER POULTRY UP; PRICE PLOT CHARGED

District Attorney Investigates Story That Unloading Is Prevented Here.

WILL EXAMINE DEALERS

Reports Indicate Fowl Will Go to 60 to 65 Cents a Pound—Pass-over Trade Also Hit.

Investigation of an alleged conspiracy to boast the price of poultry by preventing the unloading of shipments on the eve of Easter and the Jewish Passover, when poultry is in special demand, was begun yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Samuel Markewich. By direction of District Attorney Swann, Mr. Markewich will examine a number of poultry dealers on Monday, and later in the week is expected to go before one of the April Grand Juries and seek indictments alleging conspiracy by several commission merchants of West Washington Market.

The investigation resulted from the receipt of a telegram, signed "T. Y.," by District Attorney Swann late Thursday afternoon, which alleged that a notice announced that no unloading of poultry would be permitted on Thursday. Information obtained by the District Attorney indicated that this was intended to increase the price by limiting the supply, and that from 60 to 65 cents a pound was likely to be the retail price for poultry for the Easter and Passover trade. The telegram follows:

"Conditions in the live poultry trading in West Washington Market constitute a crime on the public. A large blackboard in one of the commission men's stand says: 'No unloading on Thursday,' holding a flock of live poultry on the track and boosting the price of live poultry to 46 cents.

"Thursday in no holiday. Why hold poultry back, only to force the public to pay as much as they demand and to satisfy those gamblers, who claim to be commission men acting under permits? We look to you as District Attorney for protection, and ask you to act immediately and save the public millions for the Easter holidays."

Mr. Markewich said he doubted whether the investigation would prevent the increase in price, but said he intended to try to punish those responsible, if a conspiracy was revealed. Complaints as to excessive increase in poultry prices, he said, had been received from retail dealers in all parts of Manhattan.

SHOOTS WOMAN DEAD, DROWNS HIMSELF

Hohokus Man, After Killing in Presence of Child, Takes Body Away in Auto.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., April 2.—R. Edward Leary of Hohokus, an employe of the New York Telephone Company in New York, murdered Mrs. Harold J. Grayson of 134 Broadway, Paterson, N. J., today at Southfield, near Tuxedo Park, and then jumped into Carr Pond, a mile and a half from the scene of the murder, on the Bear Mountain Road. He was drowned.

Leary, who had been a friend of the family, took Mrs. Grayson and her nine-year-old daughter, Helen, in his car to Monticello, returning in the afternoon and stopping over night at a hotel in this city. The mother and daughter occupied one room and Leary a room in another part of the hotel. They left in the automobile this morning. When the car reached Southfield Leary got out, took a revolver from under the seat and shot Mrs. Grayson four times.

The girl jumped out of the car, but Leary told her to get back in and he would take her mother to the hospital. They drove up the Bear Mountain road a mile and a half, when Leary jumped out of the car, ran across the field and plunged into the pond. The little girl went to the nearest house and gave the alarm.

GET BROOKLYN 'PEEPING TOM'

Annoyer of Judson Home Y. W. C. A. Girls Gets Suspended Sentence.

The 250 young women living in the Judson Home of the Y. W. C. A. at 50 Nevins Street, Brooklyn, who had complained to the police during the last six months that they were being spied upon by a "peeping Tom," slept easier last night, following the arraignment of Alexander Boyle yesterday before Magistrate Short. Boyle was caught Thursday night by a cordon of six policemen and six firemen.

A man had been seen on previous nights to enter the building at 417 State Street, climb to the roof and then jump across to the roof of the Y. W. C. A. Home. He then descended the fire escapes, stopping before every window. Miss Emma Alexander, the Secretary, telephoned the police of the Adams Street Station, and the firemen of Engine Company No. 226, on Thursday night, that she had just seen this man enter the building at 417 State Street. Boyle was caught emerging from the cellar at that address. He was identified by Miss Alexander and some of the young women as their annoyer.

He told Magistrate Short that he had gone to the State Street address to see the janitor, from whom he hoped to learn the identity of two girls who took $100 from him at Coney Island. The Magistrate released him on a suspended sentence.

Labor Men Send Greeting to Debs.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 2.—A resolution of good cheer was sent by the West Virginia Federation of Labor to Eugene V. Debs, in prison at Atlanta, Ga., according to an announcement by W. M. Rogers, President of the federation, at the close of today's session of the State convention. Mr. Rogers also said that resolutions asking President Wilson to pardon Debs and demanding amnesty for all "political" prisoners had been passed.

SAYS FRANCE'S HOPE LIES IN ALLIANCE

Tardieu Declares Her Union with Anglo-Saxon Peoples Must Be Maintained.

Germany, He Tells Belgians, Is in Position to Pay Indemnities Demanded.

BRUSSELS, April 2.—The salvation of France lies in maintaining her alliance with the Anglo-Saxon peoples—Great Britain and the United States—Andre Tardieu, former French Commissioner to the United States, declared in a lecture here today on "France and Her Allies." M. Tardieu added that France and Belgium had common interests which rendered a union between the two countries vitally necessary.

After dealing with the crisis confronting France and her allies as a result of the extraordinary drain upon their resources caused by a war of five years, M. Tardieu pointed out that France had work. He gave figures to show that Germany, having resumed work, was in a position to pay the indemnities demanded.

"All our efforts must tend toward execution of the Peace Treaty," M. Tardieu continued. "Let us not forget that peace will be what we make it, and that the bonds between the Allies must be strengthened continually. It must not be supposed that the understanding will be maintained automatically. Our utmost endeavors must be exerted to assure the stability of this union."

GIBBONS BARS 7-DAY MOVIES

Opposes Sunday Amusements That Are Promoted for Gain.

BALTIMORE, April 2.—Cardinal Gibbons, who has been watching with keen interest the fight in the State Legislature over Sunday motion pictures, has come out again in opposition to the bill.

When informed today that Senator Frick had decided to fight the measure, the Cardinal expressed gratification.

"I am unalterably opposed to the bill," he said. "Tell them to fight it to a finish for the sake of our city."

The Cardinal explained his belief that a sharp distinction should be made between Sunday sports and amusements spontaneous in nature and those promoted for gain. Open motion picture theatres would tend to keep some people out of church, he said, and to distract the minds of many from the religious atmosphere of the Sabbath.

Eastern King Afire Off Cuba.

A radio message received yesterday from its Captain says the Shipping Board steamship Eastern King is on fire near Sagua de la Grande, on the Cuban coast, with the Shipping Board steamship Lake Medford standing by pumping water on the flames. The Eastern King was bound from New York to Nuevitas under contract with the Munson Line. She left here March 28.

BOAT STRIKE FAILS TO TIE UP FERRIES

ager of the Erie Railroad, is about 2,400. Officers of the Marine Workers' Alliance, on the other hand, said that 4,500 men were out and that 6,000 would be out tonight. The union leaders asserted that the night crews on some of the boats had refused to recognize the authority of the notification for the strike, but that the strike call would be properly conveyed to them today and they would all desert their posts.

The loyalty of a large proportion of the harbor men to their employers and their refusal to do the bidding of the strike leaders was the chief factor in keeping the ferries running, Mr. Mantell said. "All of the old captains and pilots were back today," he said, "as well as a large number of other workers. The engineers, in the case of several of the roads, were back to work in a body.

Strikebreakers at Work.

"We are replacing the men who quit with men from Philadelphia and other Eastern ports. Most of these men have harbor boat experience. Twenty per cent. of the tugs are at work. We expect to have 60 per cent. employed tomorrow, and by Monday things will be running about the same as they always were. The chief thing that is bothering us is the fog. If it lifts tonight the ferries will be running regularly tomorrow and Sunday."

Mr. Mantell said that the railroads were preparing for a long fight, if it should prove necessary. Arrangements are being made to accommodate the new workers in box cars and sleeping cars in Jersey City. Special plans for police protection have also been made.

The only affect of the strike on the milk supply here yesterday was to delay the deliveries several hours. Officials of the milk companies said that there was no immediate danger of a milk famine. A large part of the supply comes from up-State and does not have to be transported across the harbor.

L. E. Unger, transportation manager of the Borden's Farm Products Company, said that the railroads had promised normal deliveries by today. The delay last night, he said, was caused by the congestion on the ferries which held up the trucks for several hours.

Officials of the Sheffield Farms Company said that half of their supply came through the up-State railroads and the tubes. "We have a good supply of Grade B milk on hand," it was said. "We don't think the public will suffer. The regular supply is being delivered to the Jersey City depots, and we are doing our best to move it. We have just succeeded in getting the last of yesterday's supply across the water. The situation will be more serious if more men go out, but with the present schedules being maintained there is no immediate fear of the supply running out."

Coal Not Seriously Affected.

The city's coal supply will be little affected by the strike, it was said yesterday. Arrangements have been made for bringing coal into the city through the Pennsylvania tunnel if necessary. Most of the coal, however, is handled by independent lighterage companies. The Erie Railroad, for example, is having sixty carloads of coal brought here every day under a contract with a private lighterage concern.

Edward J. O'Malley, Commissioner of Markets, asserted that food dealers in the city were already using the strike as an excuse to boost their prices. "Numerous instances of this have been brought to my attention," he said. "There is absolutely no reason why prices should go higher or why there should be any scarcity of food. Of all the companies which bring food supplies into the city only one has stopped service. This food will be brought over on lighters and ferries of other companies and by lighters occupied by strikebreakers."

The union officials at the headquarters of the Marine Workers' Affiliation, 26 Park Place, were busy with conferences all day yesterday in an attempt to cause a complete tieup of the railroad boats. A sympathetic strike of longshoremen and Government intervention on the ground that the Erie, in selling seven of its lighters to Charles R. Stewart, formerly marine superintendent of the road, was guilty of a subterfuge to evade the Esch-Cummins eight-hour law for railway workers, are two of the plans under consideration.

Erie Road Defends Sale.

When Mr. Mantell was told of the assertion of the strike leaders that they would welcome a Government investigation of the sale of the Erie boats he said: "The only violation they would find would be on the part of the employes. Clause 301 of the Transportation act says that it is the duty of all carriers and their agents and their employes to make a reasonable effort to prevent any interruption in transportation."

Mr. Mantell was asked about the charges that J. B. Stewart, who bought the seven lighters from the Erie, was an employe of the Erie.

"Mr. Stewart is an old harbor master of the Erie," he said. "For many years he has been in the lighterage business for himself and has not been employed by the Erie. On March 1 Mr. Stewart was appointed consulting engineer of the Erie. The railroad has hundreds of such positions, which do not require the full services of the men employed. Mr. Stewart resigned on March 15, and he is not now connected with the railroad.

"As to the assertion that the boats were not regularly transferred to Mr. Stewart, that statement is absurd. They were appraised by a regular board of appraisers, who fixed the price of sale. Mr. Stewart took over the lighters in accordance with the terms set by the appraisers. The Erie is willing to sell seven other lighters to Captain Maher or any of the union men if they wish to buy them. I told them so at the conference they had with me Thursday."

Transfer of Boats Explained.

Mr. Mantell issued the following prepared statement concerning the transfer of the boats:

In February the management of the Erie Railroad had information collected as to the cost of lightering freight in Greater New York Harbor. Their research developed that the cost of lighterage in the Harbor of Greater New York was $3.04 per ton, for which service the Erie boats engaged in that traffic received 60 cents per ton and, later the present price of 80 cents per ton. The management decided that business secured at a lighterage cost of $2.24 per ton was non-remunerative, and on March 1, the date the roads were turned back to the corporation, the steam lighters were laid up and have been since that time for sale.

A similar state of affairs existed in the matter of steam tugs. During the twelve months prior to March 1 steam tug service in Greater New York Harbor had been stopped three times, and in no instance through any act of the owners of railway tugs; and today there is no controversy between the Erie Railroad and the employes of its marine department as to wages or hours of service. The law requires the hours of service to be eight, and the Erie is a law-abiding corporation.

A towing interest made a proposition to the Erie Railroad to do its towing at a certain rate based on the existing tariffs in effect in New York Harbor. This arrangement the Erie Railroad accepted, and incidentally sold to the towing company several of its tugs. It cannot be too plainly stated that the Erie Railroad has had no controversy with its employes.

Mr. Mantell said that Joseph Stanton, business agent of the Port and Terminal Workers' Union, had been ejected from an Erie ferryhouse Thursday night. The railroad manager said that Stanton had made three attempts to board Erie ferryboats during the night, and that each time he was recognized by guards on the boat, who are placed there to see that the men operating the boats are protected from strike agents.

Policemen Guard Ferries.

Policemen from the Old Slip, Beach Street and uptown stations, were stationed at all the railroad ferries yesterday to prevent possible clashes between the strikers and non-union men. Scores of detectives were also used at the ferryhouses on both sides of the river and on the boats there were railroad detectives and special guards.

A delegation of three men who said they were from a New York local of the Port and Terminal Workers, called on Chief of Police Richard Battersby at Jersey City last night and asked if the police could not do something to stop the hiring of strikebreakers. Chief Battersby told the men that his sole function was to see that both sides kept the peace.

The ferry service throughout the day on the boats affected by the strike, although irregular, compared favorably with the service on the municipal boats where there was no strike. Last night, however, the harbor was covered with a heavy blanket of fog, causing a complete abandonment of the regular schedules. The fog was at its heariest during the rush hour and thousands of persons were delayed.

Hudson Tubes Jammed.

Many of the commuters hurried to the Hudson Tubes, causing the worst jam that the tunnels have had in years. Captain Himmel and twelve policemen from the Old Slip Station were sent to the Hudson Terminal Buildings to regulate the traffic and prevent disorder. A large part of the crowd was delayed for more than an hour.

The rush in the tubes had continued throughout the day. The majority of the Jersey commuters apparently had decided not to chance the uncertainty of ferry schedules. The

The ferryboat Cranford of the Central Railroad of New Jersey crashed into the pier at the south pier at the foot of Liberty Street yesterday afternoon during the fog, throwing a team of horses and two men overboard. The men were saved with life rings. According to the railroad company, the boat was in charge of Captain Joseph Conway, but Captain William A. Maher, President of the Masters, Mates and Pilots' Association, asserted last night that the pilot was "Jim" Conlin, a strikebreaker.

Both of the men who fell overboard hurried from the boat without giving their names. The team belonged to the Burns Brothers Coal Company. Several passengers were knocked down by the force of the collision and were treated for slight bruises.

The harbor strike spread to tugboat men along the South Brooklyn and Bay Ridge docks yesterday, according to an official of the Bush Terminal. It was said that many of the deep sea men had gone out in sympathy with the coastwise workers. At Bush Terminal and other piers it was said that some of the workers had quit, but no figures could be obtained. Union delegates were busy all along the Brooklyn waterfront. At the office of the New York Dock Railway Company, which controls the Atlantic and Fulton Terminals, it was said that 300 men were absent, not because of the strike, but because of lack of work.

The harbormen's leaders said that the railroad officials' statements to the effect that most of the workers had remained loyal was untrue and declared that the boats were being manned by strikebreakers. They threatened to call upon the other harbor workers' organizations to tie up the port of New York.

The Marine Workers' Affiliation, it was learned yesterday, has appealed to Samuel Gompers to use his influence to get the International Longshoremen's Association to join in a sympathetic strike.

Two conciliators from the State Industrial Commission started an inquiry into the strike yesterday. They are Michael Regan and John Bealin. They conferred for an hour with union leaders yesterday, but did not reach the railroad managers.

The harbormen received word here yesterday of the death of a son of T. V. O'Connor, International President of the Longshoremn's Association, in Buffalo. Mr. O'Connor was to have attended a conference in Washington yesterday at which an effort to conciliate the coastwise longshoremen's strike was to have been made.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 members of the Marine Workers' Affiliation met last night in Webster Hall, 119 East Eleventh Street, and were told by Thomas B. Healey that no effort had been made or would be made to bring the deep sea longshoremen into the strike. Both Healey and Capt. William A. Maher, Vice President of the Marine Workers' Affiliation, and Business Agent of the Masters, Mates and Pilots, asserted that one of the main purposes of the meeting last night was to refute a statement attributed to J. J. Mantell, of the Erie Railroad, that the strike was the result of internal differences in the union.

Mr. Healey declared that the marine workers decided to remain out as a unit until all return to work with increased pay, as demanded, and an eight-hour day. He said that H. L. Joyce, Chairman of the Associated Marine Department, had already passed upon and returned to the railroad managers the demands of the men of the various organizations for increased wages, but they had not yet heard what his findings were. Mr. Healey asserted that they had information that some of the managers had offered $10 a month increase in wages and an eight-hour day, but that this would not be accepted. He also declared that the unions had information that it was the purpose of the other railroads to do as the Erie was charged with doing—sell its boats to private owners in order to avoid the eight-hour day.

J. F. Murphy and E. W. Rice of Chicago, traveling representatives of the Brotherhood of Railroad Patrolmen, addressed the meeting last night, and it was said they urged the marine workers to stand out for the eight-hour day and that the railroad brotherhoods would give their support in their efforts.

Mr. Healey said that at the hour of the closing of the meeting there were in operation two ferryboats of the Pennsylvania, five of the Lackawanna, four of the Erie and three of the Central of New Jersey, but that all would be stopped before morning with the possible exception of the Lackawanna boats. He said that orders had been issued during the day to some of the workers who had not previously received official notice of the strike.

John Whalen, President of the Harbor Boatmen's Union, which has a membership of 3,000, announced following the mass meeting that all of the members of the Harbor Boatmen's Union had gone out on Thursday in sympathy with the other strikers.

RAIL UNIONS APPEAL TO THE PRESIDENT

railroad managements with regard thereto, and has not given consideration to the requests of the employes for just and reasonable rates of pay, working conditions, &c., based upon the provisions of Section 307, Paragraph D, which shall be the guide of the Labor Board.

"Therefore, these same provisions should be the guide of all parties who deal with these questions.

"Your entire deliberations seem to have been predicated upon the sole basis of the costs without regard to the justness and reasonableness of the requests of railroad employes.

"Your declination to consider the requests of the employes upon their merits does not place us in a position, at this time, to join with you in the appointment of committees to prepare data for presentation to the Labor Board.

"The decision of your committee forces us to appeal to the Labor Board under the provisions of the Transportation Act, and so notify President Wilson, because of his request for the creation of this bi-partisan board.

"By order of the committee.

"(Signed) B. M. JEWELL,
"Chairman Railway Employes' Conference Committee."

The letter which Mr. Jewell addressed to President Wilson was a formal communication, and ended by saying:

"We regret very much to advise you of our failure to obtain any beneficial results from these conferences."

Union officials indicated today that feeling among their men was very tense in view of the long deferred settlement upon the wage increase. They said, however, that they wanted to give the new railway law a fair trial, even though they did not approve it.

CHICAGO SWITCHMEN ON ST. PAUL ARE OUT

Demand 50 Per Cent. Rise in Pay —Trainmen Say Strike Is Unauthorized.

CHICAGO, April 2.—A meeting of "loyal" members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, called today by A. F. Whitney, Vice President of the organization, was broken up by striking switchmen, whose walkout last night crippled freight service on the Chicago, Gallagher, Chairman of the Brotherhood, was ejected.

Mr. Whitney said the strike was unauthorized and urged the men to return to work. Demands for $1 an hour for foremen, 95 cents for switchmen, time and one-half for overtime and double time after eight hours' overtime, were made by the 650 striking switchmen.

The strikers, who asserted that they resigned individually, also asked the reinstatement of Charles Granau, President of the Chicago Yardmasters' Union.

Granau was forced to resign from the brotherhood during the war, officers said.

Chairman Gallagher said tonight that any attempt to have the yardmaster reinstated in the brotherhood would be opposed.

The switchmen of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul now on strike number 700. They walked out last night to enforce demands for a wage increase of from 52 cents to $1 an hour and in protest against the discharge of Granau. Switchmen's union officials said 300 men, sufficient to handle traffic, would remain at work. Police guarded the yards after 200 strikers were reported to have attempted to overturn a passenger coach.

The stabbing of Ralph O'Neil, a switchman, today, was believed by the police to have been due to a strike clash. O'Neil was in a serious condition tonight with three knife wounds.

The strike has not affected passenger service, railroad officers said.

N. & W. STRIKE IS SETTLED.

All Employes of the Road to Return to Work at Once.

ROANOKE, Va., April 2.—At a conference here tonight between officials of the Norfolk and Western Railway and local and international representatives of organized crafts on the system, who struck in sympathy with the clerks who walked out March 22, a settlement was reached by which all employes of the company will resume work immediately.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 2.—Almost 3,000 shopmen employed by the Norfolk & Western Railway at the local terminal and at Portsmouth struck today in sympathy with the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

The number of men reported to be out at Portsmouth is 1,800, while union officials here say more than 1,000 are out at the local terminal. The strikers include car mechanics, boilermakers, machinists, blacksmiths, sheet metal workers, coach cleaners, hostlers and laborers, it was said. Approximately 200 clerks already were out.

PLAN WORLD STRIKE MAY 1.

Radicals in Switzerland Back Move Launched by Lenin.

GENEVA, April 1.—Preparation for a world-wide twenty-four-nour strike on May 1 are being made in Switzerland by Socialists, Communists and other radical elements. Foreign agitators are active in the movement, but they probably will be expelled before that date.

It is virtually certain, however, that the Swiss will join in the movement, which was launched by Nikolai Lenin, Bolshevist Premier of Russia, as an experiment to test the solidarity of the world proletariat.

Reject Alabama Arbitration Plan.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 2.—Establishment of miners-operators industrial relations committees proposed by the Alabama Mine Operators' Association as a means of settling disputes, will be "wholly unsatisfactory" to the miners, J. R. Kennemer, district President of the United Mine Workers of America, declared today. The committees as proposed by the operators would be set up at each mine and be composed of two representatives each of the workers and the company.

Adjust Hartford Labor Disputes.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 2.—Employers and employes in the building trades have virtually agreed upon a plan for adjusting disagreements, according to F. L. Rice of the Executive Board of the Hartford Building Employers' Association, in a statement today. Carpenters are to get $1 an hour, mason tenders 75 cents, iron workers $1.06¼, bricklayers $1.12½, marble and tile setters, plasterers and cement finishers $1.12½, all per hour. Hoisting engineers, electricians, plumbers and steamfitters will receive increases.

Lock Out Plumbers Asking $12 a Day

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 2.—Twenty-four of the thirty-two plumbing establishments in Birmingham today declared a lockout against union pumbers, who are demanding $12 per day with double pay for overtime, Sundays, and holidays. The eight shops which refused to join in the lockout have contracts which would not permit suspension of work.

Shoe Workers Are Shut Out.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., April 2.—Demands of turn shoe workers for increased wages will tie up the shoe industry here, according to announcements by manufacturers today. The Parker Shoe Company closed its shops to its 250 operatives, and the Herbert Humphrey & Sons Company, with 500 hands, announced it would shut down tomorrow night. The Paine Shoe Company, which formerly had 250 workers, has been closed for two months by a strike of the turn shoe operatives.

Opposes Rise for Worcester Workers

WORCESTER, Mass., April 2.—General Manager Henry C. Page of the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway Company announced today that he had recommended to the chief officials of the company that they refuse the demands of the employes for an increase in wages June 1. The men have filed demands for a minimum of $5.20 and a maximum of $6.40 for an eight-hour day.

Another Woonsocket Mill Closes.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., April 2.—The shutdown of the Social Mill of the Manville Company yesterday, after a walkout of 1,200 operatives, was followed today by the closing of the Nourse Mill of the same company. The 500 operatives of the Nourse Mill have not struck and have made no demands, but the Social Mill workers demand a forty-eight hour week with the pay they now receive, for fifty-four hours. The mill management announced that both mills would be reopened next Monday.

RUHR REVOLT ENDS; DISORDER GOES ON

Mueller Says Army Will Be Sent In as Soon as Entente Consents.

SOME TROOPS CROSS LINE

Millerand Refuses Request That They Be Allowed to Stay and Asks Berlin to Withdraw Them.

BERLIN, April 2 (Associated Press).—The German Government announces in a communication to the press that it has resolved to dispatch troops to the Ruhr region as soon as the Entente consents to such a move. The decision was reached after a three hours' Cabinet meeting today.

The statement declared that this action was inevitable in view of the unchecked lawlessness in the region about Essen, Dortmund, Duisburg and Mulheim, which it is asserted has now assumed such proportions that the local authorities and the labor leaders admit that they no longer are able to protect the civilian population.

The Chancellor said he had received urgent reports from Essen, where terrorist bands were looting food trains for supplies. The looting brigades, the Chancellor added, had been disavowed by all parties, even the Communists and the Independent Socialists, in the Ruhr district.

If the Entente agreed to the entry of the troops, the Chancellor continued, they would act purely in a police capacity under the authority of Prussian Minister of the Interior Severing.

The Red Army's terms are reported to amount to a demand for the complete recognition of the Soviet principle.

Workmen's Control Ends.

DUESSELDORF, April 2 (Associated Press).—Control by the workmen ceased theoretically at noon today throughout the Ruhr district under the peace terms ratified last night at Essen. Today being Good Friday, religious ceremonies were strictly observed. The turning over of their duties to the police in the various cities is expected to be a gradual process.

The general strike was called off this morning and resumption of work will take place tomorrow. Street cars, however, were operating in most places today.

The workmen's leaders are satisfied that there will be no great difficulty in executing the terms of agreement, virtually all arms in Düsseldorf being already deposited in the barracks and other buildings. Some of the Red Guards are marching in a happy frame of mind to their quarters to get orders for their service pay. This money will be taken from a joint fund contributed by the workmen, the local authorities and the Government.

The Central Committee believes the reports which have been current that Reichswehr troops are advancing into the district, as it is announced workmen are again standing ready to damage the mines and the Krupp and other plants, as they have threatened to do. The Moderates are confident that cooler counsel will prevail, expressing the belief that the stories are based on some error brought about by misunderstanding which the alarmists are construing as an invasion.

Soldiers of the workmen's army in the Ruhr district must make a delivery of their arms to local authorities before April 10, under the agreement reached between the Government and the Central Committee of the Workmen's General Conference at Essen.

The commander of the Cummunist troops before Wesel gave a pledge to the conference for the strict observance of the agreement. He declared he had really a good army, but could not continue fighting because he lacked ammunition, and asserted all looting had been suppressed and that all looters had been shot.

"I will shoot with my own pistol," he said, "any Communist soldier who disobeys the order to withdraw and disarm."

Assurance was given the delegates, however, there would be no trouble.

A feature of the last meeting of the workmen was the repeated reference of speakers to the alleged fact that the revolutionists "could not have lived to accept a final agreement if the Allies had not backed them."

Essen Welcomes Peace.

ESSEN, April 2 (By Telephone to Düsseldorf) (Associated Press).—The city was quiet and free from disorder today. The populace enjoyed the holiday by promenading on the boulevards. Everybody seemed relieved at the advent of peace.

The Red Guards gradually are handing in their arms. Otto Bowenspien, military commander of the Reds, told the correspondent today that the Reichswehr, which had besieged Wesel, had gone southward to Dinslaken, in the occupied zone. He added that he knew nothing of any other Reichswehr advance.

Army Reported Advancing.

LONDON, April 2.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Dusseldorf dated Friday says:

"The Government troops, disregarding the Munster arrangement of yesterday, are advancing rapidly. They have beaten back the Red troops from Wesel southward and captured Hamborn. They are expected here tomorrow.

"The Red troops are handing in their arms all over the Ruhr district, according to agreement.

"The Essen Red council has telephones Berlin concerning the advance of the troops. The Government replied that the troops were out of hand.

"Two coal mines are reported already to have been destroyed."

GERMANS ADVANCED THROUGH AN ERROR

Berlin Representative Reports Move to Millerand who requests Their Withdrawal.

PARIS, April 2.—Dr. von Mayer, the German Chargé d'Affaires, visited Premier Millerand again today and repeated his former request for authorization for the entry of German troops into the Ruhr region.

He informed the Premier that some contingents of the Reichswehr entered the neutral zone on Thursday north of the line Wesel-Dulmen. Dr. von Mayer explained that this was done without authorization of the Government on the order of Commissioner Severing and under the same misapprehension as had caused Chancellor Müller to believe the French Government had authorized the occupation of the Ruhr district. The Chargé d'Affaires added that the Berlin Government had ordered the troops not to continue their march forward, and said they would be maintained at the same place they now are if the French authorized it.

According to Dr. von Mayer the Reichswehr effectives comprise three battalions of troops, an engineers' battalion and some batteries.

Later M. Millerand sent a note to the German Chargé d'Affaires requesting the Government to withdraw the troops. He repeated the conditions previously laid down concerning German occupation of the Ruhr region, which for the moment is still unauthorized. The note does not give any time limit for the evacuation of the German troops.

Officially the matter is regarded as a simple incident. The good faith of the Berlin Government is not questioned, as it is said to have taken the initiative in informing the French Government of the situation and immediately ordered the troops not to advance further.

The Separatist movement is making progress in the Rhineland district of Germany, which has aspirations to be established as an independent republic, according to a Mayence dispatch to L'Echo de Paris.

LOYAL GERMANS BROKE FORCE OF RED REVOLT

Military Strength of Uprising Failed Through Desertions and Lack of Discipline.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 1.—If as all news from the Ruhr district indicates the Bolshevist revolution is rapidly coming to an end it is due chiefly to the good sense of the majority of the workmen and the bourgeois element of the population and even more so to the rapid disintegration of the Red army itself. Though reports "from the front" say today that the Government forces have succeeded against the Red army on all sides and surrender is only a question of hours, even this, as THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed by members of the Thyssen firm who arrived in Berlin this afternoon, could only have been accomplished by the loyal aid of the railway employes who refused to move bodies of Red troops, and the armed interference of a large number of workmen who drove the Reds right into the arms of the military forces.

When the Bolshevists found themselves chased on all sides they blew up the railway bridges and destroyed much valuable property, just as Hindenburg and Ludendorff did when retreating from France. But their desperate acts did not save the situation for them. The Bolshevist leaders at the Headquarters at Essen and Duisburg were in despair because the men were deserting by thousands and keeping their rifles and the rest of their equipment for the pay dues them at sixty marks daily. Many of those remaining refused to march and were only seen at meal times. Some refused to take turns in the trenches unless the officers permitted the "carbolic girls," as they call the nurses in the Red army, to visit them there. A few Red chieftains asserted their authority to some extent and would not tolerate all this nonsense, but their approach to the trenches was generally announced by telephone and gave the girls a chance to clear out. Every man and leader did very much as he pleased. All wanted to command, few obey.

THE TIMES correspondent had an interesting interview with a high commanding officer until recently in the Ruhr district, telling him that months ago he telegraphed to America about the enormous quantities of arms and ammunition accumulated in the Ruhr district by Bolshevist leaders there and how they practiced shooting in certain woods. Why had not the military intelligence service, the correspondent asked, reported this to the Government if they knew about it?

"We did report more than once to the Berlin Government about these preparations," he answered. "We even gave the exact whereabouts of their arsenals, but as this Red putsch was not to come off before the beginning of May with a Russian offensive, the Government delayed decisive action month after month fearing to provoke a rising which might yet be assuaged by peaceful means. We knew all the details as planned for May, but the Kapp putsch which precipitated the Red revolution surprised and handicapped us because it gave the Bolshevists a chance to initiate their operation in the guise of our allies against monarchism. The military intelligence service certainly is not to blame, having long ago named to the Government all the secret Bolshevist arsenals with the same accuracy with which that list of junkers was composed who have hidden arms on their estates."

NITTI ADVOCATES LENIENCY TO ENEMY

Tells Italian Senate German People Must Not Expiate All Sins of Imperialism.

POLICY OF HUMANITY

Premier Urges Demand on Russia for Respect for Laws of Civilization.

ROME, April 1.—Premier Nitti, speaking to the Senate today, urged a more humane conception of international relations and advocated a measure of leniency toward the German people. A bad interpretation of international relations had caused German militarism, Russian Bolshevism and Mussulman fanaticism to join forces against Western civilization, the Premier declared, but Italy must be the standard-bearer of the message of humanity and sincerity, showing herself not exacting.

The Imperial Government of Germany had committed many sins, Signor Nitti continued, but the patient, laborious and intelligent German people must not bear all the punishment for them. He urged that Germany be allowed to import raw materials to enable her industries to flourish and permit her to fulfill her engagements.

In a short reference to Russia, the Premier declared that respect for the fundamental laws of civilization must be demanded from the Russian Government in exchange for the renewal of economic relations with the Allies. He said good relations with Turkey were indispensable because of the commercial opportunities in that country.

Signor Nitti reiterated his appeal that the resumption of friendly relations with the Jugoslavs be followed by a commercial treaty between Italy and Jugoslavia, asserting that this feeling was reciprocated by the Belgrade Government, as had been proved by the Serbian Premier's New Year telegrams expressing his hope for friendship between the two countries.

COMPROMISE GAINS IN DANISH CLASH

Folkething Is Called for April 14 —Crowds Cheer Speeches Demanding a Republic.

COPENHAGEN, April 2. — There seems to be a prospect of bringing about a settlement of the political crisis. The Cabinet of Premier Liebe has summoned the Folkething to assemble April 14 for dissolution on April 21. Elections have been fixed for April 28.

According to the National Tidende, the Liebe Ministry is ready to compromise on the old Zahle Government's electoral reform bill, which the Zahlists contend ought to be passed before the new elections.

T. Stauning, a Socialist Member of the Cabinet which recently resigned, expressed the belief today that a compromise would be impossible.

"The Liebe Ministry has just proclaimed a dissolution of Parliament and new elections," he said. "We Socialists cannot possibly accept the proclamation in any other light than a new challenge and break off negotiations."

Regarding the labor situation, the former Minister said:

"A general strike is now inevitable. I cannot yet say whether the men in the gas and water works will also be called out, but the railroad workers will probably begin their strike tomorrow instead of Tuesday."

The organizers of the strike are preaching a strong policy of resistance. Nevertheless, they are emphasizing upon their followers the importance of an orderly conduct of the strike.

Last night the streets and public places of Copenhagen were filled with crowds, but there were no untoward incidents. In the Town Hall Square at midnight thousands of persons cheered Danish and Swedish speakers who demanded the establishment of a republic.

The master bakers are working twenty hours daily in a vain attempt to keep the bread supply going. The bakeshops were sold out today before nine o'clock in the morning.

A dispatch to the Social Demokraten says that the country towns report strikes. It is asserted that most of the provincial industries will close tomorrow.

RODIN MODEL USED AS VERDUN SYMBOL

Rejected Design Emblematic of France's Defense in 1871 Is Put to New Use.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 2.—Though Rodin is dead, another Rodin statuary group is to be given to the world.

Its history is curious. It was designed to commemorate the defense of Paris and the tragic defeat of 1871, but the finished work, which was sent today to the founders, will commemorate the most glorious of all French victories in the world war—Verdun.

Considerable controversy has raged about the propriety of this transformation. It was in 1882, when the famous sculptor designed the model which was submitted in competition for a monument of defense. His originality and genius were then, however, new and too startling, and a more conventional model received the award.

Rodin's model lay neglected in his studio. It was a Dutchman who remembered it, and after the victory of Verdun a committee was formed in Holland which subscribed money to have a reproduction of the model made on a large scale to commemorate this other defense.

There arose among French artists the criticism that the group which had been designed to represent a defense which was a defeat could not be adequate for a defense which was a victory. Stanislas Lami, Bartholomé and others supported this view and wished the project to be canceled, but Benedittte, the executor of Rodin and guardian of the museum of his works, gave his consent, and the work has been done by Réne le Bosse, with the counsel and advice of Rodin himself in the last months before his death.

The group represents the nude figure of a man in Rodin style leaning on a broken sword with his head thrown back and exhaustion in every line and muscle. Behind the figure, towering over it, is that of a winged female form with arms outstretched and mouth wide open, which represents France arousing her defenders and encouraging them to one last great effort.

In both faces there is shown agony, endurance and desperate courage. In such a detail as the failing tip of the broken wing of the female figure is all evidence that the work, though not Rodin's own, in all its execution is his inspiration and design.

The nominating committee consists of Mrs. Robert E. Speer, Mrs. Robert Mackenzie and Mrs. Peter Stryker of this city and Mrs. Albert N. Barnes and Miss Rachel Lowrie of Philadelphia.

Marshal was unable to get a detailed account of the accident. Only Cohen was able to give any explanation. He said his two associates were packing a quantity of magnesium powder into containers in the rear of the studio and that he had gone to the front of the place when he was knocked down by the force of the explosion. The flames that licked about him set his clothing on fire. The Fire Marshal said the flashlight powder was not subject to spontaneous combustion, and he was at a loss to understand what had caused the explosion. He said he would continue his investigatoin as soon as the men in the hospital could be questioned.

Mother and Children Saved.

Mrs. Mary Murphy and her three children, whose ages range from 2 to 6 years, were rescued with blankets from their flat on the top floor of a five-story building at 249 West Thirty-fourth Street by Patrolmen Nevin and Raddo of the West Thirtieth Street Station soon after fire had broken out in an adjoining building. When the fire next door threatened to spread, the tenants in the same building with Mrs. Murphy were ordered out of their homes.

The two patrolmen then ran through the building to make sure that no one was left in it. When they reached the top floor they found the mother and her children lying on the floor, overcome by smoke. All four were carried to safety. A large crowd in the street cheered.

SAN REMO MEETING TO TAKE UP TURKEY

Supreme Council Will Review Treaty at Session Late This Month.

LIKELY TO DECIDE QUICKLY

Turks May Get Terms Early in May —Important Program for League Council in Rome.

PARIS, April 2.—In French circles the expectation now is that the meeting of the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference at San Remo will be called for April 19-22. The Turkish peace delegates, it is understood, will be invited to present themselves toward the end of April to receive the peace terms.

It is pointed out here that the terms of the projected treaty with regard to a number of points were prepared by experts, in the absence of the heads of some of the Allied Governments, Premiers Millerand of France and Nitti of Italy having attended only the first sessions of the conference in London. Hence it will be necessary that a full session of the Supreme Council go over the whole project.

It is not expected that the session will be long, and it is thought that the Turks may be able to begin their examination of the terms of the treaty early in May. The procedure is expected to be the same as with the other treaties, the Turks having time to study the treaty and present their observations on it. The Supreme Council will then study the observations and prepare its rejoinder.

The San Remo conference may have occasion to make the final decision on some questions regarding the Hungarian peace treaty.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—A full and important program will confront the Council of the League of Nations when it assembles in Rome April 27. Included in the matters scheduled to be discussed, it was learned here today, are such questions as the approval of the temporary organization already effected of the secretariat of the League, the method of financing that body and its accounting, regulation of admission of new States, repatriation of German and Austrian prisoners of war now in Siberia, traffic in women and children, disposition of the work of the Washington labor conference, adoption of rules of procedure and, finally, the work of the commission which is to draw plans for the organization of the International Supreme Court.

The organizing committee for the court has been at work and has noted acceptances from Lord Phillimore of England, Baron Descamps of Belgium, M. Loder and M. Vesnitch of Jugoslavia, as well as from Elihu Root for America.

After the Rome conference the Council will assemble in Brussels to deal with international finances, including exchange and other economic matters. America has been invited to participate, but has declined.

LONDON, April 2.—A reply has been received through the American Embassy in London to the effect that it will not be possible for the United States to be represented in any capacity on the special commission which the Council of the League of Nations recently decided to send to Russia. This announcement was made by the League of Nations representative here today.

At a recent meeting of the League of Nations Council in Paris it was decided that the Government of the United States be informed of the resolution to send a commission of investigation to Russia, and that the nomination of an American citizen as a member of the commission would be welcomed.

PASSOVER AT ELLIS ISLAND.

Feast Observed First Time Since 1914 by Refugees.

For the first time since the war broke out in 1914 about 100 Orthodox Jews from Russia and other parts of Eastern Europe detained on Ellis Island were enabled to observe the Feast of the Passover last night through arrangements made by the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of 229 East Broadway.

M. Kley, agent of the society on the island, and his secretary, Miss Sonia Moonitz, had prepared matzoths. Wine, fish, horseradish, bitter herbs and other accompaniments of the seder were served, and one of the rabbis on the island read the Passover ceremony. The fog forced the society's delegation to remain on the island over night.

LODGE IS CONFIDENT ON PEACE RESOLUTION

Thinks It Will Pass Senate with Little Delay Despite Democratic Opposition.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Prompt adoption by the Senate of the House resolution, declaring the state of war with Germany at an end is expected by Republican leaders. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts said that he did not look for any great delay. He said the controversy had been "thrashed out pretty thoroughly," and that he believed the House resolution would be adopted, probably with united Republican support and general opposition by the Democrats.

Mr. Lodge said early action on the Anglo-American-French treaty was not expected and that until the Treaty of Versailles was disposed of its consideration was improbable.

BRITISH HOTEL BILL IN PARIS £503,388

Government Accused of Reckless Extravagance in Caring for Its Peace Delegation.

LONDON, March 26 (Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Charges that the Government indulged in reckless extravagance at the Peace Conference in Paris have been made in connection with its bill of £503,388 for expenses of the British delegation.

When the bill was presented in the House of Commons recently, Sir Alfred Mond, First Commissioner of Works, was sharply questioned as to whether his bill for hotels in Paris covered the cost of champagne, food and dances. He replied that his department was not responsible for the payment of bills for food, clothing or typewriters, dances or bands.

One member of the House indignantly declared it would have been better for the British delegates to go to bed to think over the Peace Conference than to indulge in such relaxations; but if they had to have recreation they ought to pay for it out of their own pockets.

Captain Wilson accused the Government of having maintained "huge staffs in Paris hotels." The Government representative admitted that the British had five hotels and three other temporary abodes, while the Americans had only one hotel; but, he declared, the Americans spent more money. The House indulged in ironic cheers when Sir Alfred Mond said the Government "did the thing well."

The total staff of the British delegation was 524.

FRIENDS FEAR LIGHT ON CROKER WEALTH

and that they feel it will not be difficult to show him that continuance of the court proceeding will have no beneficial effect on either side. Those friends, it also is understood, always have maintained the friendliest of relations with all of the children of the former Tammany leader, and it was said yesterday they anticipate little trouble in convincing Howard Croker, Richard Croker, Jr., and their sister, Mrs. Ethel White of Cedarhurst, L. I., that the best ends of all will be served by a termination of the legal fight as speedily as possible.

William F. McCombs of the firm of McCombs & Ryan, counsel for Howard Croker and his brother and sister, indicated yesterday that thus far neither Howard, Richard, Jr., nor Mrs. White had been approached by intermediaries on behalf of their father. He said that when the argument on the temporary injunction obtained last Tuesday by Howard comes up before Judge Donnell at Palm Beach in about two weeks he would be present and argue against any motion that may be made by counsel for Mrs. Croker, Sr., to have the present injunction set aside.

Mr. McCombs explained that if the injunction is sustained and Judge Donnell appoints a master or commission to examine Mr. Croker, Sr., regarding his qualifications to handle his affairs, it is likely that the proceedings will drag out several months before the matter is definitely decided by the court. He refused to say whether it was the purpose of the plaintiff in the proceeding to place his father on the witness stand, and in reply to other questions along that line declared that he would not discuss such matters in advance of the hearing.

What part Mrs. Florence Croker Morris of London, England, oldest daughter of the one-time ruler of Tammany Hall, will play in the legal action started by her brothers and sisters was a mystery yesterday. Mr. McCombs asserted that she was in sympathy with the proceeding started by her brother Howard, although no mention of her name is made in any of the affidavits thus far made public by Mr. McCombs and all of which were filed last Tuesday in the Palm Beach Circuit Court along with Howard Croker's complaint against his stepmother.

When it became known several days ago that Howard had instituted an injunction proceeding against his stepmother it was said that Mrs. Morris was expected to have submitted an affidavit to accompany those submitted with Howard's complaint, and that she intended to come to this country to confer with her brothers and sister regarding the proceeding against Mrs. Bula E. Croker.

Mr. McCombs said yesterday that Mrs. Morris's affidavit did not get to this city in time to be sent to Palm Beach with the other papers submitted in the injunction proceedings, and he declared he did not know whether she intended to journey across the ocean to confer with the other Croker children.

He admitted that he had prepared several other affidavits for submission in the injunction proceeding, but he asserted those affidavits were signed by persons other than members of the Croker family. He said he had instructed Samuel Adamson, a member of the firm of McCombs & Ryan, to file certain affidavits if the circumstances in Palm Beach warranted his doing so, and that he had not received any word from Mr. Adamson up to last evening as to whether any other affidavits were filed along with Howard Croker's complaint in addition to those made by the petitioner, Richard Croker, Jr., and their sister, Mrs. White.

Harold Nathan of the firm of Leventritt, Cook, Lehman & Nathan, for many years counsel for Croker the elder, left yesterday for Palm Beach to advise with his client regarding opposition to the injunction proceeding when it comes up before Judge Donnell. He said that Mr. Croker, Sr., intends to fight to have the temporary injunction obtained by his son, Howard, dissolved, and declared his belief that Mrs. Morris was not in sympathy with the move made by Howard and her other brother and her sister. He mentioned the fact that Mrs. Morris's name has not appeared in any of the papers submitted thus far in the case, and intimated that he did not expect her name would appear at any future proceeding brought by her brothers and sister.

Mr. Nathan said that he was not prepared to discuss the possibility of Mr. Croker, Sr., being examined in Florida regarding his past political life.

Counsel to See Richard Croker, Sr.

"I shall take up that and other matters with Mr. Croker, Sr., when I confer with him at Palm Beach," declared Mr. Nathan. "I am certain, though, that my client does not fear the outcome of this suit, which originated entirely out of spite, petty jealousy and malice. Mr. Croker, Sr., is in good shape physically and mentally and is able to stand the ordeal of a prolonged examination, should it be necessary for him to do so.

"I do not know what my client's plans are, but you can be certain that both he and his wife will fight to the limit. I shall appear as counsel for Mrs. Croker in the injunction proceeding and I shall ask for the dismissal of the temporary injunction granted last Tuesday."

Friends of Mr. Croker, Sr., in this city yesterday expressed surprise that his children should accuse him of being mentally unsound and under the absolute domination of his wife in the management of his affairs. Among those who declared that the old leader of Tammany is as keen and alert mentally as he was in the palmiest days of his dictatorship of Tammany Hall was William F. Schneider, County Clerk, who called on Mr. Croker, Sr., last February at his home in Palm Beach. Mr. Schneider, although he has known the one-time Tammany leader for more than twenty years, declared he never was associated with him politically, but during Mr. Croker's régime as leader of Tammany Hall he had often come in contact with him, and during his conversation with him last February he could see no reason for suspecting that Mr. Croker, Sr., was not mentally competent to conduct his affairs.

"He did not look like a man nearing his 80th year," he said, "but rather like one of 65 or 70, tanned, solid, weighing about 185 pounds, and walking with shoulders thrown back, head erect and a firm step. At West Palm Beach every one seemed to know him and to like him. All saluted him in friendly spirit, and he responded in just as happy a manner."

Mr. Schneider said he and his brother-in-law, Mr. Inglessl, proprietor of the Hibiscus Hotel at Palm Beach, called on Mr. Croker.

"Mrs. Croker received us cordially," said Mr. Schneider, "but withdrew after her husband had entered the room. Mr. Croker discussed matters in the manner of a man who feels a lively interest in men and events. First he spoke about the development of Palm Beach during the last twelve years, mentioning the fact that his plot of ground was formerly part of a wilderness, and the various improvements undertaken and carried through.

"When the conversation drifted to New York politics, he inquired about men he knew who are still active in New York politics. We judged from his comments that he was keeping a pretty close watch on New York events."

CROKER UNDER EYES OF ALIENIST AT HOME

Dr. Ralph N. Green Will Spend Three Days Making Mental Examination.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., April 2.—After putting in a fairly good day's work for a man of 79, Richard Croker retired to his home, "The Wigwam," tonight with an alienist, who during the next three days will examine him as to his sanity, but who has promised to let him off long enough tomorrow to call on his lawyers and attend a meeting at the First National Bank, of which he is a Director.

The alienist, Dr. Ralph N. Green, formerly in charge of the medical staff for the Florida State Hospital for the Insane and during the war specialist on neuro-psychiatry for the Southern Department of the Army, received from his laboratory in Jacksonville today the supplies he will need in the examination, and said he would be through with his observations by Monday.

Numerous friends of the old Tammany chieftain are rallying to his support, and among those from whom affidavits will be accepted are Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, and James W. Gerard of New York, who called on Mr. Croker this afternoon and said they would like the privilege of testifying to their belief that he is mentally robust and sound.

A new development today was the arrival from New York of S. A. Adamson, a lawyer from the office of William F. McCombs and Frederick R. Ryan, who are counsel for Howard and Richard Croker, Jr. Their local attorney, M. D. Carmichael, who prepared the bill of complaint alleging that Richard Croker is of unsound mind, is said to have gone to New York with the Croker sons.

"We have no desire to place Richard Croker in an asylum," said Mr. Adamson tonight. "His children don't want him in an institution. It is not our contention that he is crazy, but that he is mentally unable to take care of his business and should be protected. I am authorized to say that Richard Croker, Jr., would, if necessary, be willing to waive whatever rights he might have to every cent of his father's fortune if this would bring about a proper adjustment of their family difficulties. The children are bringing the suit because of certain accusations made by the father. We claim that these accusations were inspired by his wife for the purpose of bringing about an estrangement between him and his children. The children propose to clear the good name of the family before their father's death. They want their father to know during his lifetime that he is falsely accusing them."

Mr. Adamson said his side of the case would have liked to have their own alienist present at the examination of Mr. Croker now in progress, but had not been asked to. He said they would prove their case as alleged when they got into court. He laughed at Mrs. Croker's affirming of her age yesterday as 29, and said he would prove she is 41. When asked why this was material, Mr. Adamson said it had been very material to Mr. Croker, who believed in 1914 that he was marrying a girl of 23.

"This suit is to protect Mr. Croker," he said. "We think the handling of his estate ought to be in competent hands. He already has deeded to Mrs. Croker his estate in Ireland, we hear, which is reputed to be worth at last $1,000,000. About the estate in Florida we do not know definitely. Of course, we had to sue down here because the New York courts would not have jurisdiction over property in this State."

H. L. Bussey, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Croker, filed a motion today asking dismissal of the suit on the technical grounds that Mr. Croker had never given his son, Howard, the right to sue as his next friend. Howard having brought the suit for him, alleging that he is incompetent, and that the bill shows he has never been adjudicated insane and that legally he is therefore sane and would have to give permission for such court action.

As an illustration of the fact that Richard Croker is still conducting his affairs about the same as he did when he was leader of Tammany Hall the story was told today of his recent visit to a local hotel when he heard a detective employed by his son had made a remark derogatory to Mrs. Croker. Inquiring for him by name at the desk, he was told that the man was out.

"What is his room number?" asked Croker.

Without more ado he grabbed the hotel clerk by the shoulder and marched him upstairs, where he had him open the man's door with a pass key. The man was out and, according to report, never returned. When Croker's friend, William J. Conners, heard the story he remarked.

"Dick has still got one good punch left in him and it's my bet that before this trial is over some one will get it. His sons ought to know him. That they have made the allegations they have in this suit shows they must be fools or crazy."

Mr. Conners has been on his farm some forty miles out in the Everglades, and could not be reached until a late hour tonight.

BIG JEWEL ROBBERY AT BRETTON HALL

Sneak Thief or Burglar Carries Off Booty Valued at Several Thousand Dollars.

LOSER'S IDENTITY HIDDEN

Attempts Are Being Made to Recover the Stolen Property by Negotiations.

Detectives yesterday searched all the pawnshops in the city in quest of several thousand dollars' worth of jewelry stolen some time between Tuesday afternoon and early yesterday morning from an apartment on the fourth floor of Bretton Hall, Broadway and Eighty-sixth Street. The fact that a sneak-thief or burglar got into the hotel was kept a secret by the owner of the jewelry—a woman—as well as the management of the hotel and the police, and efforts last night to obtain information about the robbery from the owner were futile.

That the owner of the jewelry is mystified by the manner in which the robbery was effected was apparent from a conversation with employes of the hotel. It was learned that few of the guests of the hotel knew that one of their number had been robbed, and it was explained last night by one of the assistant managers that secrecy was maintained because of the desire of the woman who lost the jewelry to effect its return through private negotiation with the thief or a representative.

In line with the desire to obtain the return of the stolen jewelry, the following advertisement appears in THE TIMES this morning:

A liberal reward will be paid, positively no questions asked, for the return of the following property stolen from room on fourth floor, Bretton Hall, Broadway and 86th Street, between March 31 and April 2:

One pair of earrings (diamond and pearl), one platinum heart-shaped brooch filled with diamonds, one set pearl studs (gold setting), one gold mesh bag, one chain set with diamonds, one woman's watch, open face, platinum and gold, over 120 diamonds in case; one gold vanity case set with diamonds, initials E. L. M. on one side, diamond heart in upper right-hand corner; two diamond hairpins, one pearl stud, one platinum bar pin set with sapphires. Communicate with E. B. Hopwood, 55 John Street, New York City. Telephone Beekman 8087.

The signer of the advertisement is Everett B. Hopwood, an insurance adjuster, who has met with considerable success in the past in breaking up organized bands of automobile thieves, as well as in recovering property stolen from guests of hotels and residents of apartment houses in the city. It is understood that the list of jewelry stolen from the Bretton Hall apartment was insured and that Mr. Hopwood has been requested by the owner to make a special effort to recover the property, because many of the articles taken were heirlooms and wedding presents.

Secrecy, it was learned, also was advised by the detectives who were assigned to the case. It is understood that the detectives obtained information during the day which may lead to an arrest in the robbery. Whether their hopes of arresting the thief were founded on fingerprints discovered in the looted apartment could not be learned.

TWO HELD WITH PLATINUM.

Detectives Investigate Their Story of How They Got $50,000 Worth.

Headquarters detectives investigating the safe robbery of last Jan. 5 in which Roesler & Hasslacher, chemists of Perth Amboy, N. J., lost platinum worth $75,000, arrested yesterday in Gold Street Robert E. Carter, a miner, living at the Hotel Gerard, and Joseph Frederick, an actor, of St. Louis. Carter, the detectives say, had $10,000 worth of platinum in his possession and in a leather bag he had checked at the hotel was found another $45,000 worth of the metal.

Carter told the detectives, they said, that he mined the platinum himself at Cobalt, Ontario, Canada, and both he and his companion denied knowledge of the robbery. No charge was made against them, but both were held at Police Headquarters pending investigation of their story.

Refuses Injunction in Dry Law Fight

AUGUSTA, Me., April 2.—Chief Justice Cornish, of the Supreme Court, denied today a motion for a temporary injunction to restrain Governor Milliken from opposing the plea of Rhode Island in that State's action to test the constitutionality of the prohibition amendment in the United States Supreme Court. The finding was in the suit of Winfield S. Reed, a member of the Legislature, who sought to prevent the use of State funds by the Governor in the employment of Charles E. Hughes of New York as counsel in opposition to the Rhode Island proceedings.

PLANS TO RELIEVE REAL RUM ADDICTS

Illinois Enforcement Director Proposes a Bureau to Supply and Regulate Their Needs.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Captain Hubert Howard, Prohibition Enforcement Director for Illinois, is working out a plan whereby habitual users of alcoholic stimulants and confirmed drunkards, particularly those whose resources are too small to allow the payment of much money for prescriptions, will be assured of a steady supply necessary to ward off an attack of delirium tremens.

The plans contemplate a special bureau to register all persons who are true addicts to liquor with a view to regulating as well as assuring their whisky supply.

"There is undoubtedly a great need for such work," Captain Howard said today. "As the situation stands now, it is the impoverished drunkard—the 'protoplasmically alcoholic'—that is suffering. Without question, there are many such persons for whom a sudden deprivation of all whisky means physical disaster. The law as it stands recognizes no addicts, a fact which places this class at the mercy of every shyster physician, who does not hesitate to profiteer at the expense of his patient."

Captain Howard pointed out that the closing of the great majority of drink cure institutions makes the need of such an innovation all the more necessary.

"With a disinterested staff physician to examine applicant addicts and prescribe according to their needs," said the Captain, "we could very soon do away with illicit profiteering of this nature, and I am sure that in this way the public would realize that we are trying to do the square thing all around and give us the whole-hearted co-operation in the enforcement of the prohibition laws that we so greatly need and have, unfortunately, not received."

The Director charged that the public's attitude toward the dry laws is encouraging more saloon keepers than ever to run their places wide open in defiance of the authorities.

WHISKY THIEVES TAKE DISTILLERY'S LAST DROP

In Sixteenth Visit to Maryland Warehouse They Empty Forty-fifth Barrel.

GRANTSVILLE, Md., April 2.—On the sixteenth visit to the warehouse of the Fairchance Distillery thieves took the last drop of forty-five barrels of liquor left by the distillers at the time wartime prohibition became effective.

It is believed that the distillery was the most robbed whisky warehouse in the United States. It is situated in a rather lonely spot. The whisky taken is valued at between $30,000 and $40,000.

JOIN TO FIGHT DRY LAWS.

Bay State Citizens Organize a "Liberty League."

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 2.—Prominent citizens of the State have organized the "Constitutional Liberty League" with the aim of obtaining a modification of the present prohibition law.

Officers have been elected as follows: Charles S. Rackemann, President; Ralph Adams Cram and Dr. Charles M. Green, Vice-Presidents; Francis R. Bangs, Secretary, and Alexander Lincoln, Treasurer.

In addition to the foregoing the directorate includes C. W. Barron, Reginald De B. Boardman, Moses Williams, William Roscoe Thayer, Bentley Warren, Thomas T. Baldwin, Hugh Bancroft, Charles B. Barnes, John T. Burnett, James D. Colt, Dr. William M. Conant, Louis A. Coolidge, Henry R. Dalton, Gordon Dexter, Edward H. Eldredge, Asa P. French, Irvin Garfield, Robert Seaver Hale, R. Clipston Sturgis, Dr. Myles Standish, Dr. Frederick C. Shattuck, Herbert Parker, General Samuel D. Parker, Francis Peabody and James M. Prendergast.

The league plans to conduct a campaign of education as to the "evils and dangers" of national prohibition, to promote temperance, to obtain State regulation of liquor traffic in the exercise of its police powers, to obtain repeal of the Volstead act and reveal or annulment of the Eighteenth Amendment, "to oppose any unreasonable and oppressive Federal or State law or action designed to enforce the amendment," and to support beer and wine measures in this State.

SEIZE STILLS AND LIQUOR.

Federal prohibition enforcement agents, in charge of Captain William D. Allen, of the Brooklyn office, raided a house in Marlow Avenue, Corona, L. I., on Thursday night and arrested Dominico Pipple and Mareuri Dominello on a charge of violating the Volstead act. According to Captain Allen, two stills, each of fifty gallons capacity, three vats, with a capacity of 500 gallons each; two tons of mash and fifteen barrels of whisky were found in the basement. The condition of the stills indicated that they had long been in use.

The agents destroyed the whisky, except a small amount kept for evidence. Captain Allen stated that the plant was the most efficient illicit outfit that he had seen and represented a considerable investment.

ARMY TRIAL SHOWS FRICTION AT MANILA

Major D. P. Quinlan, Accused of Embezzlement, Says He Is a "Dreyfus Victim."

JEALOUSY AMONG OFFICERS

Plot and Counterplot Alleged Among Directors of the Island National Guard.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANILA, April 2.—Revealing irregular conditions in the Philippine National Guard both before and after federalization, and indicating that personal jealousies among high ranking officers kept that organization in constant turmoil of plot and counterplot, the court-martial of Major Dennis P. Quinlan, Department Judge Advocate, on charges of embezzlement and conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman, is developing into a personal duel between the accused and Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Jones, aid to Governor General Harrison, Adjutant General of the guard and Colonel and Assistant Chief of Constabulary, who is drawing pay for all three jobs.

The charges contain six specifications growing out of an investigation made by the department inspector, Colonel Wheeler, at the solicitation of the accused himself. The Court is composed of Colonels Heard, Wallace, Talbott, Frazier, Silliman, Reese, Nix, Crane and Smith, with Lieutenants Rice and Browning as Judge Advocates and Captain Pope and Lieutenant Crouter as counsel for the defense, assisted by Mr. Hill, a civilian attorney.

It appears from the testimony of numerous witnesses that during the formation of the guard in 1918 the accused was detailed by the War Department to the Governor General's staff as Acting Colonel and Inspector General of the guard, later being placed in charge of an officers' training school and finally being promoted to the rank of Acting Brigadier General. In August he issued a memorandum establishing the military institute. About $6,000 was advanced by the post exchange to cover the cost of books and furniture sold to the military institute and officers through Colonel Quinlan. The furniture belonged to Quinlan, as did also a large percentage of the books.

The prosecution claims that the values placed on them were extraordinarily high.

Soon thereafter public contributions were solicited for the military institute and other camp activities. This money Quinlan deposited in a joint bank account with Mrs. Quinlan, together with the funds advanced by the post exchange. Later Quinlan purchased Liberty bonds with the whole of this account.

The defense has shown that when Quinlan saw the impossibility of incorporation, and the institute management going to shifts of officers, he decided to return the contributions and ordered Major Powell to make out corresponding checks. Before these checks were mailed Powell was ordered by General Jones, in the presence of General Day, then division commander, to cease all activity in connection with the military institute. Quinlan, however, subsequently assumed all obligations and satisfied all claims out of personal funds.

Quinlan was then called to the office of Acting Governor General Yeater and confronted with charges of having sold personal effects to the guard. Newspaper men were waiting in an anteroom and, the defense says, Quinlan was virtually forced to make a public statement of the affair.

Questioned during the court-martial, Yeater admitted that he advised Quinlan to straighten the matter out immediately in the belief that his case would not stand up in a court of equity. He caused some amusement by stating that he did not know he was commander in chief of the guard and did not bother with its affairs.

General Jones, testifying, denied any conflict of authority with Quinlan, but his cross-examination by Quinlan developed into a veracity contest. General Jones admitted that he had authorized the sale of about 1,000 shirts at 7 pesos which cost the Government 11 pesos.

Quinlan stated that his private mail had been opened by the civil authorities in transit, thus indirectly giving rise to the present trouble, and that he is being "Dreyfusized" by the civil authorities.

Why Doesn't Your Sleep Rest You

WHEN a man really rests, sleeping soundly all night, he wakes up with a new feeling of being alive—almost like being made over again.

But how often you hear some one say—"Oh, I sleep all right, but it doesn't seem to rest me!"

Probably this has happened to you many a time. The fact is that you do not sleep soundly—and your bed had more to do with it than you realize.

A creaky bed, a bed that sways, a spring that sags and lets you down into a hollow—puts your nerves on edge and makes your muscles tense.

For deep, sound sleep you must have a bed that invites every nerve and muscle to relax.

The Simmons Metal Bed is noiseless.

A Simmons Spring is always resilient and restful—never sags or humps.

That is why people sleep so much better in a Simmons Bed and Spring than in a wooden bed or ordinary metal bed.

And that is why Simmons Company is specializing in Twin Beds. One sleeper does not disturb the other, or communicate colds and other infections.

With the addition of Mattresses to their well-known Metal Beds and Springs, the Simmons line is the most popular complete sleeping equipment in America today—built for sleep. Sold in the stores of leading merchants all over this section.

Your choice of very beautiful designs in Enameled Steel and Lacquered Brass—at prices little if any higher than for ordinary beds.

And when you are selecting your Simmons Beds with an eye to their appearance in the room, you will see that Simmons has for the first time established beautiful and authoritative design in Metal Beds.

The Simmons "Mt. Vernon" Spiral Spring

Spiral spring bed—box spring type. Eighty extra heavy continuous wind spirals of best grade, high carbon, tempered premier wire. The extra heavy border wire is feature of this spring. DOING

Many are the plans projected that are never begun.

Irresolution is the handicap to progress. Business doesn't prosper by intentions.

There is work to be done. The key to growth is "DOING." Skolny Clothes illustrate the principle. Doing better and better by our customers. That's our ideal of service.

No dealer ever says to us:

"In a general way I like your line, but I want finer. When I place my order, won't you strengthen the tailoring — improve, refine it?"

Such requests are often made to manufacturers — but never to us.

In the Skolny shops, the most exacting demand of the most critical dealer is anticipated. The Clothing faculties of our trained experts see to that. We haven't the courage to slur or skimp Skolny Clothes at any point. Our one fear is that they will not realize our ideal of tailoring.

Therefore, we are doing everything possible, not only to sustain the standard set, but to lift it higher. Merchants who are familiar with our production methods don't even glance at the workmanship.

The quality is taken for granted.

Hate to think what would happen if it ever failed.

CALM AFTER STORM OVER ALIEN CASES

Post Retains Evidence Sought in His Files by House Committee.

STATEMENT FROM JOHNSON

Representative "Hopes" Committee Won't Have to Take Possession of Deportation Papers.

WASHINGTON, April 2 (Associated Press).—Mr. Post, Acting Secretary of Labor, denied today that the House Immigration Committee had taken possession of evidence in the case of a number of aliens recently ordered deported and subsequently released, as announced yesterday by Chairman Johnson of the House Committee. Mr. Johnson followed with this statement:

"Chairman Johnson said it was the hope of the committee that in view of the facilities offered by Acting Secretary Post it would not be necessary to remove from the Department of Labor any files relative to deportation matters."

"The committee is in the position of a man who goes into a library to read books," said the Acting Secretary.

The House Committee, which is investigating radical agitation with a view to strengthening existing laws, is represented as being dissatisfied with the manner in which the Department of Labor has handled the cases of several hundred of the two thousand and more persons arrested in the recent raids by the Department of Justice.

Chairman Johnson has announced that evidence has been obtained which convinces the committee that the I. W. W. are allied with the Communists and that they should be deported. The Department of Justice also is known to be dissatisfied with the manner in which the Department of Labor has proceeded on the deportation warrants.

ARGUES FOR DISARMAMENT.

London Daily News Urges Europe Thus to Reassure America.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, April 3.—The Daily News, in an editorial on "America and the Army," says:

"America takes the armament question seriously. One reason for her reluctance to provide loans for Europe is her belief that Europe is wasting money on armaments that it might be using for reconstruction. Nothing will bring the two hemispheres together more rapidly than a demonstration from this side of the Atlantic of the sincerity of the resolve to disarm.

"There has not been much sign of such a demonstration as yet, but this country can at least claim that it has moved as far in the right direction as any one. Nothing could be more beneficial to Anglo-American relations than the invitation, extended more than once by Mr. Long, in speaking officially as First Lord of the Admiralty, for a competition with America, not in increase of armament, but in decrease. The decision of Canada to suspend all action on Jellicoe's recommendations and actually to diminish its slender naval equipment while the whole future of armaments remains uncertain will have the same effect, it remains for other European nations to act in the same spirit."

PERU ENGAGES GEN. GORGAS

He Sails for New York After Having Signed a $15,000-a-Year Contract.

LIMA, Peru, April 1.—Major Gen. William C. Gorgas, former Surgeon General of the United States Army, sailed today on his way to New York, Belgium and West Africa, after having accepted a five-year contract with the Peruvian Government to direct an extensive sanitation program here. The retaining fee to be paid General Gorgas will be $15,000 a year.

The General will return to Peru in January, his assistant, Colonel Wrightson, remaining in charge during his absence.

May Go Beyond 20 Per Cent.

"Section 2 does not, as is commonly supposed, fix the limit of rent increase within one year at 25 per cent. It merely shifts the burden of proof from the defendant, where it ordinarily would lie in case of an affirmative defense, to the plaintiff. Where the rent increase has been less than 25 per cent. the tenant has to show its oppressiveness. Where it is more than 25 per cent. the burden is shifted upon the landlord to show its reasonableness. There is, however, nothing to prevent the landlord in a proper case from showing that an increase over and above 25 per cent. is, as a matter of fact, reasonable."

With the adjournment of the Legislature only two weeks off the Committee of Trade Association Representatives, which is going to seek legislative relief for the tenants of loft buildings, hastened preparations to combat the landlords. At a meeting of a sub-committee in the offices of the Dress and Waist Manufacturers' Association, 220 Fifth Avenue, it was decided that questionnaires would be distributed not only among the members of the organization, but among merchants and manufacturers generally. They will be asked to state what rent they at present are paying and what, if any, increase they have been notified will be asked of them. The facts disclosed by the questionnaire will be submitted to the Legislature, said H. Uviller, Chairman of the committee.

The joint board of the Cloak, Suit and Reefer Makers' Union, claiming a membership of 100,000, through its President, Israel Feinberg, announced during the day that it would join the movement against the rent profiteers.

"Any movement to help improve conditions in industry and to cheapen the cost of production, without reducing wages of the workers, will find support of the union," said Mr. Feinberg. "We will be glad to work with the manufacturers to end the rent profiteering evil."

Garment Salesmen to Aid.

Similar promises of support came from the Garment Salesmen's Association, which maintains that unreasonably high rents tend to increase the cost of clothing and make the salesman's task of earning a livelihood more difficult.

Members of the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers' Association, according to Mr. Uviller, have been advised by members of the Legislature that they are willing to support the passage of a bill to curb the mounting rents in the business section of the city. With this encouragement the association's representatives on Monday will submit a bill, which has been drawn by Samuel Blumberg, attorney for the Committee of Trade Association Representatives, limiting loft and office building rental increases. This proposed measure will provide for a system of taxation depriving landlords of the profits reaped from rent increases beyond justifiable limits.

"We hope to gain the support of every trade and civic organization in New York City," said Mr. Uviller. "The increases in rents in the business district which are being demanded by unscrupulous real estate owners are having a decidedly bad effect on trade conditions."

The Riverside Tenants' League, 200 West Ninety-sixth Street, including residents between Fifty-ninth Street and Washington Heights on the west side, will hold a meeting on Monday night at Wadleigh High School, 114th Street near Seventh Avenue, to hear elucidations of the new rent bills. The speakers will include Senator Abraham Kaplan, legal adviser of the league; Health Commissioner Royal S. Copeland, James F. Gannon of Jersey City, Justice Spiegelberg, Assemblyman W. C. Amos, and John J. O'Keefe. Senator Kaplan, who helped draft some of the rent laws, will be prepared to answer questions about them.

Germ life cannot live with Disinfection

The day you start to practice regular disinfection will be the day that disease germs cease to menace your health and that of those around you.

Proper disinfection is not a fad—it's just common sense and good business. If it is cheaper and more desirable to be healthy than sick, intelligent and continual disinfection is worth while.

Disinfection, proper sanitation and cleanliness mean death to disease germs—and the end of epidemics.

PALMER EXPLAINS COURSE ON PACKERS

Felt Time Had Come for Vindication or Conviction, He Tells House Committee.

HITS THE SUPREME COURT

Glad He Got Decree Before Steel Corporation Decision—Promises Strict Enforcement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Attorney General Palmer appeared today before the House Committee on Agriculture to explain some features of the recent decree obtained against the meat packers, wherein they were allowed to continue the sale of eggs, butter and cheese, but were not permitted to continue in the grocery business.

Mr. Palmer said that he regarded it to the benefit of the public that the packers should deal in butter and farm products because the refrigerator systems kept down the prices during unseasonable periods.

Mr. Palmer said he did not have as much confidence in the Sherman Anti-Trust law as he did before the United States Steel Corporation decision by the Supreme Court, although he expressed hope that the Government would be able to get convictions under this law in a number of cases pending.

"I am very glad that we got this decree against the packers before the steel decision," he observed.

Defends Government's Course.

In justification of the Government's action Mr. Palmer said that he had succeeded in getting certain things agreed to by the packers which were desirable and which the Government might not have been able to obtain through prosecution under the Sherman Anti-Trust act.

"I might explain here," said Mr. Palmer, "that I have established a bureau of experts who will see that the decree against the packers is absolutely enforced. I regard the decree as most important in that we halted the meat packers in entering upon what I regarded as a most potential menace, the establishment of a new form of trust that might not have been reached by present laws."

After detailing the steps which led to the prosecution of the packers, Mr. Palmer said:

"I had the feeling that, in view of the long-time investigation of the packers, the way in which that question had been mauled and hauled around in the country, they were entitled either to a vindication or the Government was entitled to a judgment; that the time had approached for a 'show-down' in the courts.

"We have taken these defendants out of every business except that which is usually the business of the butcher, the meat business; and the products which are generally handled by butchers, butter, cheese and poultry. I do not mean it to be as brutal as it sounds, but we have made 'butchers' of them. We have gotten them back, it seems to me, to the business which they originally went into, and, as to that business, we have bound them by perpetual injunction; restraining them and all these defendants among themselves or with anybody else from agreeing or combining or arranging to do anything which is an attempt to monopolize that business or to restrain trade in that business.

"In other words we have, as to the meat business, an injunction of exactly the kind that the Sherman Anti-Trust law contemplates for the Government to get against any men charged with a conspiracy in restraint of trade.

"The effect of that is that as to the meat business and its by-products and these things which they are permitted to continue in, the Government in the future, if there be evidence of monopoly or restraint of trade, will be able to go into court in this very case and present the facts to a Judge and hold these defendants guilty for contempt of court if there be a violation. So that we shall not have to proceed through all of the processes of the criminal or the civil courts in respect to that.

"The second thing we have done is to restrain and enjoin them forever collectively and individually and in every other fashion from engaging in any unlawful trade practices. The result of that will be that any person or any concern, the Government, or any individual who was able to show any unlawful practice by these defendants or any of them, will be permitted to come into court in this very case and present a showing which would entitle them to adjudication against the defendant for contempt. Those are all the things that we could possibly accomplish by a bill and an adverse decree.

"I have made no suggestion to these gentlemen as to what my position would be even with respect to legislation before Congress, and I have made no agreement or arrangement or suggestion with anybody as to what the future course of the Government is going to be with respect to litigation.

Sees Long Step Forward.

"My personal view is that I would like to see this tried out. I believe this is a great, long step forward. I believe we have gotten things for which we have been fighting for years, apparently without hope of getting. I think it will do great good. I do not promise it is going to mean immediate lowering of prices. There is great strength in the argument of an efficient, big concern, resulting in lower prices to the consumer, but it is the argument of the efficiency of autocracy.

"At any rate, we have destroyed autocracy and returned to the freedom of our democratic kind of Government for business. We have made it possible for men of all kinds, in all classes, to get into these businesses, and if that does not result in benefit to the American people, then our whole theory of competition is wrong.

"The fact that these gentlemen are multi-millionaires, if they are, has no relevancy whatever and has no kind of bearing upon this conclusion that was reached by the Department of Justice.

"I do not care whether they were rich or poor. Where the law gives to the Department of Justice the option of going into the criminal courts or the civil courts, the Attorney General ought to take the responsibility; and as long as I am Attorney General I will take the responsibility of deciding which of those processes is in the interest of the people and in the interest of justice. It does not make any difference who it is, the laws of the Department of Justice are no respector of persons in this matter.

"Let me call your attention to the fact that when the coal strike broke the Department of Justice had the option of going into the criminal court and arresting these miners for a violation of the Lever act, which was a criminal statute, or it might have gone into the courts with a writ of injunction to restrain them from further continuing in that criminal act.

"I could have put these defendants in the coal case in the position of defendants in criminal cases and probably have sent them to the penitentiary for a violation of that law. I think it would not have served the ends of justice to do so. But I did think that what we wanted to make was progress; what we wanted to accomplish was some good; what we wanted to do was to get results. And if these men were honestly mistaken or dishonestly engaged in the violation of the law and could be brought to court with real results for the people, that was the thing to do.

"There we went into a court of equity, just exactly as we are doing in this packers' case, and asked for an injunction, just as we did here, and got a decree, just as we did here, enforceable by contempt proceedings, but as the decree against the packers is enforceable."

Makes Million Dollar Whiskey Deal.

CINCINNATI, April 2.—A million dollar whisky deal was consummated here today when a Cincinnati drug firm bought from a Lexington (Ky.) distillery, for medicinal purposes, warehouse certificates for 5,000 barrels, or 250,000 gallons of the liquor. The sale price was $1.30 a gallon, the Government tax $2.20 and the State tax 50 cents, making the total cost per gallon $4.

LYNCH NEGRO AT LAURENS,

Mob Storms Jail for Victim, Who Wounded Three White Boys.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., April 2.—George Robertson, a negro, was taken from the jail at Laurens last midnight by a mob and hanged to a railroad bridge on the outskirts of the city.

Robertson was charged with having cut three white boys with a knife after interfering in behalf of another negro in a dispute with the boys.

The police arrested Robertson and then started a search for the other negro. While the search was in progress the mob stormed the jail, obtained the prisoner and rushed him to the bridge, where he was hanged. Later the body was riddled with bullets.

WARNS PROFITEERS 'PULL' WILL FAIL

Federal Investigator Tells of Attempt by Firm Here to Delay Inquiry.

WILL SEE ALL PROTESTS

A. W. Riley Says He Will Get Facts No Matter Whom They Hit—Easy on "Little Fellows."

No amount of political wirepulling in Washington is going to influence the work of the "Flying Squadron" of the Department of Justice in running down profiteers in New York City, Armin W. Riley, chief investigator for Assistant Attorney General Francis P. Garvin, said yesterday after relating an experience with one firm. Mr. Riley, who has opened an office at Room 555, Federal Building, said he asked the firm for certain data which he knew already had been compiled. The official to whom the request was made, Mr. Riley said, remarked that "certainly, we will be glad to supply you with the information, but you cannot expect us to put our entire clerical force at work on this data, so you won't mind waiting for four or five days."

Meantime, Mr. Riley said, word came by telephone from Washington that the firm was trying to work the political wires in Washington in order to get out of supplying the information called for. The answer from Washington, Mr. Riley said, will be that the information must be supplied.

"I want to make it clear," Mr. Riley said, "that no political influence is going to figure in the work we have set out to do here. The Attorney General has told us to do this; has told us to get the facts, no matter whom they hit, and we are going to do it. The big fellow will find that no attention will be paid to his political wirepulling in Washington."

Mr. Riley will pass on all protests against his efforts that are sent to Washington. He plans to spend half the time in Washington and half here. He will get to Washington soon after complaints are sent in and will have an important part in framing the replies.

Very little trouble is anticipated from the "little fellow," Mr. Riley said, and in most cases the Grand Jury may not even be troubled with hearing the evidence against him. Where profiteering is found on a small scale the person accused will be summoned to the office of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice and will be informed that he is violating the law and action will be started if he continues to sell at the prices complained of. Mr. Riley believes there are many violations on a small scale because of a misapprehension on the part of the dealer as to his right to charge any amount he pleases. The more flagrant cases will be sent to the Grand Jury.

The "Flying Squadron," it was said at Mr. Riley's office, was sent to New York City in response to hundreds of appeals from the people to the effect that thousands of people were being victimized in the prices charged them. The squadron has operated in various sections of the United States and in Northern New York, where many cases were brought. Indictments are to be brought before the Grand Jury in Syracuse next week, it was said. A total of 107 convictions has been obtained through the work of the "Flying Squadron," the most severe penalty being the maximum of two years in one case. There have been other prison sentences, as well as fines ranging as high as $5,000. It was said the work of the Squadron in Albany had resulted in a lowering of the prices of meats and clothing.

Recently the Department of Justice agents seized 38,000 pounds of sugar from a candy manufacturer up-State who was hoarding it and selling it for 17 and 18 cents a pound. The sugar was sold by the Government to grocers at 9½ cents a pound and they in turn sold it to the consumer for 11½ cents.

"The strike of harbor workers will not be accepted as an excuse for putting up prices," Mr. Riley declared. "The dealers can't take advantage of an emergency of this kind. The poor cannot be made to suffer just because there happens to be a labor disturbance. The dealer, in putting up prices, is not being rewarded for any business acumen. The raising of prices in an emergency of this kind is just the sort of thing we are here to head off if we can."

Although the office has been open only since 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, nearly 100 complaints of high prices had been received yesterday. One person wrote of a merchant who was offering clothing at a profit of 50 to 75 per cent. Investigators were put to work on the case immediately. In their zeal to get after all the alleged profiteers, one man wrote in that a newsboy charged him 3 cents instead of 2 cents for an evening newspaper.

One complainant told of a druggist charging him 15 cents for a dozen pills taken from a bottle containing 100 pills, the whole of which ordinarily sells for 25 cents. The druggist will have to explain this transaction to Department of Justice agents. One of Mr. Riley's assistants said a thorough investigation is to be made into the reported advance of 10 cents a hundred in the price of ice, and also of the report that the price of coal is to be increased.

Mr. Riley made it plain that the staff of Department of Justice men have been sent here not merely to have a good time but to let the public know that the Lever Act is still in force and that it has teeth.

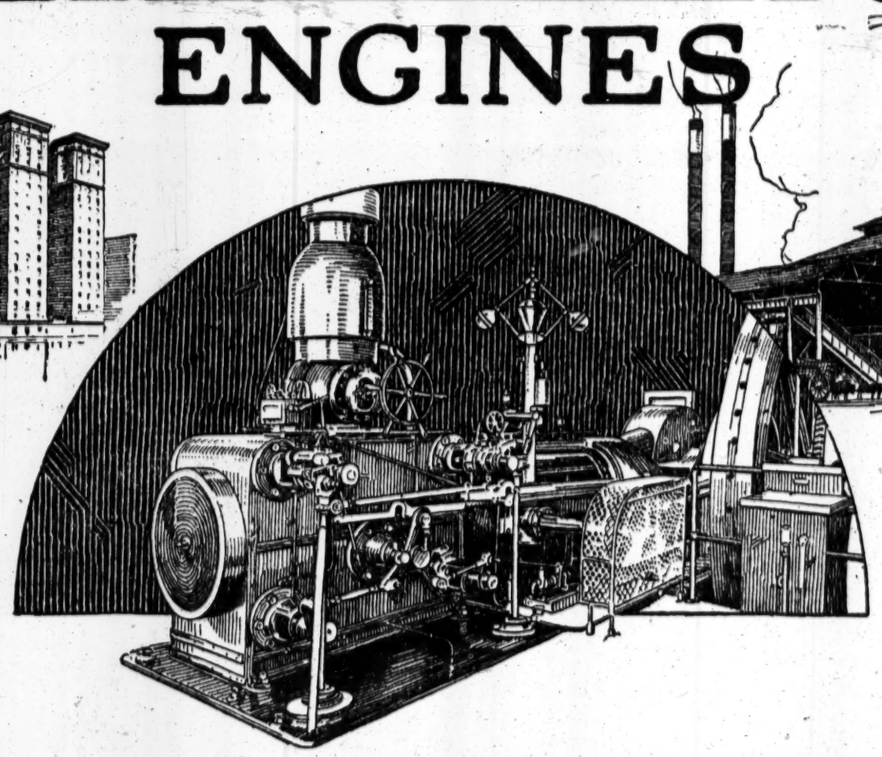
ENGINES

Pennsylvania Hotel, New York, the largest hotel in the world, depends upon a Hamilton engine for power.



Central Australia, Cuba. Three Hamilton engines drive the big Hamilton Mills.

THERE is a power requirement in the largest hotel in the world that is identical with one in every sugar mill—absolute reliability.

For this reason there is a Hamilton engine in the Pennsylvania Hotel and in many of the big Cuban sugar mills.

Though their tasks are as widely separated as their locations, the Hamilton engine in the Pennsylvania and a Hamilton Sugar Mill engine have this one thing in common—a dependability born of correct design, inherent quality of material, and skilled workmanship.

The Sugar Mill engine must drive the heavy mills and machinery every day through the long grinding season. Any failure would result in disastrous loss that could never be recovered.

Therefore, more Hamilton engines and machinery are installed every year in Cuban sugar mills.

ARMY BILL TO COME FIRST IN SENATE

Lodge Announces That the Measure Will Have Right of Way After Civil Service Bill.

BITTER FIGHT IN PROSPECT

Some Senators Fear That Contentious Training Provision May Prevent Expected June Recess.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The Army Reorganization bill, containing provision for universal military training, will have the right of way in the Senate as soon as the Civil Service Retirement bill now pending has been disposed of, Senator Lodge announced today on his return to Washington from a brief rest.

The announcement caused surprise, as it was expected that the army bill might be deferred on account of the sharp fight it is expected to precipitate. The opponents of universal training in the Senate are determined to eliminate that feature from the bill, and the legislative battle, some Senators thought, might be so prolonged as to interfere seriously with plans for a recess or adjournment in June.

Mr. Lodge said in this connection that he did not know whether it would be possible to dispose of the army bill, the dyestuffs tariff bill, and the supply bills in time for an early June recess.

The fight on universal training, Senators said, promised to be one of the bitterest of the session. Senator Wadsworth of New York, Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, which framed the bill, said that "universal training will stay in the bill until a vote of the Senate orders it out."

Opposition to the provision is based on the ground that it would cause militarism, that it would be too expensive, that it would interfere with industry and agriculture, and that the plan as proposed in the committee bill would prove ineffectual in providing an adequately trained military force.

In support of the last of these criticisms, opponents of the bill pointed to the curriculum of training provided for in a four months' period. It included "general educational training and vocational training in appropriate trades which may be necessary in war and useful in peace; scientific agriculture, physical training, instruction in American history, principles and forms of government, and such other training as may be adapted to qualify those receiving it."

Those opposing the training section said it would be impossible to give adequate training in four months in the subjects enumerated, and that the men so trained would have to be trained all over in time of war before they would constitute a trained army.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Chairman Wadsworth was authorized today by the Senate Military Committee to introduce an amendment to the Army Reorganization bill providing for the enlistment of American Indians not to exceed 10,000 as a separate unit of the army.

Upon discharge the Indians would have all the rights of American citizens, in addition to their tribal rights.

CHARGES FORCED CAR SALE.

Sailor Says Actors' Pistol Hastened Auto Transfer.

Thomas Mosely, a Portuguese sailor, living in a sailors' home at 25 South Street, made affidavit before Magistrate Tobias in Washington Heights Court yesterday that at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon he was sitting in his automobile at 140th Street and Lenox Avenue when Le Roy Jones, a young negro actor, climbed in, showed a pistol and compelled him to drive to a house in West 135th Street and there sign a bill of sale transfering the car to Jones.

Jones presented the bill of sale and said the sailor voluntarily sold him the car for $125, but he was held in $2,000 bail for further examination on a charge of robbery.

DAZED, HELD AS VAGRANT.

Aged Woman Released After 36 Hours in Tombs When Son Appears.

Mrs. Clara Weiser, 85 years old, mother of Aaron Weiser, glass merchant, whose home is at 943 East 225th Street, was released yesterday on a suspended sentence by Magistrate Ten Eyck, in the Tombs Police Court, after having been detained a day and a half in the Tombs on a charge of vagrancy. Although a general alarm for her had been sent out by the Bureau of Missing Persons, the police did not discover her whereabouts until late Thursday night. When arraigned in court Mrs. Weiser was well dressed, and there was nothing in her appearance to indicate that she was a vagrant.

Mrs. Weiser was found on Wednesday by Traffic Policeman Berne sitting on the steps of 131 Varick Street. Arraigned at that time, she almost collapsed. She could remember her name but not her address. She was remanded for further examination.

Mrs. Elisabeth Hardencourt, probation officer, learned Mrs. Weiser's address yesterday and communicated with her son, who came at once to the court. Mrs. Weiser told Magistrate Ten Eyck that she started to visit her brother on Hudson Street, but was exhausted by the walk from the subway.

Mr. Weiser asked for the discharge of his mother, but Magistrate Ten Eyck replied that he believed a woman of her age should be more carefully cared for and suspended sentence.

HERBERT YET FIGHTS NOISE.

Defeated in Court, Composer Appeals to Health Board.

Undismayed by the discharge in the West Side Court of his musical neighbors, Victor Herbert, the composer, has taken the advice of Magistrate McGeehan and appealed to the Health Department.

Mr. Herbert's daughter said yesterday that the health authorities had promised Mr. Herbert to look into the matter and see what could be done. As matters now stand, the musician must listen to trombone, piano and violin practice next door from 9:30 A. M. to 8 P. M., however it interferes with his composing.

WE SHALL KEEP FAITH

LOCOMOBILE—MERCER—SIMPLEX

What new types of cars and trucks will Hare's Motors build?

THE outstanding characteristic of the motor vehicle market of the past five years has been its evolution towards a strict transportation basis.

Whereas in the early days of the industry passenger motor cars were bought for the pleasure and diversion they would give, they are bought today almost solely as a means of getting from place to place—in varying degrees of comfort, it is true, but nevertheless primarily for travel rather than for recreation pure and simple.

The buying of motor trucks, too, thoroughly haphazard before the science of motor haulage was fully understood, has become very much a matter of elementary arithmetic based on known or easily determinable factors.

By the process of this evolution the problem of the car buyer and the problem of the truck buyer have become essentially the same, though the one relates to the passenger mile and the other to the ton mile.

Hare's Motors enters the field of motor vehicle production prepared to meet this market intelligently. Its officers, by reason of long and thorough experience, know the requirements of the situation from a to izzard. They are not going to be led into the error of building to a pet design or to a glittering theory. They intend to build transportation—passenger and freight—and to sell it on a transportation basis.

Such a program makes first quality indispensable. Products offered to the public on their transportation value must be thoroughly sound in all the fundamentals.

Quality is the keynote of the Hare's Motors policy. Mr. Hare and his associates are men of long experience in the quality field—unfamiliar, indeed, with any other. And the factory standards of Locomobile, Mercer and Simplex are too well known to the public to require description. These standards are bred into the workmen in the shops, into the foremen, into the testers, into the clerks. The entire organization thinks quality. It works as a unit to put into each day's production a little finer workmanship than that of the day before.

The Hare's Motors line of passenger cars and trucks is being added to as rapidly as possible. It will include a diversity of non-competing units, differing as to size, capacity, weight and price, but each the best that can be built to provide the character of transportation intended. Right down the line the public will receive the soundest value for the money invested and will find in every unit a vehicle constructed throughout for the particular transportation service it is designed to render.

Due announcement of all new developments will be made. In the meantime let it be understood that Locomobile, Mercer and Simplex under the direction of Hare's Motors have combined their resources to furnish, not this or that type of car or truck, but transportation, and, that what the transportation needs of the public require, their aim is to supply.

THE PAY OF TEACHERS.

Light is dawning upon the ways of the powers that be in the city schools. Mayor HYLAN denied last week that the shortage of teachers was due to inadequate salaries and attributed it solely to the activities of "self-styled school saviors," meaning the National Security League and the Citizens' Committee of One Hundred to save the schools. It was the pernicious activity of such men as CHARLES E. HUGHES, Bishop BURCH, HUGH FRAYNE, JOHN H. FINLEY and NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER that was routing the teachers. Now his Honor, through his Honor's Board of Education, admits that the shortage is due to the lack of a living wage and says: "We "are in favor of an increase for prac- "tically all teachers in the service." Justice HUGHES, HUGH FRAYNE and Bishop BURCH are to that extent exonerated.

The admission is made, it is true, merely as a preliminary concession which was apparently thought expedient, however painful. The main purport of the statement is remonstrance against the rate of increase which has the backing of Governor SMITH and the legislative leaders at Albany. Instead of the bogy of the self-styled school savior we are confronted with the more familiar terror of an increased tax rate. The added expense to the city will be about two million dollars. In most comparisons that would be a considerable sum, but not in comparison with the education of the coming generation of Americans, the integrity of the system upon which, more than any other single factor, depend the vigor and permanence of American institutions.

As to the precise measures to be taken there is still room for difference of opinion. As at present drafted the bill allots the larger advances to men and women in the more responsible posts. Protest is made that the urgent need is for numbers rather than quality—for filling the ranks in the lower grades. Yet few incentives are as great, and especially to the more desirable type of teacher, as the prospect of honorable advancement. The gain would be slight if the taxpayer assumed an added burden only to fill the schools with teachers whose ambition was limited to the present pay check. In the long run the thing of value is to give teaching a firmer and more honorable standing as a lifelong work, as a profession. Fortunately the leaders at Albany have evinced a breadth of vision which promises well for the final measure, and with it a firmness of resolution beyond the persuasions of the cheese-parer or the terrors of the bogy-man.

HOOVER AND THE LEAGUE.

The country's unsatisfied demand for the ratification of the Versailles Treaty and the League covenant every day gives added solidity and substance to the movement for the nomination of Mr. HOOVER. In its origin the movement was largely emotional. Mr. HOOVER had been extraordinarily successful in directing the work of war relief. That proved him to be a man of executive ability. He had been an eye-witness of the ravages of the war, he had personal knowledge of the terrible suffering it caused. He told the country as much as one man could tell of the distress and urgent need of the millions whom the war had left almost without shelter and without food, and he labored with unflagging zeal to relieve their needs. That touched the heart of the country, in particular it touched the hearts of the women of the country. Out of the fine feeling of gratitude and admiration for Mr. HOOVER, born of his war relief work, sprang the demand for his nomination.

Beyond that the country knew little about Mr. HOOVER. It was not acquainted with his views upon many great public questions that will become issues in the campaign; it had no idea of what kind of men he would appoint to be members of his Cabinet; it had no reason to doubt that his administration would be clean and efficient, but as to his policies there was a great deal of doubt. So the leaders in politics held back. They preferred to give their support to better known aspirants for the nomination. But now there is a new force at work, a force that has already given Mr. HOOVER a place in campaign calculations visibly higher and greater than any which he would have attained because of the admiration and confidence inspired by his war relief work. He stands squarely for the Treaty and for the League. Reservations he would admit, but to him it is unthinkable that the United States should withhold its aid and co-operation in the great works of reconstruction with which the world is confronted by the coming of peace.

The country wants the Treaty ratified, as it has always wanted it ratified. Rejection by the Senate has brought plainly into view the dangers and difficulties and intolerable conditions that would be created and perpetuated by our refusal to associate ourselves with other nations in the peace settlements. Mr. HOOVER represents the League idea more clearly and forcibly and outspokenly than any other aspirant to the nomination on either side. So the political managers are beginning to see that they must give some attention to him. The first effect probably will be a renewed interest in the League and more positive expressions in favor of ratifying the Treaty from the Republican candidates like General WOOD and Mr. LOWDEN. They and their managers will see the popular drift as quickly as anybody. In Michigan, where the primaries are to be held on Monday, Mr. HOOVER'S name is on the ballots of both the Democrats and the Republicans. It is already said by observers of the contest in that State that Mr. HOOVER will get the preference vote of the Republicans. It would be a somewhat notable incident in our politics if he should also come out at the top of the Democratic poll. That would give food for thought to the managers of both parties.

Mr. HOOVER even challenges Senator JOHNSON in his own State, California. No man ever questioned the courage of HIRAM JOHNSON, and it will not fail him now. He continues his assaults upon the League covenant; undoubtedly he will continue them up to the time of the Republican primary in California a month hence. But while he is popular in that State, an immense number of Californians, including men of high prominence, although they like the Senator, very much dislike his opposition to the League. Mr. HOOVER'S challenge gives new interest to the contest in California, which is also his own State.

There is little probability that Mr. HOOVER will get the Republican nomination, still less that he will be nominated by the Democrats. He is a Republican, confessedly he is seeking the nomination of that party. Ordinarily, that would be set down as a sufficient reason why the Democrats should refuse to name him as their candidate; besides, it is not known that Mr. HOOVER would accept the Democratic nomination—there is reason to believe he would not. But already he has become a scourge of castigation for the enemies of the Treaty and the League in the Republican Party. He embodies the League issue, he gives an opportunity for expression to millions of Republicans who could not approve the successful manoeuvrings of Mr. LODGE for the slaughter of the Treaty and the covenant. He has upset and confused the calculations of Mr. LODGE'S party throughout the land. Already he has given them no end of trouble and their troubles will increase. His strength with the people and the growing power of his name become evident to them at the very moment when the Republicans at Washington are busying themselves with the miserable subterfuge of an impossible peace resolution. They know that peace can be established only by treaty, they know that our foreign relations and treaty negotiations are the concern of the President. The killing of the Treaty was followed by a revulsion of feeling, which finds intensified expression in the support given to Mr. HOOVER. If he should fail to secure either nomination, it would be glory enough for him should he become the chosen instrument for beating some sense into the heads of the Republicans at Washington, for opening their eyes to the true sentiment of the country, and for bringing about ultimately the ratification of the Treaty.

MR. JOHNSON AND THE PRIMARIES

Senator HIRAM W. JOHNSON is properly concerned about the New York primaries, those unvarying echoes of "the people's will." "Go to the "polls in the coming preferential primaries," he entreats the simple New York voters, "and my appeal to you "is not that you shall register your "vote for a particular person, but "that you register your will against "those who by sharp practices would "deprive you of the right to register "your will at all. You should not "supinely permit any organization to "select your delegates. If you do, "you are forgetting your rights as "American citizens. You should go "to the primaries determined to "amend your primary law, because "it is a disgrace to a great State like "this."

We agree with Mr. JOHNSON that the New York State primary law is not a model of perfection, but our reasons are entirely different from his. Indeed, if he knew the working of the law better, he would find nothing to object to it from his point of view. Mr. WILLIAM M. BENNETT has found the primary law equal to his wildest hopes. Mr. BENNETT'S triumph as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor ought sufficiently to vindicate the New York primary as the vehicle of the minority. True enough, the New York primary law, like every other primary law, is a convenient instrument of "the organization" of the boss whom it was to dethrone. It is likewise notoriously a convenient instrument of the ambitions of "plutocrats" and obscure office seekers. In his own Pacific preserve Mr. JOHNSON might have noticed, for instance, the noble canvass of Mr. ELWOOD WASHINGTON and Mr. SAMUEL ADAMS, in Oregon, for the nomination for Vice President.

It is a sad fact that the opinion of candidates about a primary law depends very largely upon the number of votes that the primary affords them. Mr. JOHNSON can afford to wait. The New York primary may represent fairly enough the New York desire for his nomination. The New York primary law needs extensive reformation. It needs eminently a change that will assure the old State convention, an official general organ of the opinion of parties. Whether abolition would not be better than reformation is a question that might seriously be considered.

IN GEORGIA.

The misguided Georgians who presented a petition to put President WILSON on the primary ballot in that State have withdrawn his name of their own accord and without compelling him to the distasteful course of asking them to do it. Of course, there could have been only one issue in any case. If they had not withdrawn his name, the President would probably have ignored the request of the Secretary of State of Georgia that he define his position, and let Georgia do as it pleased.

Without regard to President WILSON'S course, Georgia still becomes interesting. The time for entries in her primaries has ended. There will be, since President WILSON'S name has been withdrawn, three candidates on her primary ballot. Of these three only Attorney General PALMER can be regarded as a national candidate. THOMAS E. WATSON, who has never declared himself a Democrat, has entered the race from the south of the State, and he would be a rash man who would predict that with all WATSON'S wonderful strength among the hill billies he will not be able to make a good showing at the polls. South from Macon, with stretches to the north and east, WATSON will have a power at the primaries that cannot be disregarded. Therefore Senator HOKE SMITH represents the conservative element which has always controlled Georgia, as against WATSON. It is Atlanta and Marietta against Thomson and points south.

The Georgia primaries, then, will come down at the last to a fight between the old Georgia conservative element and the men who follow WATSON. If PALMER can produce any showing as a national candidate, it will be because of the working of a machine. He is a Pennsylvanian, unknown to Georgia. It is rather a pity that PALMER entered the contest. It would have been better to see SMITH and WATSON fight it out.

If SMITH wins, as he should, and as he doubtless will, he will enter the convention as the only Southern candidate. He will have the old Underwood following and as much of various Southern votes as have been picked up here and there for one candidate or another. This is not to say that HOKE SMITH will influence the convention. But in such a mad place as San Francisco promises to be, the votes of Georgia, with echoes from other Southern States, might conceivably exercise a power which at this remote date we can hardly estimate. So Georgia is interesting.

PEACE IN GERMANY.

The Westphalian 'coon has come down and Germany's internal troubles appear to have ceased for the time being. Whether they will start again and how far they will go when they do start must depend on the attitude of the Ebert Government. The failure of KAPP and the threat of the Red risings in Saxony and on the Ruhr have swung that Government further to the left, have disposed of NOSKE and compelled some encouraging reforms in personnel, and they have probably also thrown a scare into the reactionaries; for while a more generally supported monarchist rising, conducted by the right men, could probably threaten German republicanism far more seriously than did the "putsch" of KAPP and LUETTWITZ, its chances of ultimate success would be very dubious. The more successful such a rising might be at the outset, the more probable the eventual collapse into Bolshevism.

In other words, the work which was begun, but only begun, by the revolution of November, 1918, has gone a long way forward. There is still much to do in the way of removing reactionary military influences from the German Government, and the progress of liberalization has been over the opposition of most of the leaders of this nominally democratic-Socialist republic. But Germany is better off, safer for the world and safer for herself, than she was before the Kapp rebellion, and the Ruhr insurgents deserve a considerable share of the credit. The exact terms of the agreement on which they gave in to the central Government are still a little obscure; but at any rate it was an agreement on terms, though whether the terms will be observed depends on the Government's control over th reactionary Generals. If the promised amnesty in Westphalia is violated, we shall see very soon whether EBERT is stronger than General VON SEECKT.

For this reasonably satisfactory outcome the French Government deserves some thanks. Our radical journals, of course, insisted that the Allies would prefer LUETTWITZ and KAPP to EBERT. It was in direct contradiction to the facts of daily occurrence and to the fundamental principles of allied relations with Germany. The Allies stood by EBERT. England and America stood by him too much, in fact; our Government's hasty assent to his request to send an army to the Ruhr was a strange thing in view of the character of that army and the influence of its leaders on the Government. The French were wiser; they wanted no Baltic divisions and no die-in-the-last-ditch Generals close to the Rhine and in control of the mining districts; nor did they want a general massacre which would have stirred up Spartacans all over Germany. The French policy offers some profitable lessons to the student of statesmanship; recognition of facts is not always reactionary nor always ruinous.

GENERAL ALLEN'S DILEMMA.

President WILSON, in his answer to a resolution of the House of Representatives asking for information about the status of "the American "military forces now stationed in "German territory," says that they "are at present operating under the "terms of the original armistice and "the subsequent conventions prolonging the armistice." According to the terms of that document, "the "countries on the left bank of the "Rhine shall be administered by the "local troops of occupation." The United States force is in the Coblenz district. Under Part XIV. of the Peace Treaty, which has not been ratified by the United States, occupation of the Coblenz district is to continue for ten years "from the coming into force of the present Treaty," as one of the guarantees for the execution of the Treaty by Germany. If the American troops were to be withdrawn in the event of a separate treaty between the United States and Germany, troops of our late allies would move into the Coblenz territory. As the United States is still technically at war with Germany, American troops are administering that territory as provided for in the armistice. It is not surprising that members of the House of Representatives were bewildered and wanted light.

When President WILSON read the full terms of the armistice to Congress he said, by way of preliminary, "the war thus comes to an end," because it would be "impossible for the German command to renew it." He did not foresee, nor did anybody else, that the United States Senate, almost a year after the drafting of the Peace Treaty, would fail to ratify it. Nor did it occur to him, or to anybody else, that after our allies were at peace with Germany the United States would still be at war with Germany, officially and theoretically. The situation being as it is, the American force in the Coblenz district must be responsive to the orders of the Commander in Chief, the President of the United States. With the ratification of the Peace Treaty by France the American force could no longer take orders from Marshal FOCH. In his reply to the resolution of the House Mr. WILSON quoted instructions from General PERSHING to the effect that the American forces would undertake no action "beyond the occupied re- "gions or beyond that in strict ac- "cordance with the terms of the "Peace Treaty." But for the troops of General ALLEN the Peace Treaty, not having been ratified by the Senate, has no substance. It is a shadow of what might have been. The status of the American command is anomalous and awkward. It is at war with the German nation, but only on paper.

Obviously General ALLEN cannot ignore the Rhineland High Commission, which was organized by our allies, upon their ratification of the Treaty, to look after the military occupation of their zones along the Rhine. There must be relations with the High Commission, although General ALLEN cannot acknowledge its jurisdiction, being the commander of troops technically at war with Germany. So the General has been instructed to get along with the High Commission as best he can, without friction if possible. He is even told that there is no objection to his sitting "informally" with the commission. Nevertheless, he is to "make it perfectly clear" to the High Commission that the American force is still "operating under the armistice" and is "in no way "bound by the terms of the Rhine- "land agreement." It is to be hoped that General ALLEN will always prove himself an officer of judgment, discretion and urbanity, for the situation is one that might be made difficult and trying by propagandists among the people with whom America is still at war. It is a part of the price we pay for not ratifying the Peace Treaty and indorsing the covenant of the League of Nations.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Everybody Now Is Bothered.

Daylight saving in the way that Congress compelled it to be done, it done at all by anybody, has now been tested for a week, and both its advantages and disadvantages are fairly well known to all. When the change to Summer time was effected under a Federal law covering the entire country, the farmers, a single class, large and important, but far from a majority of our whole population, expressed what seemed to be almost unanimous dissatisfaction, and some of them unquestionably had some real difficulties and annoyances with which to contend. None of them even pretended to be ruined, however, while practically every member of every other class was either not inconvenienced at all or gained highly valued benefits.

At present there is no denying that daylight saving is practiced here at some cost to everybody. The cost is small to most people, but, for not a few individuals and businesses, losses and inconveniences of real seriousness are imposed by the different times kept in New York and other cities, and those most troubled have good excuse for declaring that, while nation-wide daylight saving is an excellent thing, its partial application brings woes that more than counterbalance its joys.

Hence is it that demands for the abandonment of the plan are made already by some by whom daylight saving, in itself, is warmly commended. Their position is natural and reasonable, and yet there are arguments against the immediate action they propose—arguments based on the belief that if New York sticks to its determination to save daylight the rest of the country will have to come into line.

A Remedy Easy to Devise.

Whether or not New York City, or New York State, can coerce the rest of the country into doing something it doesn't want to do is a question with two answers, yes and no, with the latter the more probably correct. As it happens, however, there are great numbers of would-be daylight savers in all the other States, and this fact makes it possible that if the question were put in more tactful form the other answer would be the true one.

It must be remembered that not all the ills of our little rebellion against the edict of Congress are falling upon ourselves. The Chicago banks, for instance, found that with their time two hours later than ours, instead of one, they were losing a day's interest on several million dollars every day. That, of course, was annoying, but they devised an immediate, easy and effective remedy—they advanced their business day by an hour, and now their checks will get here in time to be cleared as before.

That incident is highly significant of what may happen elsewhere, for while New York has a queer sort of unpopularity the country over, it is not unpopularity of a kind to prevent our neighbors from coming here for frequent visits—visits which they obviously enjoy—nor does it make them at all inappreciative of the importance to themselves of keeping in commercial and financial touch with the city they dislike, or pretend to dislike.

To the more enthusiastic daylight savers, therefore, it seems more than possible—it seems probable—that if New York refuses to set its clocks back, first the whole East, and not much later at least the Nearer West, will set theirs ahead, and that by another year even the Congressmen will muster up enough courage to revive the Federal law they repealed.

An Ancient Game Still Works.

As the "Spanish prisoner swindle" has been exposed in this country at least a thousand times in the last twenty years, it is more than a little humiliating to American pride that there are among us still some who can be tricked out of their money by this ancient scheme. That the old tale still appeals is to be deduced from the fact that from Madrid still are coming the familiar letters, offering a huge sum of easy money to the recipient if only he will forward a much smaller one to the imprisoned owner of the hidden fortune. If this appeal to cupidity no longer caught victims it would have been abandoned and another invented.

Latest of such letters to be brought to the attention of THE TIMES is one that was received the other day by a reader who lives in Great Neck. How his name and address were found by the swindling gang in the Spanish capital is, as usual, a mystery, but find both they did. The selection was injudicious, as it often has been, but a few successes would make up for many failures to interest Americans in the proposed acquisition of impounded treasure, and so the game goes on.

Simplified Spelling Abandoned.

After giving approval and patronage for several years to the simplified spelling movement, the Modern Language Association of America, meeting in Columbus, Ohio, has withdrawn its sanction from the innovation as proposed by its advocates. The reasons given are lack of public interest in the new spelling, its failure to make progress, and its offensiveness to some members of the association.

These reasons are not very weighty and they are quite irrelevant to the arguments in behalf of a more nearly phonetic spelling, but they do account for the failure of the would-be reformers. The feelings of the Modern Language folk are those of a majority too large to be overcome, and it is evident that the simplification of our spelling in the future as in the past will be by slow degrees, practically accidental in character.

English spelling is, indeed, the very worst in all the world, full of the wildest inconsistencies, and as indefensible on etymological grounds as on those of common sense, but it has the great merit of being familiar to millions and millions of readers, and for the sake of that one merit they are content to accept its innumerable faults. As no question of morals is involved, consciences are unaffected.

In spelling as in language, what is, is right, and controversy is useless.

Miniature Tornadoes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. James H. Scarr, discussing the genesis of tornadoes as reported by THE TIMES, said they were produced by sharp differences of temperature in adjacent areas, and were illustrated by the burning of long narrow firelanes in the dry grass of western prairies, where dust swirls were created by the cold air on both sides drawn in by the hot air.

I have often witnessed a beautiful confirmation of this in the tropics. The classical school at Campinas, Brazil, was for some years under my charge. It was built on a hill above the town, which lay in a valley. There was a road which ascended a long hill on the opposite side of the town and plainly visible for more than a mile of extent from my study window. On either side of the road a luxuriant tropical growth covered the whole distance. In the dry season, which is also the Winter season in that region and which corresponds to our Summer, the road becomes dry and hot while the borders sheltered by the matted verdure are cool. On one of these days when not a breath of air is stirring and the huge cumulus clouds float lazily in the heavens, I could see a whirl start in the road and follow its track to the top of the hill, when it would break, and the dust carried up would float off, looking for all the world like one of the watery cumuli. At first it would have a tawny yellowish appearance, but it would gradually become white like the cloud and indistinguishable from it. Here was a miniature tornado and here lifted to the higher air was that material which later would fall on some Mont Blanc, or in the arctic regions, as cosmic dust.

Note (1) that the little tornado started in a calm; (2) that it always traveled the same course—always up the hill, never down; (3) that its course was a short one; (4) that the relations of hot and cold remaining the same, the tornado may repeat itself within the same belt. All of which agrees with Dr. Scarr's conclusions. G. NASH MORTON.

Exchange of Words.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to your editorial article in last Sunday's TIMES, regarding English words in the French language, it may be interesting to note that the following Russian words have settled comfortably in the King's English: Douma, mir, ukase, pogrom, knout, mujik, semstvo, Isba, bolshevik, Soviet. I might also mention with Mr. Anderson's approval the word "vodka," which, however, reached the English language long before the passing of the well-known and popular amendment.

Perhaps this interchange of words among the chief European languages points to the possibility of there evolving after a few brief centuries an international jargon to meet the needs and purposes of humanity so incompletely and unsuccessfully served by the Esperanto and other artificial languages.

Lady Astor on Naval Questions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May not Lady Astor be in her rightful province when discussing British naval matters, since she represents a Plymouth constituency whose ancestors went "Westward Ho," led by Drake, Raleigh, Frobisher, Sir Humphrey Gilbert and many other gallant sailor leaders who were instruments in the hands of Providence that this great American nation might be born?

THE TRAINER.

When a difficulty falls upon you, remember that God, like a trainer of wrestlers, has matched you with a rough young man. For what purpose? you may say. Why, that you may become an Olympic conqueror.—
Epictetus.

I had a puny strength until the day
When rose the rough young man beside the way—
Zeus sent him; but I could not know it then:
Of such as I his rude force counted ten.

He challenged me. But still I hung back
loath;
He flouted me, until my soul was wroth.
I rushed upon him—with a nimble thrust
He laughing sent me down to Mother
Dust!

Round upon round he worsted me; and still
I would not let him work his utmost will,
But up I rose again, and yet again,
Until of very fighting I grew fain!

Then laughed, in other wise, that rough young man (Whom Zeus had sent—to carry out His plan),
And cried: "Olympic conqueror, go—win!
For you with no mean wrestler matched have been."

So wrote the "slave of Nero's freedman"—he Who slave of no man, nor of self, could be!
Of his free order, too, and his great line,
Who takes the training set by Power
Divine!

Who, now, remembering that antagonist—
Rough Circumstance—the trial would have missed?
Though called to no Olympic wreath, he can,
Unto the end, play the full part of Man!

FOR VIENNA'S CHILDREN.

An Appeal from the Princess Metternich-Sandor.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I ask that you give space for a few paragraphs from a letter recently received from the venerable Princess Metternich-Sandor? The Princess, so well known for many years throughout Europe as the acknowledged queen of Viennese society, admired for the brilliancy of her intellect and beloved for her many charities, writes with the weight of an intimate knowledge of the present conditions in Vienna.

WILLIAM HAYES ACKLAND.

Washington, March 25, 1920.

"The peace so ardently longed for terminated for us Austrians merely in a state of war, a war which has entirely exhausted the strength of the nation and depleted its means of sustenance and resources, but it did not put an end to the everlasting sufferings of a hard-tried population. On the contrary, peace meant to Austria a continuation, nay, an aggravation, of all the misery that marked the times of war.

"I hardly need to give you a detailed description of the condition of my country; the American newspapers are full of these heartrending accounts, and yet they remain far behind the actual state of things. Austria needs help, urgent relief. The depreciation of her currency does not permit her to appear as buyer in Western markets. The prices paid abroad for the most essential necessities of daily life, converted into Austrian currency, attain a height which puts common nutriments as flour, fats, milk, &c., out of the reach of by far the larger portion of the Austrian population.

"The consequence, therefore, is the extraordinary increase of the death rate, especially among children of tender years. Pitiful sights meet you at the maternity wards of the Vienna hospitals. New-born babes are turned over to their mothers wrapped in paper coverings. The wards are not properly heated. Lack of bedding and materials greatly restricts, even prevents, cleanliness.

"Whatever Americans can do to help save the new-born and their undernourished mothers by contributing toward the supply of milk, baby food and other nutriments will be a highly appreciated act of charity and humanity. I know that a warm appeal to American women, especially to American mothers, will find a quick response.

"My close connection with charity work in Vienna brings me into daily contact with misery prevailing in that city, which suffers most of all in Austria. I am thus in a position to direct proper application of goods or money realized through relief action.

"Whatever may be forwarded to me should be sent in bulk and addressed to the 'Auskunftstelle fur Internationale Hilfsaktion-Afo '—' Vienna I, Wilhelmring, for Princess Metternich-Sandor, via Germany or Holland by Passau.'

"Then it will enter Austria free of freight and customs duties and under the supervision of armed guards furnished by the Government, a measure which nowadays is indispensable, and then you may be sure that all the collected material will be properly utilized where it is most needed.

"I shall be assisted by Professor Dr. Julius Minnaberg, chief physician of the Policlinic; Professor Anton Eiselsberg, Ch. of the First Surgical Clinic; Professor Dr. Julius Hochenegg, Ch. of the Second Surgical Clinic; Professor Dr. Clemens Pirquet, Ch. of the Children's Clinic. Sincerely yours,

"Princess METTERNICH-SANDOR."

PRINCE FEISAL'S PLANS.

Previous Agreement on Palestine Is Now Overlooked.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with much interest in your issue of March 28 the article by my friend and colleague Dr. Frederick Jones Bliss dealing with Prince Feisal and the hopes of the Arabian nationalists in regard to Palestine, Syria and Mesopotamia. I feel that in regard to one point we have the right to ask from him further elucidation. Dr. Bliss mentions in text the promise made by Great Britam, by the League of Nations covenant and by President Wilson looking to the possible recognition of certain parts of the Turkish Empire, or in certain parts of the Turkish Empire of "national governments and administration"—though Syria and its exact boundaries are nowhere mentioned. On the other hand, Dr. Bliss does not cite the agreement entered into by the Emir himself and the Zionists. It is true that he speaks of "the mutual exluding arrangements entered into by Great Britain with the French, the Arabs and the Zionists"; though I do not think that he is within the right in attributing the "mutual excluding" to the fact that the arrangements were made "by different persons at different times who were quite unaware of the details of each other's negotiations."

But surely he cannot be ignorant that such arrangements with the Zionists were made, as his knowledge of the recent history of the Near East is so precise and so full. I am far away from my library and can only from here cite the text of the letter in which the Emir declares his agreement with the definite promise made in the well-known pronouncement of Mr. Balfour. In a letter to Mr. Herbert Samuel, written shortly before his return to Syria, the Emir Feisal says as follows: "I am firmly convinced that the mutual confidence established between us and the complete agreement of our point of view, which has made possible a perfect understanding between Dr. Weizmann (the Zionist leader) and myself will prevent in the future any similar misunderstanding, and will maintain between us that harmony so necessary for the success of our common cause." In a speech delivered by Mr. Samuel on Nov. 2 last, and in which he mentioned a conversation he had had with the Emir, he added that the Emir "had publicly declared his assent to the proposals that were laid by the Zionist leaders before the Peace Conference and his attitude was unchanged."

Perhaps Dr. Bliss will have sufficient knowledge of the Emir's mind and intention to explain how the implicit promise of a Jewish National Home in Palestine (i. e., a Jewish State) is to be reconciled with the idea of a great Arab empire reaching from the Desert of Sinai to the Persian Gulf, as projected in the article to which I am referring.

At the same time may I again make a public demand for the early publication of the report made to President Wilson by the commission consisting of Ambassador Crane and President King, which certainly must be of great interest to the large number of American citizens who desire to take an active part in matters relating to the "Near East." The reports of other commissions sent out by the President have been published and many of us are asking for the reason why just this particular report should be withheld.

DENIES CALLING JAPAN A MENACE

Daniels Says His Testimony Before Naval Committee Was Garbled.

HE TOLD OF PACIFIC NEEDS

But Says His Policy Regarding That Coast Is the Same as for the Atlantic.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Secretary Daniels today authorized a denial that he had told the Senate Naval Committee yesterday that Japan "was a menace" to the United States, because of naval developments in the Pacific.

In a letter to Senator Page, Chairman of the committee, Mr. Daniels today took exception to an article in a morning newspaper which declared that Mr. Daniels, while testifying behind closed doors yesterday, had given the Naval Committee some "startling information" concerning the activity of the Japanese in the Pacific, which, if substantiated, navy officers contend, must be regarded as a menace to American interests in that part of the globe. The story went on to credit Admiral Coontz with having "joined Secretary Daniels in urging the committee to oppose the Japanese new armament program with strong building operations."

"This publication," Secretary Daniels wrote to Senator Page, "conveys an impression that is calculated to give a friendly nation a view of the attitude of the Secretary of the Navy and your committee that is wholly at variance with the attitude of your committee and the Navy Department. At the request of your committee I appeared before it in an executive session and in answer to questions Admiral Coontz gave to your committee the relative strength of Great Britain, France, Japan, Italy and other nations, and of their building programs. My primary purpose in going before the committee, and the only recommendations I made, were that Congress should take action to provide adequate facilities on the Pacific coast for the care, repair and maintenance of the great Pacific fleet."

Mr. Daniels explained that he had asked the committee for appropriations aggregating $12,790,000 for a docking and repair plant at San Francisco, fuel storage plants in Puget Sound and Pearl Harbor, and a submarine base at San Pedro.

"No reference," the letter continues, "was made to any appropriations for the construction of new ships.

"As a matter of fact, the naval bases on the Pacific have been too long neglected, and the burden of my argument was that it was necessary to establish a naval base in deep water in San Francisco harbor to care for our modern dreadnoughts. Our excellent navy yard at Mare Island is too far removed from deep water to admit of the latest dreadnoughts being docked or repaired at that yard. The policy urged was to continue Mare Island with all its building and repair facilities for all ships of the size that will go into Mare Island dock, and to construct a place for maintenance and repair of the Superdreadnoughts at a point in San Francisco harbor where there is water deep enough for the greatest ships. I regard this as a matter of the highest importance, made essential by the presence in the Pacific of a fleet of over 500,000 tons. It was merely to try to induce the committee to take action now on that recommendation that I made my argument, and that Admiral Coontz gave military reasons.

"Just before the war, Congress, feeling the long neglect of the Pacific bases, directed the Secretary of the Navy to appoint a board to recommend adequate bases on that coast. The World War delayed action on the wise recommendations of the Helm Board, and last year a restudy of the needs of the Pacific coast for caring for the great Pacific fleet, was made by the McKean Board.

"The recommendations of these boards of naval experts were urged as worthy of immediate adoption by this Congress, and as necessary, if the Government is to provide facilities on the Pacific as adequate as have been supplied on the Atlantic.

"The statement that anything was said to the effect that 'the Japanese menace the United States' is not correct, and is misleading. I stated to the committee that our relations with all countries, on the Pacific as well as the Atlantic, were friendly and cordial, and that I did

ACCEPTS FOCH AS LEADER.

Gen. Allen, Though Independent, Co-operates with the French.

PARIS, April 2.—President Wilson's statement to the House of Representatives in Washington yesterday that Marshal Foch has no authority over the American troops on the Rhine was not cabled here in full. The French Foreign Office, therefore, is not acquainted with its exact terms, but it was said in official circles that President Wilson's conception of the status of the American troops appeared to be the same as the French official view, namely, that the troops were in the occupied area under the armistice terms, as the American Senate had not ratified the Peace Treaty.

Thus far, however, it was explained at the Foreign Office that Major Gen. Allen, commander of the American force of occupation, has acted in harmony with the orders given by Marshal Foch to the other occupying troops, General Allen simply taking over for his own account the orders issued by the Marshal, just as the American representative with the Rhine Commission acts in harmony with the French head of the commission, although technically not under his authority.

"Does Nature Call for a True Resurrection?" will be the Easter evening topic of the Rev. Dr. John R. Straton in Calvary Baptist Church, Fifty-seventh Street, near Sixth Avenue. BEQUEST TO GIRLS' HOME.

Bulk of Sarah Switzer Estate Left to Institute She Founded.

The will of Miss Sarah Switzer, who died, Feb. 27, at her home, 315 Central Park West, leaves the bulk of her estate, estimated at $500,000, to the Margaret and Sarah Switzer Institute and Home, 27 Christopher Street, which she and her sister founded about a dozen years ago and endowed with $300,000 for the benefit of working girls, irrespective of race and creed.

Miss Switzer was born in Ireland about seventy-five years ago, and came here with her sister when a girl. Both made their living as dressmakers, and as a result of judicious investments were able to retire with a fortune. Margaret Switzer died several years ago. Because of their early struggles the sisters conceived the plan of the Switzer Home for Working Girls.

Miss Switzer left $5,000 each to the Little Mothers Aid Association, the Church of the Transfiguration and the McAll Mission in Paris. She gave the income from $60,000 to Irving H. Bower in appreciation of his assistance in her private and business affairs and in matters pertaining to the creation and management of the Switzer Home. Upon his death the fund goes to the home. The will gave $5,000 each to Mrs. Charlotte Switzer Drew of San Francisco, a sister; James Switzer, brother; Kate Harvey, Katherine C. Hermann and Irving H. Bower of New York, and the Rev. Frederick W. Farr of Philadelphia.

Weather Bureau Offers Hope of Fair, Cool Easter Day

Hope, but no definite promise of a fair Easter Sunday, was the best in the way of a prediction that could be obtained last night from the local office of the Weather Bureau. Fair today and probably Sunday, with little change in temperature and brisk winds, was the forecast.

Colder weather had been indicated by low temperatures in the Far and Middle West yesterday, which ordinarily reach the Atlantic seaboard from twenty-four to forty-eight hours later, but these, it was said, would be mitigated in the journey East.

With the weather colder than usual at Easter, the fact that furs are in fashion will permit feminine wearers to be comfortable during the Easter parade.

MRS. THORNE LOSES CASE.

Jury Returns Verdict for Dr. S. M. Milliken in $200,000 Suit.

Mrs. Mary Casey Thorne of 9 East Seventy-sixth Street, wife of Joel Wolfe Thorne and daughter-in-law of the late Samuel Thorne, banker, yesterday lost her suit against Dr. Seth M. Milliken of 951 Madison Avenue for $200,000 damages for false imprisonment. Mrs. Thorne alleged the doctor sent her to the Bellevue psychopathic ward when she was suffering from nervousness and that she was held for six days until she obtained her freedom in habeas corpus proceedings. The jury returned a verdict for the defendant after brief deliberation.

Counsel for Mrs. Thorne contended Dr. Milliken should have sent Mrs. Thorne to a private institution. Dr. Milliken denied he sent her to Bellevue and testimony was offered in his behalf to show that Mrs. Thorne said she intended to go to a public institution as a charity patient to make a newspaper sensation and annoy the Thorne family.

ROYALTY SERVES BEGGARS.

Spanish Sovereigns in Maunday Thursday Feet-Washing Ceremonial.

MADRID, April 1.—Extreme brilliance marked Holy Week ceremonies at the Royal Palace today. Escorted to the palace chapel by a guard attired in gala uniforms, King Alfonso, Queen Victoria and Queen Mother Maria Cristina attended mass, at which there was a large congregation of titled personages, army officers and grandees of Spain. The men were in full regalia of the various orders of knighthood, while all the ladies wore white mantillas on their heads.

Later the King washed the feet of twelve blind men, while the Queen performed the same office for twelve beggar women, who after the sovereigns had broken bread with them left the palace bearing baskets of food.

At that place their airplane was damaged, and it was not until a month later that they left Tamarasset for Segou on the Niger River. They remained at Segou for forty-eight hours and then proceeded to Gao, thence to Bourem and from there to Dakar.

DENOUNCES WOMEN'S GOWNS

London Priest Calls Present Dresses Immodest, Unhealthy and Ugly.

LONDON, March 27.—Prevailing fashions in women's gowns were vigorously assailed in a sermon recently by the Rev. Bernard Vaughan, the Jesuit Father whose essays and sermons on morality and home life have for twenty years attracted great attention throughout the world.

"In days gone by ladies dressed for dinner; now they undress for it," he declared. "Women's clothing ought to serve the three purposes, of decency, of warmth and of ornament. Women, in their mad craze for what is known as 'emotional gowns,' sin against every canon of good taste. Such dresses are immodest, unhealthy and as ugly as they are expensive. Girls who follow the up-to-date fashions are ruining their own and their neighbors' souls as well as their own bodies. Designers of fashions seem to be devoid of as much of taste as of principle."

WHISKY SEIZURE UPHELD.

Liquor May Be Used as Evidence Against Owner, Judge Says.

Judge Edwin L. Garvin, in the United States District Court in Brooklyn, yesterday decided that whisky found in the possession of a man arrested for intoxication may be used as evidence against him in a prosecution in the Federal Court for violation of the prohibition law. The case in question was that of Frank Murphy, who said he had no home. When arrested for drunkenness Murphy had five small bottles of whisky.

Attorney Thomas J. Cuff contended that the whisky could not be used as evidence because, in his opinion, it was causing the defendant to furnish evidence against himself. Judge Garvin refused to grant Mr. Cuff's request to dismiss the complaint. In another liquor case Judge Garvin decided that it was permissible for District Attorney Ross to arraign a prisoner in the District Court on an information without previously having the defendant brought before a United States Commissioner.

To Aid Injured Fighters.

The Hospital Occupation Committee of the New York City Visiting Committee of the State Charities Aid Association met at Bellevue yesterday to plan an appeal for funds for occupational therapy in the re-education of injured men. Dr. George O'Hanlon, General Superintendent of the hospital, described cases of regeneration through the interest engendered in some occupation, and Dr. John W. Brannen, President of the Board of Trustees, said no patient should be discharged without being "economically cured."

EUGENE DELANO DIES MERCHANT-BANKER

Senior Member of Firm of Brown Brothers & Co. Succumbs at City Home at 76.

PROMINENT IN CIVIC LIFE

Aided Dr. Grenfell in His Work in Labrador—A Trustee of Williams College for 25 Years.

Eugene Delano, senior member of the firm of Brown Bros. & Co., bankers, 59 Wall Street, with which he had been connected for forty years, died yesterday morning at his residence, 12 Washington Square North, at the age of 76.

He was born in Utica and educated at Williams College, graduating with the class of 1866. Later he received an A. M. from his alma mater. During the early part of his business career he was a merchant, and by 1880 had fairly established himself when he joined the forces of the Philadelphia house of merchant bankers, Brown Bros. & Co. In January, 1894, he was made a partner resident in Philadelphia. A year later he moved to the branch of the firm in New York, where his brother-in-law, John Crosby Brown, was then senior member.

Mr. Delano always gave active support to Williams College, serving on the Board of Trustees for twenty-five years, and taking part in the carrying out of all policies tending to the growth of the college. Another interest that deeply concerned him was the work of Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell among the inhabitants of Labrador. As Treasurer of the Grenfell Association of America he helped supply the funds for this humanitarian cause.

The wide range of Mr. Delano's civic interests is shown by the appearance of his name on the Boards of Trustees of the following institutions: The New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, the Presbyterian Hospital, New York Orthopedic Dispensary and Hospital, New York City Mission, and New York Institution for the Deaf and Dumb.

He was President of the Musical Arts Society and Treasurer of the American Waldensian Aid Society. The only financial connections he retained at the time of his death, aside from his own firm, were the Vice Presidency of the Chemical Bank for Savings and his Trusteeship of the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company.

Among his clubs in this city were the Century, Down Town, University, City, Midday and Automobile Club of America. He was also a member of Jekyl Island Club, Essex County Country, and the Radnor Hunt, Merion Cricket and Philadelphia Clubs of Philadelphia. He left two sons, Moreau Delano, who lived with his father and was a member of the firm, and William Adams Delano of 131 East Thirty-sixth Street, and two daughters, Mrs. Augustus B. Wadsworth of Albany and Mrs. Charles W. McKelvey, also living at 12 Washington Square North.

Funeral services will be held at the University Place Presbyterian Church, Tenth Street and University Place, Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

JONESCU ASKS OUR HELP IN THE MIDDLE EAST

Rumanian Statesman Urges Alliance of His Country with Poles, Czechs and Greeks.

BUCHAREST, April 2.—Safety for Europe lies in an alliance of Rumania, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Greece, in the opinion of Take Jonescu, who, as an editor, financier and politician, has played a prominent role in the national life of Rumania for a quarter of a century. Talking with an Associated Press correspondent recently, he expressed the hope to see such an alliance realized, and to witness America taking an important part in the work of Balkan countries.

"Unless America shows interest in Balkan commerce," he said, "it is possible that we all will fall again into the hands of Germany, if only because of the exchange situation. Rumania is determined to operate matters for herself, but may not be able to do so. I am very sorry that America has refused to occupy Constantinople.

"Neither France nor Engand nor Italy can control the Middle East. It is too big a task, but America, being disinterested politically, could do it.

"It must not be forgotten that if the Straits are left in the hands of a weak power New Russia will push for Constantinople.

"Rumania made great sacrifices in the war, but charges that she has disregarded the Allies are untrue. This impression was due to the fact that she never indulged in propaganda.

"We are suffering from the same conditions that prevail in every country in Europe, but one of the worst conditions confronting us is that the people will not work. During the last five years we have produced nothing, and have acquired a taste for higher standards of living. From an economic point of view it was one long joy ride."

FRANCE BLOCKING TRADE WITH RUSSIA

Is Determined Not to Sanction It Till Soviets Recognize Debt to Her.

ALLIES STAND BEHIND HER

Bound by Pledges Not to Accept Wilson's Proposals So Long as She Objects.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 2.—President Wilson's proposal that the allied and associated powers declare forthwith the lifting of all trade restrictions against Russia is opposed by the determination of the French Government not to participate in any such step until the Moscow Government recognizes the debt of 26,000,000,000 francs which Russia owes to the French Government and other French interests. And it must be remembered that France has the promise of England, Italy and Japan to formulate no Russian policy of any kind which any one ally may hold derogatory to its interests.

At the negotiations which will soon be opened in London between the representatives of the Allies and of Russia, the representative of France may be expected to present the French claims with vigor. The Russian delegation is headed by Krassin, who has been widely quoted as saying that the Russians will not for a moment consider their debts to France because the Soviet Government has wiped the slate clean of Russia's old obligations. Unless Krassin reverses himself it is altogether likely that French opposition may prove a bad hurdle for the resumption of commercial relations with the land of the Soviets.

For the benefit of American business men who hope to do big things in Russia one may be permitted to go a little deeper into the situation. The Soviets admit that for the present they are not in a position to begin a large export business, largely because of the lack of transportation facilities. They propose to pay for their purchases in the near future with gold. Now, France is not producing or manufacturing enough for her own needs, and so has nothing to sell to Russia for the present. England, America and Germany are the nations which would sell to Russia in the immediate future, and therefore the nations to which the Soviets' gold would go.

That does not suit France, who wants at least a large share of that gold in repayment of the 18,000,000,000 francs she has loaned Russia and the 8,000,000,000 more owing French business men on pre-war transactions. Before she takes any step which would encourage the export of Russian gold she wishes to make sure she will get part of it.

There seems to be a good deal to be said for the French case. All the world seems to regard France as a debtor nation. The debasement of the value of the franc is laid to the fact that France owes money. But, according to French bookkeeping, France is not a debtor but a creditor nation. What is owing France from Turkey and several smaller European nations will on paper pay what she owes England.

What are the other big items on France's books? There is the 15,000,000,000 francs she owns America, and on the other side of the ledger are the 26,000,000,000 which Russia owes her, and some 50,000,000,000 due her from Germany under the terms of the treaty of Versailles. Thus, against the 15,000,000,000 francs which France owes America the French Government book-keepers count 76,000,000,000 due France from Russia and Germany. That is, France is again on paper a creditor nation by 61,000,000,000 francs.

From this point of view the financial future of France depends upon collecting from Russia and Germany. If she does not collect she is in a bad way. This explains Premier Millerand's aggressive European policy for France. M. Millerand will not see Russian gold go to other nations if he can help it, and he bases his German policy on the enforcement of the Treaty of Versailles until France is paid, even if France has to enforce that treaty alone.

Furthermore, the French Government may be expected to attempt to get America to negotiate a settlement of the French debt to America against Germany's debt to France. Before long the Reparations Commission will have ready its plans for the issue of German indemnity bonds, 20,000,000,000 marks (gold) worth of which should be issued soon. Beyond doubt, America will be asked to place her valuation on these bonds, 55 per cent. of which will come to France with a view to turning over part of them in liquidation of part of the French debt to the United States.

In the meanwhile France wants her friends to help her obtain payment of her credits if her friends exact payment of her debts. That is Millerand's program.

To that program may be laid the failure of the Allies to adopt President Wilson's suggestion, made in his note of March 11, that the allied and associated powers declare simultaneously the lifting of all trade restrictions against Russia. France wants guarantees of her Russian debts first, and her allies are bound not to act without her consent.

EXTENDS MILITARY SERVICE.

France Will Hold Class of 1918 Until After June 1.

PARIS, April 1.—André Lefevre, War Minister, announced in the Senate today that the foreign situation made it necessary to extend for a few weeks the period of military service of the class of 1918.

The men of this class, he said, would be discharged between June 1 and 15.

WANT JAPANESE KEPT OUT.

Filipino Farmers Oppose Sale to Them of Great Payaas Estate.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANILA, P. I., April 2.—Three thousand Filipino farmers, headed by the Provincial Governor of Rizal, walked eighteen miles to Manila today from Mariquina, San Mateo and Montalban, demonstrating peacefully before Governor General Harrison's office, against the sale of Payaas Hacienda of 13,000 acres to Japanese by its Spanish owners. The estate comprises half of the arable land in the municipalities mentioned, and eighty per cent of the inhabitants depend upon the estate for their living. The petitioners claim that the Japanese have imposed restrictions on privileges they had enjoyed for three generations, and ignored verbal agreements. The petition continues:

"Knowing, as we do, through the American press, the practices in Korea, Formosa, Mindanoa and other places in this archipelago, together with concrete evidences which we have recently seen and experienced, and the absolute disregard of the law of contract, we simply cannot live peacefully with them side by side, nor would we care to work under them after they have taken active management of the whole estate."

The petition points out that one kilometer of the water main from the Montalbon reservoir crosses the estate and that the wanton destruction of forest lands by the Japanese, endangers its foundation, therefore the health and safety of Manila's people are in Japanese hands.

The petitioners offer to purchase the estate, allowing the Japanese a reasonable profit, but they want three months in which to raise the money. They ask Governor Harrison to intercede in their behalf. Present leases expire on May 1.

Governor Harrison appeared on the balcony of his office, but did not commit himself. It is feared that unless the Government intervenes, serious disturbances will affect the region. Minor disturbances already are reported.

Citizen of the World

By JOYCE KILMER, A Poet-Martyr of the Great War

No longer of Him be it said,
"He hath no place to lay His head."
In every land a constant lamp
Flames by His small and mighty camp.
There is no strange and distant place
That is not gladdened by His face.
And every nation kneels to hail
The Splendour shining through His veil.

Cloistered beside the shouting street,
Silent, He calls me to His feet.
Imprisoned for His love of me,
He makes my spirit greatly free.
And through my lips that uttered sin
The King of Glory enters in.

Enter into His gates with Thanksgiving
And into His courts with praise tomorrow.

You and Immigration

IN America today there are more feet than shoes, more necks than collars, more heads than hats, more mouths than food, more bodies than clothing, more stoves and furnaces than coal, more families than houses and more homes than furniture.

In Europe there are more farms than farming implements, more factory buildings than machinery, more railroads than rolling stock and more men than jobs. Europe needs American credit. America needs men.

With 110,000,000 population, America today is producing enough for only 60,000,000. High prices will continue until production is level with demand. And the chief cause of underproduction is lack of unskilled labor.

Half the workers in the basic industries are of foreign birth. Due to cessation of immigration during the war, the mills, mines and railroads are short 3,000,000 men. At least 1,000,000 foreign born workers now employed in them are preparing to return to Europe.

More than one tenth of the white farm workers are of foreign birth. One out of every five immigrants lives in the country. Today a great food lack is threatened by shortage of farm help.

BUT the question of immigration is more than an industrial question—a question of you and your pocketbook. Every worthy immigrant who stays in America ought to be helped to realize his ambitions. He ought to to be helped to a property stake. He ought to be helped to save so that his savings can be turned into a home and safe American investments.

America must have a national immigration policy. Now we have nothing but laws relating to admission and restriction. Any national policy should involve the questions of selection, distribution and assimilation.

Representatives of industry, agriculture, finance and labor, and the racial groups in America will meet on Wednesday, April 7, in New York City to formulate a national immigration policy, to be suggested to the country. It will be a getting together of all the elements of America's people to examine the facts and propose a plan.

Restricted accommodations necessarily limited the attendance to invitation. The conference however gives everyone the opportunity to tell the country and its legislators what he thinks.

Packard Service Conference. Attended by drivers from all over the Metropolitan District. Owing to the practical engineering and basic economy of the Packard Truck, a week's conferences is usually enough to win a driver a high degree of proficiency in handling his truck.

The Driver's Experience vs. "Features" and "Talking Points"

GIVE the driver a chance, and he will take any amount of trouble to find out a better way of handling his truck.

Men drive all day, and then come long distances night after night to the Packard Service Conference.

It is unfortunate that the average driver's efforts to keep his costs down are so often thwarted by the truck he is given to work with.

THE following National Standard Truck Cost System facts on the performance of over 1700 Packard Trucks in 1919 have a vital significance for the truck user.

An average saving in gasoline of 10 per cent—due to greater efficiency in operation with the aid of the National Standard System.

The National Standard System used in connection with Packard Trucks has shown it possible to reduce cost per ton mile.

Truck owners who have used the System for a year or more, and have compared the Packard with other trucks, are standardizing on Packard.

The driver finds the Packard easier all around to handle.

Less vibration because of the smooth-running Packard engine, the construction of the worm drive, and the placing of 85 to 95 per cent of the live load on the rear axle.

Less strain at the wheel, owing to the Packard semi-irreversible steering gear.

Easier handling on the hills, owing to Packard high tractive force on the road and four-speed transmission graded up by even steps.

Easier to keep clean. Engine enclosed, and lubricated automatically. Fly wheel and clutch shut off from dust and mud.

THE man who is in doubt what make of truck to buy might well ask his driver's advice.

It may surprise him to learn the positive Packard opinion among men who judge a truck solely by what it will do.

SOCIALISTS MAY BE HALED TO COURT

Legislative Leaders to Confer Next Week on Making Criminal Charges.

LUSK BILLS ADVANCED

Measures Rapidly Taking Shape to Bar Party from Polls Unless It Reforms.

EXPELLED MEMBERS MEET

Confer with Counsel on Procedure to be Followed in Appeal to State Court.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 2.—Attorney General Charles D. Newton may seek a determination by the courts of the question, raised in the proceedings to unseat the Socialist Assemblymen, whether the Socialist Party of America is a bona fide political organization or a criminal conspiracy against the United States Government, as contended by the Attorney General in the brief he submitted as counsel for the Assembly Judiciary Committee.

The Attorney General was not here today when it was reported that a conference would be held at the Capitol some day next week to decide if the question should be taken to the courts. The Attorney General, Speaker Sweet, Senator Lusk, Chairman Martin of the Assembly Judiciary Committee and Martin Conboy of its counsel, will attend the conference it is expected.

Whether such a step would involve proceedings against all or any of the unseated Socialists, could not be learned. In his brief the Attorney General recommended that the evidence be submitted to the prosecuting officials in New York City for such action as they might deem proper. It was remarked that a court decision would lend strength to anything the Legislature does at the present session to outlaw the Socialist party at the polls.

Speaker Sweet said today that the two bills which are being drafted to that end would be ready for introduction early next week. One, it was learned, will vest powers in the Attorney General to give official scrutiny to the policies and platforms of political parties, with a view to determining whether these embody clauses in conflict with the organic or statutory law and in such event to bar the political group or groups sponsoring them from exercising at election time the functions of a bona-fide political party.

There is already pending the bill of Assemblyman Cuvillier, under which political parties are required to file certified copies of their platforms, constitutions and by-laws, as well as of party rules and regulations, with the Secretary of State thirty days before a primary and sixty days before a general election.

Lusk Bills Advanced.

The Senate today advanced to third reading four of the five Lusk committee bills, reported by its Finance Committee. One of these provides $100,000 for a peace and safety bureau in the Attorney General's office for the protection of the State against seditious activities and continues many of the broad powers of secret inquisition conferred on the Attorney General through the so-called peace and safety act, which was made a law in 1917 as a war emergency measure.

Of the other bills, one provides for courses in the State Normal schools to fit teachers to take up Americanization, another gives the Board of Regents powers to look into the political beliefs of applicants for teaching licenses and to bar dangerous radicals. The third gives the Board of Regents broadened control over privately conducted educational institutions and would enable the Board to put the Rand School of Social Science out of business.

Assemblyman James H. Caulfield of Kings introduced a bill today which practically would re-enact the peace and safety act. It carried an appropriation of $50,000 which would be administered by the Attorney-General as a secret fund from which disbursements could be made by him without audit by the State Controller.

Socialists to Confer on Appeal.

The method of procedure to be used in the action to test the constitutionality of the expulsion of the five Socialist Assemblymen by the Assembly will be determined at a conference this afternoon at the Socialist Party headquarters, 7 East Fifteenth Street, S. John Block, associate counsel, stated yesterday afternoon. The Socialist Party Committee of Eight, the five ousted Assemblymen and their counsel will participate.

Julius Gerber, Executive Secretary of the New York Socialist Local, said the possibility of changing the Constitution of the Socialist Party to meet the objections raised by its opponents in the Assembly would not be considered at today's conference, but, if considered at all, would be discussed at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the party on Monday night.

Mr. Gerber said that there was nothing in the Constitution of the Socialist Party which violated the State or Federal Constitution or the election laws. He said, however, that the Socialists might find it advisable to separate their educational and propaganda organization entirely from their political organization.

In that case, he said, the local Executive Committee could only suggest, and the proposal would ultimately go before the Socialist National Convention which will meet here on May 8.

WILL PROTEST IN CHICAGO.

Claessens and Waldman to Address Meeting There.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 2.—August Claessens and Louis Waldman, two of the five Socialists expelled from the New York Assembly, sent word today that they planned to be in Chicago a week from tonight for a labor mass meeting to be held here in protest against their expulsion.

The Chicago meeting will be one of nearly a thousand similar gatherings arranged throughout the country, according to its sponsors. Seymour Stedman, Mary O'Reilly, of the Chicago Teachers' Federation, and labor leaders will also speak.

Three in Georgia Primary Race.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 2.—With the withdrawal of President Wilson's name by a number of Democrats who entered him in the Georgia Democratic Presidential preference primary to be held April 20, three candidates were left in the race, Attorney General Palmer, straight-out advocate of the Administration; Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, who desires the treaty and league ratified with reservations, and Thomas E. Watson, former Populist candidate for President, who "stands squarely against the League of Nations."

Palmer's Agents Start Inquiry at Boston Into Coal Rise

BOSTON, April 2.—Department of Justice agents began today an investigation of an advance in the retail price of anthracite coal announced yesterday. It was stated that books of dealers would be examined to learn whether the increases were warranted. The raise affects all sizes of hard coal, and ranges from $1 a ton for some grades to $1.75 for pea coal.

The State Commission on the Necessaries of Life also announced that it would investigate the increase, which it characterized as apparently "unwarranted at the present time."

HOOVER'S CHIEF GOAL IS NOW CALIFORNIA

Will Wage His Only Intensive Campaign There, Ignoring Other Primary States.

CHICAGO CONFERENCE OFF

Managers to Meet in New York Next Week to Decide on Western Headquarters.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Herbert Hoover's intensive campaign for the Republican nomination for President is to be confined exclusively to carrying California against Senator Hiram Johnson, according to those informed of his plans. He does not propose to make any fight in primary States against candidates now in the running save for Michigan, where he is a candidate in both the Republican and Democratic primaries and cannot, it is claimed, withdraw under the law.

The same authority reveals that the Chicago conference announced tentatively from New York has been abandoned. Instead there will be a session in New York City some time next week at which Hoover managers will decide where the Western headquarters are to be opened. In Chicago it is understood that Harry A. Wheeler, Vice President of the Union Trust Company, will be the chief representative of the Hoover interests. Pending the New York conference tentative arrangements to open Hoover headquarters on Presidential row at the Congress Hotel have been withheld.

Sam A. Lindauer, Secretary of the "Make Hoover President" Club of Los Angeles, is authority for the statement that many members of the Faculties of the University of Illinois, Chicago University and Northwestern University are ardent supporters of the former Food Administrator.

"'Make Hoover President' Clubs are being organized and will begin public agitation in Mr. Hoover's behalf as soon as the primaries of April 13 are out of the way," he states. "We propose to Hooverize politics, to Hooverize the White House, to defeat the usual designs of the professional politicians—at any rate, to make a corking good California try."

PREDICT A HOOVER VICTORY.

Supporters Sure Miss Choate and Myrick Will Win Delegates Fight.

Watson Washburn, Chairman of the Hoover Republican Committee of the Seventeenth Congressional District, issued a statement last night predicting the election of Miss Mabel Choate and Julian S. Myrick as Hoover delegates to the Republican National Convention over Herbert Parsons and Albert J. Berwin, the organization candidates.

"The efforts of Mr. Parsons and Mr. Berwin to question the eligibility and Republicanism of Miss Choate have acted as a boomerang," said Mr. Washburn, "as has their failure to indicate what candidate they favor and what policies and principles the candidate should have. Hundreds of men and women have enrolled within the last forty-eight hours under the Hoover banner. They have no wish for uninstructed delegates or ambiguity and mystery, but demand that those chosen to represent them shall truly represent the sentiment of the people of the district.

PROFESSORS FOR HOOVER.

Williams College Faculty Members Form Club to Aid Candidacy.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., April 2.—To the members of the Faculty at Williams College belongs the distinction of forming the first "Hoover Club" in Western Massachusetts.

The club at Williams, which is said to comprise in its membership a majority of the Faculty members, has been forced to support the candidacy of Mr. Hoover. That members of the Faculty favor Mr. Hoover as a Presidential candidate was indicated a couple of weeks ago when the results of a "straw" ballot showed that out of thirty-seven twenty-two favored Mr. Hoover while thirteen expressed a preference for General Wood.

DOWNING THREATENS TO CHASTISE BROWN

New Yorker Asserts Chenango Senator Lies in Debate in the Chamber.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 2.—The lie was passed today in the Senate, the principals in the verbal encounter being Senators Bernard Downing of New York and Adon P. Brown of Chenango. The flourishing of clenched fists and the admonition that there was power to hit behind them came when Senator Brown objected to the advancement of the Dickstein bill, permitting Jewish stores to keep open on Sunday because the owners observed the Sabbath on Saturday.

The measure was sent to the Senate from the Assembly on the agreement, it was stated, that the bill was to be advanced to the order of final passage. Senator Downing asked Mr. Brown to withdraw his objection, but the latter refused.

"All right," responded Downing, with some heat. "You are doing this against your party, as well as against the Democratic party. No bill bearing your name will be advanced during the remainder of the session."

Senator Brown began to remonstrate, but Senator Downing yelled him down, declaring:

"He is not telling the truth. In other words, he is telling a lie."

Senator Brown persisted and registered a complaint against the "ungentlemanly language" used by Senator Downing. At the end of the session Senator Brown asked the New Yorker to consent to have the colloquy stricken from the record.

"No, I won't," declared Downing, and he added, "Get away from this desk before I hit you."

The bill was referred to the Senate Codes Committee.

REPUBLICAN RIVALS REDOUBLE EFFORTS

Will Begin Intensive Campaign for 154 Delegates to be Chosen Next Week.

RHODE ISLAND ON MONDAY

Wisconsin Delegates to be Elected on Tuesday, Also 88 from This State.

In the coming week 154 delegates to the Republican National Convention at Chicago in June will be selected either by primary or convention method and the various candidates will begin intensive campaign work on Monday to get as many of the delegates as possible, the main effort being confined to the forces of Major Gen. Leonard Wood and Senator Hiram W. Johnson, the two candidates concededly in the lead.

Special attention is being paid by both candidates to Michigan, which holds its primary on Monday for the selection of thirty delegates. Senator Johnson cut short his New York speaking tour to hurry back to Michigan to try and save the State, while Frank H. Hitchcock, General Wood's field manager, also returned there. Managers of both campaigns frankly admit that the winning of the Michigan delegation will have a psychological effect upon the other Mid-Western States. Wisconsin will elect twenty-six delegates on Tuesday.

Rhode Island will select ten delegates on Monday by the convention method, and the Wood men, who have been particularly active in that State, claim the entire delegation. The largest number of delegates to be selected is in New York State, where eighty-eight will be chosen by the voters on Tuesday at a primary election. While Senator Johnson has been the only candidate to enter the State and appeal directly to the voters for support, General Wood has not neglected the field. He has left the situation to his managers, however, and effective work has been done, it is said, especially in up-State districts.

Call Bennett Negligible.

The Johnson managers claim that their candidate's greatest strength will be shown in Brooklyn, where the Senator has had crowded meetings during his campaign in the last week. The Johnson forces have one candidate for delegate at large, former State Senator William M. Bennett, and he is expected to show strength in several city districts, notably in Brooklyn and on Staten Island. Republican leaders do not look favorably on Senator Johnson's candidacy and to a man they are opposed to Mr. Bennett. They declared yesterday that Mr. Bennett's vote would be negligible.

The New York delegation will go to the National Convention uninstructed and it is expected that the majority of the delegates will vote on the first ballot for Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler. After that it is expected the delegates will scatter and show their individual preferences. It was said that Senator Johnson might get half a dozen votes among the New York delegation, but the consensus among the leaders was that the bulk of the votes, after the first ballot, would be cast for General Wood.

The Hoover supporters have two candidates in the field for district delegates but none for delegate at large. The candidates are running in the Seventeenth Congressional District and making their fight against the regular Republican organization candidates, Herbert Parsons and Albert J. Berwind. Politicians will watch the Seventeenth District contest with interest, for it will be the first actual showdown of Hoover strength in a city party. Republican leaders declare the Hoover candidates have no possible chance of winning.

General Wood's Itinerary.

General Wood will return to New York on April 17 and will make at least two speeches here, one in Manhattan and one in Brooklyn. The details have yet to be arranged. General Wood, now campaigning in Ohio, will spend next week in Illinois and will come East on April 12, when he will speak at Pittsfield, Mass. He will spend two days in the State, winding up at Boston. From there he will go to Wilmington, Del., speaking there on April 15. Philadelphia will next be invaded, and after speaking there on April 16 he will go to Newark, N. J., speaking the same evening under the auspices of the Wood Campaign Committee of that State.

Leaving New York General Wood will return to Ohio, but he will be in Pittsburgh on the night of April 27 as the guest of honor at the Grant birthday dinner. On May 26 he is to be the guest of the Republican State Central Committee at the Vermont State convention, to be held in Burlington.

Watch Hoover in Pennsylvania.

The Wood managers are watching to see what the Hoover men do in regard to Pennsylvania, where a Presidential preference primary is to be held on May 18. Out of deference to Governor Sproul, the State's favorite son, General Wood decided to make no contest in the State. At the Hoover headquarters it was said that the local Hoover organization would make a contest in Pennsylvania, but that it would not be carried on by the national Hoover movement. The National Hoover Republican Club will take no definite stand until it is determined what the organization will do at its Chicago meeting in two weeks.

Thomas W. Miller, Eastern manager of the Wood campaign, yesterday received a telegram from H. L. Blythe, President, telling of the organization of a Leonard Wood League at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.

At the headquarters of Senator Johnson in the Pennsylvania Hotel word was received from Congressman L. C. Cramton, manager of the Johnson campaign in Michigan, that the crusade by Senator Borah in that State against unlimited campaign expenditures had begun to bear fruit, as the Wood managers had modified their campaign plans. He said the Wood managers had reduced their advertising by one-half. Mr. Cramton also sent word that a poll taken recently in Detroit by The Detroit Times gave this result: Johnson, 214; Wood, 94; Hoover, 62, mostly Democrats, and Lowden, 36.

Al Joy, Assistant Eastern Johnson campaign manager, declared that at a recent labor meeting in San Francisco representatives of the State Federation of Labor, the San Francisco Labor Council and the Building Trades Council voted Senator Johnson to be their first choice for President as a "true friend of labor."

At his headquarters in the Hotel Commodore it was announced that Dr. Butler would leave New York on April 12 to fill speaking engagements in Milwaukee, Grand Rapids, Davenport and Moline.

Ex-President of Uruguay Kills Editor In Formal Duel Fought With Pistols

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, April 2 (Associated Press).—Washington Beltran, editor of the newspaper El Pais, was shot and killed in a duel today by José Batlle Ordonez, former President of Uruguay.

The duel took place this morning with the usual formalities, and with seconds and surgeons in attendance.

The weapons used were pistols. Beltran was shot in the breast and died shortly afterward.

The morning newspapers today printed announcements of the impending duel. They said that former President Batlle had sent his seconds to Beltran, challenging the journalist because of statements published in El Pais which Batlle considered offensive. Beltran was a Nationalist member of the Chamber of Deputies and a leader of that party, which is opposed to the "Batllistas."

Batlle twice has been President of Uruguay. His last term was from 1906 to 1910.

Yesterday was not the first time that José Batlle Ordonez met an adversary on the field under the code of honor. On Jan. 13 last Batlle was twice wounded in the arm during a duel with swords fought with Senator Leonel Aguirre. He was rendered incapable of continuing the fight a few seconds after it started and the duel was suspended.

It was said at the time that Batlle had sent his seconds to Aguirre because of an article printed in El Pais, of which Aguirre was co-proprietor, charging that the former President was seeking to acquire predominance in the Chamber of Deputies to further his personal ends.

In 1906, while President of Uruguay, Batlle agreed to fight a duel with Dr. Luis Alberto de Herrera, a member of the Chamber of Deputies and former Secretary of the Legation at Washington, after Batlle's term as President had ended. Nothing, so far as is known, ever came of this agreement.

EDWARDS BACKERS ORGANIZING STATES

Managers Announce Already Fully Equipped for "Dry" Campaign.

CITY BRANCHES OPENED

"Not a Booze Fight," Workers Say, but for Personal Liberty and Constitution.

Organization of State and local branches of the National Personal Liberty League to advance the candidacy of Governor Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey for the Democratic nomination for President was announced yesterday in a statement issued at the league headquarters in the Hotel Hermitage. Several State branches were said to be fully organized and other State organizations are under way. National headquarters will be in New York City.

Under the proposed program local organizations working with the State branches will be established. In New York State, for example, it was said that it was intended to open local branches immediately in cities such as Buffalo, Rochester, Utica, Syracuse and Schenectady and a little later in every other city and village. Enrollment of members since the league began its campaign on March 13 was said to have been very large. Officers of the league estimated that if the present rate keeps up they will have a membership of nearly half a million in New York City alone.

A statement issued by the league announced that its campaign would be made on the issue of personal liberty and that repeated offers of financial assistance from the liquor interests had been refused.

"We are going into this fight with clean hands and we propose to keep them clean," the statement said. "We are defending clean causes—personal liberty and the Constitution of the United States—and to gain those ends we are advancing a clean man, Governor Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey. The league will therefore continue to refuse donations when they come from men offering them for another purpose.

"Ours is everybody's fight and not that of special interests. It is not a 'booze' fight. It is a question of whether the people, now and in the future, are to be the sole judges of what they should or should not do, or whether they must follow rules and regulations forced upon them by money-seeking, self-centred fanatics."

Enrollment of members by postal card was reported to be proceeding rapidly. It was said that thousands of new members from every part of the United States were being added daily.

JOHNSON ASSAILS WOOD AND HOOVER IN DETROIT

Tells Big Crowd This Is No Time for "Platitudes" — Charges Hoover Changed on Treaty

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., April 2.—Without mentioning the names of either, Senator Hiram W. Johnson assailed General Leonard Wood and Herbert Hoover to the evident delight of the crowd which heard the closing speech of his campaign for the Republican primary in Michigan.

In his attack upon General Wood the Senator said:

"I am not discussing the 'square deal' because everybody believes in the square deal. I am not discussing 'law and order' because everybody is in favor of law and order. I am not discussing 'better salaries for teachers.' I believe in them, but what has the President to do with the salaries of teachers in Detroit? I am not discussing the 'budget system' because a bill providing a budget system is before the Senate and will pass. I am not discussing 'economy' or the Ten Commandments. This is no time for a campaign of platitudes.

"This country is in no danger of revolution. I do not fear revolution, I fear reaction. There are sinister forces at work in this country to take away the progress that has been won by the people in the last few decades."

Directing his attack on Mr. Hoover, the Senator said:

"A certain gentleman was one of those who protested that the covenant of the League of Nations must pass the Senate without amendment or reservations when it first appeared, but recently the same gentleman had been one of a number of signers to a petition to the President asking him to approve the treaty with reservations."

LOWDEN OPPOSES CENTRALIZATION

Fears for Local Self-Government if Present Trend Continues.

STATES ALSO LOSING VIGOR

Illinois Executive Sees Danger in Leaning Too Heavily on the Federal Government.

FLINT, Mich., April 2.—The tendency toward centralization in Government has already reached the danger point, Governor Lowden of Illinois, candidate for the Republican nomination for President, declared in an address tonight.

"The municipalities are ceasing to function as well as they have in the past," he said. "They are calling for help from the States more and more, and the States are leaning more and more heavily upon the Federal Government.

"The activities which a generation ago were assumed by every one to fall particularly within the sphere of the State or the municipality are now being discharged in Washington. The inevitable result, if the practice is continued long enough, will be the breaking down of local government in this country.

"In my opinion, there is no greater menace to the future of our institutions than the failure of local self-government. It is conceivable that you can rule an empire from its Capitol, but you cannot rule a republic of the extent of ours from its Capitol."

Governor Lowden said a great danger lurked in the tendency of municipalities and States to call for State and Federal troops in times of trouble, asserting that unless a community was capable of ruling itself through its civil authorities it became a liability, not an asset, to the country.

Because of the co-operation of civil authorities in Illinois during the steel strike, Governor Lowden said, it was not necessary to call out a soldier to preserve order.

"Soldiers are necessary," he said. "They always will be necessary to meet extraordinary emergencies, but we should proceed on the theory that every time we have to resort to military force we have weakened the foundations of our Republic just to that extent."

HARDING WITHDRAWS FROM JERSEY PRIMARY

Insufficient Funds to Make Contest Reason Assigned by His Campaign Manager.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Harry M. Daugherty, manager of the campaign of Senator Harding, sent a letter today to Ralph Hendrickson of Jersey City, asking him to withdraw the petition naming Senator Harding as a candidate in the New Jersey Presidential primaries because the Senator did not have enough funds to make the contest. Senator Harding, he said, was making contests only in Ohio and Indiana, because he lacked sufficient funds to contest for other States.

"In frankness," says the letter, "I wish to say to you that Senator Harding has not entered the canvass of your State because of the expense involved. If it was New Jersey alone, we might be able to make a proper organization there, but when you consider that there are twenty-one States holding primary elections required by law, you will appreciate that it is financially impossible for us to engage in all of these contests. Accordingly Senator Harding's friends have confined their efforts to but two primary States—his own State of Ohio and our immediate neighbor, Indiana.

"Indeed, I may say that Senator Harding himself would not engage in the various State campaigns requiring such tremendous expenditures as the present contest involves. He has not the inclination, if he had the means to do so.

"In view of the generosity of Senator Harding's friends in New Jersey in thus voluntarily assuming sponsorship for his candidacy in your State, I am most reluctant in requesting you to withdraw the petition filed with your Secretary of State, but I am compelled to do so for the reasons stated."

GENERAL WOOD PAYS TRIBUTE TO M'KINLEY

Recalls His Old Friend on Visit to the Late President's Home Town.

SEES VOTERS' ENTHUSIASM

Big Crowd Cheers Him as He Continues Campaign to Win Ohio's Republican Indorsement.

Special to The New York Times.

CANTON, Ohio, April 2.—General Leonard Wood, continuing his campaign for Ohio's indorsement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the Presidency, was greeted everywhere in the Akron and Canton districts today by enthusiastic crowds. In Akron he made four speeches. Two were to audiences, for the most part, men employed in the great rubber industries, who cheered him to the echo, while hundreds lingered after the meetings to shake his hand and pledge their support in his fight for the nomination.

General Wood spoke tonight in the Canton Auditorium, a memorial to the late President McKinley. It was President McKinley who commissioned General Wood as Colonel of the Rough Riders and later appointed him Governor General of Cuba. The first thing General Wood did when he arrived here late this evening was to visit the beautiful McKinley monument in Westlawn Cemetery, where he placed a wreath of ferns and orchids at the foot of the tomb of his old friend. A crowd of men and women stood in the doorway of the tomb as General Wood advanced to place the wreath.

"A splendid memorial to a splendid citizen," was the General's only remark as he placed the wreath in position.

Following his fine reception in Cleveland yesterday afternoon and last night, when he was cheered by thousands of persons who thronged the armory of the Cleveland Grays, General Wood was up early this morning for a conference with his managers in charge of the Cleveland district. He left Cleveland at 10:30 o'clock and arrived in Akron at noon. He remained there four hours, every minute of his time, with the exception of twenty minutes for luncheon, being passed in speaking to or shaking hands with his Akron supporters.

Fine Greetings in Akron.

General Wood's first speech in Akron was to the members of the Chamber of Commerce. Next he visited the Court House, where another big audience greeted him, and from there he went to the Goodyear Auditorium, where he received an ovation from more than 2,500 men and women. The fourth meeting was an overflow one from the Goodyear Auditorium, and here again he was greeted by more than 2,500 workers who had been unable to crowd themselves into the auditorium.

Before the business men of Akron General Wood devoted most of his speech to a discussion of the business problems of the country, emphasizing his conviction that increased production was the answer, in large part, to the high cost of living problem. He explained in detail his position on taxation, pointing out that one of the greatest of the duties now facing the Federal Government was to take the needed action to spread the war burden over a long period and in doing this to remove what he termed the suicidal hold of excess profit taxes which was strangling American business.

After a short stop in the Akron Court House, General Wood proceeded to the Goodyear Auditorium, where, before beginning his speech, he, as representative of the Government, presented in the name of the President the Distinguished Service Medal to Mrs. W. J. Quinsler of Akron. As a Red Cross nurse in France Mrs. Quinsler had labored in the front lines, caring for wounded Americans. The citation of the War Department was that the nurse had remained under fire to care for the untransportable wounded regardless of the danger to which she was exposed.

After the presentation of the medal General Wood addressed the workers who crowded the auditorium. He said the "square deal" must be the slogan of both capital and labor.

"No man in America is doing greater harm to his country," said General Wood, "than is the selfish employer of labor who refuses to listen to the just protests of those who are on his pay rolls, and, on the other hand, there is no one more dangerous than the selfish labor leader of the agitator class. Fortunately, such leaders are, as a rule, aliens and not Americans."

American Leaders for Labor.

"Labor must get rid of such leaders as I have in mind," he continued. "American labor must be led by American leaders. There is nothing more vicious than the doctrine preached by enemies of labor to the effect that there is nothing in common between capital and labor. If capital is honest with labor and labor honest with its employers, their differences will, in my opinion, soon disappear. It is the simple rule on both sides of the Golden Rule."

General Wood read extracts from a letter written by one of the best-known officials of labor in the United States to William B. Haywood, head of the I. W. W. Haywood recently wrote to this official, who is high in the councils of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, asking that the Brotherhood contribute to a fund being raised by the I. W. W. for the release of certain agitators, among them Eugene Debs, from Federal prison.

In part the reply of the Brotherhood official, every word of which General Wood said he indorsed, was as follows:

"I have read your communication through. I want to say to you that it is my opinion that you are conducting a most dangerous propaganda against our American institutions. Your evident purpose is to excite the lawless, the ignorant and the uninformed citizenship of this country.

"As to the statement, 'the working classes and the employing class have nothing in common,' I have this to say: There are no such classes in this country. All good citizens belong to the working class. This does not mean necessarily that they must work with their hands and in overalls. The man at the desk or the superintendent of a factory is just as much a working man as the man who works at the bench.

"A working man who quits when the whistle blows with his hammer in the air can never expect to occupy the position of superintendent. A man gets out of life just what he invests in it. You, William D. Haywood, are doing the working men of this country the greatest injury of any man I know of. You are teaching false doctrines, and for no other purpose than that of exploiting your fellow-workers."

"That," said General Wood, "is, in my opinion, as splendid an expression as I have ever heard from any man, be he of labor or of capital. It is the very keynote of the industrial situation. Follow that advice and all the wrinkles that disturb the relations of capital and labor will automatically disappear."

Thomas F. Turner, head of the Wood organization of Stark County, presided tonight at the mass meeting in Memorial Hall, and more than 4,000 persons were present.

"It has been," said General Wood, "a good many years since I have been in Canton. I used to visit here often during the Presidency of William McKinley, and I want to say to you who were his neighbors that he was one of the finest Americans I have known. Before the Spanish war it was my duty to call at the White House once or twice every day when Mr. McKinley was President. I recall the smiling greeting with which he always received me. I recall that in the days that immediately preceded the war declaration against Spain his remark every morning was, usually, 'Well, have you and Theodore declared war yet?'

"I also recall that a short time before we entered that war McKinley said to me: 'We may be forced into war, but not until I am convinced that God and man approve the step.' Those words of the lamented President, to my way of thinking, typify the sentiment of the American people toward the horrible thing we call war."

Asks How Our Naval Budget Agrees with Wilson's 'Point'

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 2.—Le Matin publishes on its front page the following:

"The fourth of the famous Fourteen Points of President Wilson says that suitable guarantees ought to be given that the armaments of all nations shall be reduced to the lowest point compatible with the internal security of the nations. A dispatch from Washington announces that the House of Representatives has just voted the naval budget of the United States for 1920-21, and that the budget reaches the unprecedented sum of $425,000,000, equivalent to £85,000,000.

"The British naval budget for 1920-21 reaches only £84,000,000. The American naval budget is then not only the largest naval budget which America has ever had, but the largest naval budget in the world.

"May we not ask Mr. Wilson how he reconciles these figures with the fourth of his Fourteen Points?"

WOOD HAS LEAD NOW IN MICHIGAN

Seems to Have Best Chance of Carrying the Republican Primaries on Monday.

RESULT LIKELY TO BE CLOSE

Lowden Apparently Second and Johnson Third at Present—Hoover's Friends Active.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, April 2.—On the eve of the Michigan primary the odds seem to be in favor of General Wood winning in the Republican struggle. Followers of Hoover are making a last feverish drive to put him in the front, but the indications are that they will fail.

Senator Johnson is here tonight and he attracts a large crowd. He has strength here, for he receives the credit here for obtaining the return of the 339th Infantry from Siberia. Practically all of the men in that regiment were from Michigan.

A leading political strategist of the State who is not tied up to any of the candidates said tonight that in his opinion Wood had "an edge on the situation," although he thought that Wood had lost strength in the closing days of the campaign partly because of the charges that he was spending large amounts of money—charges which may have been ill-founded, but, nevertheless, left a bad effect.

Reports from almost every section, this man said, convinced him that Governor Lowden had a chance but probably would fall behind Wood. Senator Johnson, in his opinion, would run third. But he added that the situation was apparently so close that the scales might be tipped before Monday and Johnson get second place.

So far as the Democrats are concerned, the general opinion is that Attorney General Palmer will win the delegation, followed by the organization, McAdoo and Bryan are in the race, but it is not believed that they can overcome the lead which Palmer seems to hold.

The Hoover candidacy is arousing much interest. While he has proclaimed himself a Republican, his name is on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. He has considerable strength in Michigan, too, and if his workers can get his followers out to vote he will probably make a showing.

It can scarcely be said that the State is on tiptoe about the primary despite the tours of the State by Wood, Johnson and other candidates. People in the hotel lobbies, in the stores and on the streets are not talking much about politics and have not given much study to campaign problems. Many who back Wood remark that he was Roosevelt's friend and that Michigan was always a good Roosevelt State. Several who were questioned concerning universal military training, said that they did not believe it would be put into effect, even if Wood was elected President. Some said they were for it. The majority, when asked if they favored it, replied, "Oh, I suppose so" or words to the same effect.

The charges and countercharges which have been shot back and forth by some of the candidates at first amused, then tired, the voters. The bitterness of the struggle has tended to strengthen Hoover. Many people say that, at any rate, Hoover has no axe to grind and is not calling others names. He has strength among business men, too. It is hard to find a business man who will say, when he gets down to facts, that he would be displeased if Hoover were to be the next President.

Senator Johnson has considerable strength with the masses. This is not because he opposes the treaty, which is apparently not a burning issue just at present, but he make an appeal to them which the less aggressive Lowden has not made. Lowden's strength lies largely with the farmers and business interests. He also has strong organization support in many sections.

There is some talk among the leaders here that Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas, who is supporting Wood, may be put forward as his running mate if Wood is nominated.

ALLEN DEFENDS WOOD ON CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

Kansas Governor Asserts Borah Has "Changed His Tune" Since the 1912 Election.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, April 2.—Speaking here tonight on behalf of General Wood, Governor Allen of Kansas said:

"I would rather have a man whose friends respected him enough to contribute to his campaign fund than the man who spends his money to be elected. General Wood has always been a salaried man and he did not have sufficient money to pay for his own campaign.

"Senator Borah has changed his tune since 1912, when he and I campaigned together in the interests of Theodore Roosevelt. Every dollar spent in the Roosevelt campaign was subscribed by friends of the Colonel. It is not the natural conclusion for Americans to make that subscribers to election campaigns give their money for a selfish motive. They do so because they believe the man to whose fund they subscribe is the man the country needs."

Governor Allen declared that he had subscribed to the Wood campaign and had given $50,000 worth of advertising to the General through the columns of his newspaper. He characterized the campaign of those opposed to General Wood as "cheap and trashy, unjust, unfair and unmanly," and said that no man who knew Leonard Wood would say that his administration would be influenced by those who subscribed to his campaign fund.

"The opposition to General Wood is chiefly because of the uniform he wears," he continued. "The uniform of the American soldier has never been a danger or a menace in the past. He is just a plain American citizen, the product of American institutions, and the pacifists are the ones who are referring to his uniform in their attacks upon him. General Wood's life has been one of endeavor and he is the man America needs at this hour."

He charged Government extravagance during the war, asserting that millions had been spent for war materials which were not delivered until after the armistice.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Two new attacks by Mexican bandits involving American citizens were reported to the State Department today. One resulted in the death of H. A. Jafredson of 60 Irving Place, New York, and the wounding, probably fatally, of Alexander Oberg, whose nationality is not given.

The other was an attack on a train in which Major Edgar W. Hurr, Assistant Military Attaché of the American Embassy at Mexico City, and Mrs. Burr and other Americans were passengers. They all escaped safely.

Word of Jafredson's death was received in a cablegram from Tampico, which said he was an employe of the International Petroleum Company and was murdered at the company's plant at Annatlan Camp on March 30. The attack on Major Burr's train was at Tres Marias on March 28.

Secretary Colby immediately telegraphed instructions to the Embassy at Mexico City and the Consulate at Tampico to make prompt representations looking to the speedy apprehension and punishment of the murderers, and directed the Consulate to report to the department further details regarding the nationality of Oberg.

Calixto Ruiz, the presumed murderer of the American aviators Connolly and Waterhouse, whose bodies were found on the beach of Los Angeles Bay in Lower California, has confessed to the crime, according to a report from Calexico to the State Department today. Ruiz, who is now a prisoner at Mulego, will be tried at Tia Juana.

The Embassy at Mexico City reported today that the Mexican Government has issued orders to the military authorities in Sonora to return to the United States, through the American Consul at Nogales, the airplane of Lieutenants G. L. Usher and L. M. Wolf, United States Army, who were forced to land at Nacozari last February.

MEXICAN REBELS PLAN A UNITED GOVERNMENT

De la Barra Heads Move, with Co-operation of the Leading Revolutionists.

AGUA PRIETA, Sonora, Mexico, April 2.—A movement for a new united Government in Mexico, to be launched by the more important rebel factions of the republic, came to light here today when half sheet posters appeared in the form of proclamations signed by Francisco de la Barra, former Provisional President of Mexico.

The proclamation says in part:

"The united revolutionists against the present unfortunate Government have seen fit to unite at a very abrupt moment, in order to get together a group that will satisfy the interests and the politicians, and to propose to our country and the civilized world that the following candidates will give all of their moral support and all that they have to obtain a reversal of the present Constitution of the republic so that free and definite legal elections may be had."

The proclamation is signed by the list of leaders in the new movement, together with the respective Federal offices they will occupy, as follows:

Emilio Rebasa, Secretary of Foreign Relations; Adolpho Reyes, Secretary of Internal Government; General Manuel Pelaez, Secretary of War and Marine; Toribio Esquival, Secretary of Buildings and Public Credit; Manuel Calero, Secretary of Communications; Jorge Vera Estanal, Secretary of Justice; Francisco Vasques Gomez, Secretary of Agriculture; Manuel Garza Aldape, Secretary of Industry, and M. Lopez, Secretary of Public Instructions.

WILSON ASSAILED BY ITALIANS HERE

Fiume Situation Brought Up at Stormy Session of Italy America Society.

RESOLUTIONS SIDETRACKED

C. E. Hughes, Re-Elected President, Says Views Do Not Represent Majority.

The annual meeting of the Italy America Society at 165 Broadway yesterday afternoon, except for the election of officers and the reading of reports, was stormy.

Two resolutions were suggested and both after much discussion were referred by Charles E. Hughes, the President, for the consideration of the Executive Committee. This was done at the insistence of Justice John J. Freschi of the Court of Special Sessions, who argued that the society had no right to pass upon such resolutions until their propriety had been looked into.

The first resolution was to request Thomas W. Lamont, Treasurer of the society, to convey to President Wilson the compliments of the society upon his recovery to health. It also stated that he should consider the Italian problem from the point of view of the political and economic interests of the people of the United States. This was especially emphasized, it was said, in view of the latest diplomatic events. It went further in saying, in conveying the feelings of the society, that the people of Italy should remain in the Adriatic and in the Mediterranean assured of their safety. The resolution added that, as a sincere friend of Italy, Mr. Lamont should assure Mr. Wilson of the society's belief that Italy represents all the American ideals of social justice and democracy.

For Italian Aspirations.

The second resolution was proposed by Agostino de Biasi, an Italian merchant. It was to the effect that the society extend its sincere sympathy to Italy, with respect to her national aspirations, and express its best wishes for a complete victory in her fight for such aspirations. There was no mention made as to the recent recovery of President Wilson. Dr. Antonio Stella, a member of the Board of Trustees, said it was not necessary to compliment the President concerning his return to health.

"Until we are acquainted with Woodrow Wilson's temperament, and not his attitude, we will not attain the desired results by such a resolution," said Dr. Stella. He was interrupted by Arthur Bennington, who said that the President's mind was made up concerning the Italian situation, and that nothing the society could do would change it. He said he thought the society should give the Italian press their support, or, perhaps, suggest a resolution which they should submit to the Committee on Foreign Affairs in the Senate.

"As a United States citizen," said Justice Freschi, "I believe that this society has no business to interfere in the affairs of Europe."

At this point Luigi Criscuolo, who had been endeavoring to get the floor, spoke up:

"If we are afraid of Woodrow Wilson that's another story," said the speaker. "I am in favor of telling Wilson that we do not favor his foreign policies or his motions, and that we are going to show him so on our next ballots."

Mr. Hughes told the society he would have the resolutions submitted to the Executive Committee. The meeting was then adjourned.

After the meeting Mr. Criscuolo, a writer on international finance and a recently elected member of the Board of Trustees, declared he had meant every word that he had said, adding that the society was trying to sidetrack all political matters.

Appeals for Fiume.

"As the people of Italy are practically 100 per cent. in favor of Italy's aspirations in the Adriatic," said Mr. Criscuolo, "and as Premier Nitti has been more or less on the fence on the question of gaining Wilson's approval, which he never will get, it appears to me that the decorations recently sent to a number of the members of this society were not for service rendered but as a damper on their opinions in favor of Italy's aspirations.

"Since I first proposed, in 1917, to Hamilton Holt and the late Ambassador to this country the organization of this society, it has constantly avoided questions of international politics. This was, after all, the factor which would have aided most, since and before Caporetto.

"When Premier Nitti was in the United States in 1917 he made an urgent appeal for coal, steel and raw materials. They were not forthcoming, and we who dreamed of an Italy America Society followed his appeal with written words wherever we could. The question of Fiume may have been embarrassing to some officers of this society, but it also prevented Italy's national resources from being known to American financial and commercial interests. It thus results that England, France, and even Germany are now endangering supremacy in Italy's financial and commercial future, including Fiume and the Adriatic provinces."

Mr. Hughes and Justice Freschi said the statement of Mr. Criscuolo must not be taken as the attitude of the Italy America Society toward President Wilson. They said that it was not the business of the society to exploit the political ideas of any of its members, adding that the statements of Mr. Criscuolo did not represent the views of the majority of the society.

Society to Incorporate.

A letter of appreciation for the welcome recently given the Italian Ambassador was read. The society decided to seek incorporation by the State and a committee was named to look after the details. A Travel and a Publication Department at 23 West Forty-third Street will be opened soon.

Charles E. Hughes was re-elected President of the society. Baron Romona Avezzana, Italian Ambassador to the United States, and Robert Underwood Johnson, the new Ambassador to Italy, were elected Honorary Presidents. Lindsay Russell was elected Vice President; Theodore Rousseau, Secretary, and Thomas W. Lamont, Treasurer.

The following members were elected to the Executive Committee: Hamilton Holt, George F. Baker, Jr., Richard Washburn Childs, William Fellowes Morgan, Paul D. Cravath, Robert P. Perkins, Francis N. Markee, Charles E. Hughes, Lindsay Russell, Theodore Rousseau and Thomas W. Lamont. The following were elected as a Board of Trustees: Alexander J. Hemphill, George W. Wickersham, Franklin Q. Brown, Cornelius Vanderbilt, James G. White, Lionello Parera, Luigi Criscuolo, Antonio Stella, Jules S. Bache, Henry W. Cannon, Charles B. Alexander, Nicholas F. Brady, Austin B. Fletcher, Captain G. F. Guardabassi, Whitney Warren, John J. Freschi, F. Quattrone, Arthur Bennington, William Guggenheim, Luigi Solari and Agostino de Biasi.

DETECTIVE INDICTED IN DIVORCE INQUIRY

Charged with Perjury in Suit of Mrs. Florence L. Cummings of Brooklyn.

"FRAMEUP," SAYS HUSBAND

Westchester County Grand Jury Secretly Investigated Case—Wife Drops Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 2.—The arrest of Samuel L. Cohen, a private detective of Manhattan, and his arraignment today before County Judge Young at White Plains, to an indictment for perjury revealed that the Westchester County Grand Jury had secretly investigated the testimony in the divorce action brought by Mrs. Florence L. Cummings against Michael R. Cummings of Brooklyn, and that as a result of the inquiry Cohen and Arthur L. Levine of Brooklyn were indicted for perjury. Deputy Sheriff Crawford, who arrested Cohen, was unable to find Levine.

Cohen was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Crawford at his home at 80 West 169th Street, the Bronx, at midnight, on a bench warrant obtained by District Attorney Davis from County Judge Young and was taken to White Plains Jail wheer he gave bail for $2,500. He declared there was nothing wrong with his testimony.

The testimony given before Justice Platt, at the Cummings divorce trial by Cohen was that he poser as a census inspector and found Cummings at 650 Humbolt Street, Brooklyn, living with an unknown woman who was not the plaintiff in the action. Cohen testified that Cummings told him the woman with him was his wife and to enter her in his census report.

When Cummin gs read about the divorce trial in the newspapers in which he was mentioned as the defendant, he asserted that he never say Cohen or gave him any information. He alleges a frame-up. Supreme Court Justice Platt sent the divorce papers to District Attorney Davis for an investigation.

Cummings, in his testimony before the Grand Jury, said that the address where Cohen alleged he found him with an unknown woman is the home of his mother, where he resides with his two brothers and sisters. He further stated that no other persons resides in that house, and that he has been a resident there since 1916.

Since the Grand Jury began its investigation, Supreme Court Justice Tompkins has signed an order discontinuing the Cummings divorce action upon the mition of William Greenthal of the law firm of Greenthal & Greenthal. In an affidavit of the attorney it is stated that Michael Cummings was personally served with the summons and complain of his wife on Dec. 23, 1919, in Brooklyn, and that he filed no answer or demurred, and that the plaintiff now desires to discontinue her action.

It is said that the Federal authorities may prosecute Cohen for falsely representing himself as a Government census agent. Cohen declared today that such a statement was false as he had simply said he was a census inspector.

BERNHARDT IN PARIS TRIUMPH IN ATHALIE

Emotion of Her Audience at First Performance a Tribute to Her Genius.

GREETED WITH ENTHUSIASM

Despite Her Age and Infirmities, Her Dramatic Power Is Great.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES

PARIS, April 2.—In her own theatre and playing her famous role of Athalie in Racine's play, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has returned to the Paris stage. At her first performance yesterday the emotion of her admirers, who crowded the theatre, was the most singular of all the tributes ever paid to this extraordinary woman. When she was carried on the stage in the golden litter of Athalie, surrounded by attendants, the audience cheered and wept in a kind of frenzy, which even she, in all her fifty years of triumphs, had never known equalled. It was many minutes before she could begin to speak the lines of the great tragedy.

In spite of her seventy-five years, in spite of her infirmities, including partial blindness, her power seemed as great as ever to interpret the terrible grandeur of the Eastern Queen and yet show all the impulsive indecision which Racine attributed to her. In her welcome there was as great a tribute to her unimpaired art as to her fame and personality.

Between the acts hundreds sought to see her in her dressing room and kiss her hand. Among them was Mme. Deschanel, wife of the President of the Republic. The room was heaped high with baskets of flowers, and for some minutes it was crowded to its utmost with famous people come to do homage.

But Sarah is as imperious as the Queen of Racine's play. Between the acts it has been her custom ever since she became so great as to be a law into herself to sleep, it may be for ten minutes or half an hour between acts, and in accordance with that rule every one was soon hurried out of the room, and the great tragedienne, in her magnificent robes and wig, lay down to rest until she was sufficiently rested to play the second act.

JOHN BARRYMORE HAS NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

His Condition Due to Overwork and Time of His Return to Role of Richard III. Indefinite.

The condition of John Barrymore failed to improve yesterday and the Plymouth Theatre was again dark last night. Announcement was made also that there would be no performance of "Richard III." today, and no definite date was given for Mr. Barrymore's return to the stage.

Mr. Barrymore was said by his friends to be suffering from a nervous breakdown, and there was a persistent report on Broadway yesterday that he would be unable to act for a considerable length of time. Only the bare announcement of his illness was made public by Arthur Hopkins, his manager, and at the theatre comparatively little was known of his condition. He is confined to his home in this city.

Mr. Barrymore first gave evidences of a breakdown during the performance of "Richard III." on Wednesday night, when on several occasions he all but collapsed. The beginning of his illness dates back from the run of "The Jest," at which time, in addition to giving one and sometimes two performances of that play at the Plymouth each day, he was engaged in motion picture work as early as 8 o'clock in the morning. His motion picture activities continued even after the beginning of rehearsals of "Richard III."

Two weeks ago the mid-week matinees at the Plymouth were dropped in an effort to conserve the star's strength.

WILL SELL OPERA HOUSE.

Philadelphia Metropolitan Building to be Auctioned April 28.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—Operagoers were astonished to hear today that the Metropolitan Opera House will be sold at auction by order of the local company, which is headed by E. T. Stotesbury.

The advertisement of the sale, appearing in columns of a local paper, announced that the property would be sold on April 28.

This action comes as the culmination of a series of conferences on the opera situation conducted by Mr. Stotesbury since his return from Palm Beach several weeks ago. Efforts to interview Mr. Stotesbury on the situation which gives rise to the sale of the opera house were unsuccessful, and it was explained that Mr. Stotesbury would say nothing at this time.

Charles P. Schribener, Secretary to Mr. Stotesbury and also Secretary and Treasurer of the Metropolitan Opera House Company of Philadelphia, confirmed the news of the sale and stated that it will not come as a surprise to men familiar with the situation. He refused to be quoted on the future of opera in Philadelphia.

TEACHERS' MINIMUM $2,000.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—Delegates of the American Federation of Teachers, representing every Eastern State from Maine to Georgia, adopted a resolution at their "better schools" conference here today recommending $2,000 as the proper minimum annual salary for teachers in city as well as country schools. Equal pay for the same work, without distinction of sex, was urged.

Another resolution pledged co-operation with State Legislatures and local boards of education to obtain higher pay and more respect for the teaching profession.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

A Good Friday "Parsifal."

In accordance with a custom that has become well established Good Friday in New York is a day for the performance of "Parsifal." So "Parsifal" was given yesterday before a large audience at the Metropolitan Opera House in the form in which the musical public has heard it this season.

There was one exception. For the first time Miss Florence Easton appeared in the part of Kundry, thus adding one more to the list of English speaking participants and increasing by a certain percentage the proportion of the English text that is made intelligible to the listeners, or that falls upon the listening ear with the sound of pure English pronunciation.

With all the excellence of diction and intelligence in the use of the vernacular that the foreign born artists display, and some of them display much, there is inevitably the obtrusion of an alien accent in their pronunciation of the English text that is a disturbance and a damage to the dramatic illusion. In some cases, it might be said, the better the diction, in the technically musical sense, the more unmistakably is the wounding of the English words conveyed to the listener. That there is so little of this speaks for the care that has been bestowed upon this feature of the performance; but it always seems as if a little more might be done and that, for instance, Mr. Didur might be warned not to say "The time is comb" when he means "The time is come," and that Mr. Rothier might be warned of several phrases in his long speeches. But the difficulty is great and shall not be underestimated.

Miss Easton's impersonation of Kundry is on a distinctly different plane from that of most of her predecessors. It is less massive than some, both physically and vocally, in each respect it is charming and carries its own measure of conviction. Vocally it is more lyrical than many Kundrys that have been heard here. The voice is not a dramatic soprano; it has little of the contralto quality that has been so often bestowed upon this music. It is, for one thing, a pleasure, a relief to the listeners, that the "tessitura" of the past is so well suited to Miss Easton and that she can sing the high notes of it without strain and with as little difficulty as the lower.

The part has been sung with greater dramatic intensity, with greater warmth of expression in certain scenes, as the temptation of Parsifal in the magic garden. Yet there is a quality of charm which Miss Easton gives to this that is all her own. To it her personal appearance contributes much. It is not necessary to close the eyes to understand what should be the effect upon Parsifal, had he been of other stuff. It was, in fact, a beautiful impersonation, worthy of its place in the performance, reflecting high credit upon Miss Easton and signifying an increase of her artistic stature.

The performance was otherwise like those made familiar this season to the lovers of Wagner's music drama. It still seems, and seems more so on repeated observation, to those who remember the atmosphere of warmth and rich sylvan beauty in the old decoration of the first act, that the present one is unnecessarily thin and cold and that it does not fulfill Wagner's prescriptions. And it also seems, especially, that the rather stubby little pagoda in the magic garden, with the effect of electric light bulbs around the pillars—a pagoda not built for two, and into which Parsifal has some embarrassment in inserting himself to receive Kundry's maternal caress—does not offer the most fortunate surroundings for this crucial scene of the drama.

Some, no doubt, will hope that there will be a reconsideration of such matters next season. In the meantime, lovers of "Parsifal" may congratulate themselves on a performance that has so many musical excellences as that of yesterday.

CAPTAIN CHARLES KNIGHTED

Commodore of the Cunard Fleet Gets Order of British Empire.

According to a cable dispatch received yesterday by the Cunard Steamship Company from the head office in Liverpool, King George V. has made Captain James Thomas Walter Charles, Commodore of the company's fleet, a Knight of the Order of the British Empire for his services during the war, when he commanded the transports Mauretania and Aquitania. Previous to the war he was made a Companion of the Bath. He will be known as Sir James Charles when he brings out the refitted Aquitania next July.

The two largest British liners afloat will both be commanded by Knights, as Captain Sir Bertram Hayes of the White Star liner Olympic, due here early in July, received his knighthood last F. in the list of birthday honors for sinking two German submarines off Portsmouth on May 12, 1918.

In the early days of the war the Aquitania, commanded by Captain William T. Turner, was used by the British Admiralty as an auxiliary cruiser off the Irish coast until she had a collision in the Irish Channel, when she was laid up off Cowes for a long period. She was converted into a transport and carried 30,000 troops to the Dardanelles. Later she took 47,687 American troops to Europe.

$425,000 FIRE AT CAMP DIX.

Mysterious Blaze Destroys Dental Infirmary—Inquiry Ordered.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP DIX, N. J., April 2.—Fire of mysterious origin, starting when the building was deserted at the dinner hour this afternoon, destroyed Dental Infirmary No. 1, near camp headquarters. The two-story frame structure was beyond saving before the camp fire department reached the scene.

The fire is the most serious loss from a money standpoint in the history of the camp, as the infirmary contained dental equipment valued at $425,000. An immediate investigation of the fire has been ordered by Major Gen. Hale. An equally mysterious fire recently destroyed two wings at the base hospital. Before that the camp had been unusually free from fires. Although the adjoining village of Wrightstown had been visited by four since the camp was opened, the last of which destroyed the big Salvation Army hotel, with a loss of two lives, the dental infirmary was one of three at the camp, which under Colonel Baker, camp dental surgeon, cared for the teeth of tens of thousands of soldiers during training days and carried on an exceptional oral reconstruction work among wounded soldiers sent back from European battlefields.

To Honor Wheat Director Barnes.

Plans are being made for a dinner in honor of Julius H. Barnes, United States Wheat Director and President of the United States Grain Corporation, in appreciation of his three years of service to the country in war-time and afterward. The committee included James A. Stillman, George A. Zabriskie, Paul M. Warburg, Darwin P. Kingsley, James A. Farrell, Charles M. Schwab, J. McB. Bowman, J. Ward Warner and William Fellowes Morgan.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The performance of "Pygmalion and Galatea," to be given by the Actors' Fidelity League in aid of the Girls' Vacation Association, will take place on Sunday, April 25, at the Knickerbocker Theatre. There will be an auction of seats at Henry Miller's Theatre April 18.

Walker Whiteside has closed his tour in "The Master of Ballantrae," in which he has been appearing all season. The play will probably be seen here next season.

There will be a special matinee of "Shavings" at the Knickerbocker Theatre next Thursday.

The Sterrett cartoons, "Polly and Her Pals," are to be the basis of a musical comedy to be produced by Joseph M. Gaites next season.

The screen rights to "Wedding Bells" have been purchased by Constance Talmadge.

A testimonial performance will be tendered Jacob Ben-Ami at the Jewish Art Theatre next Thursday night. Mr. Ben-Ami will appear in "The Mute," by A. Weyter.

"Tosca" was sung to another large audience at the Opera last evening, the cast including Mme. Farrar, Messrs. Lazaro and Scotti, and Mr. Moranzoni conducting.

DETECTIVES BATTLE MANIAC IN WALDORF

Parents of Leslie T. McCleary Have to Barricade Door for Safety.

While tenants of the office building across the street and passersby on Thirty-third Street looked on, Detectives Frederick Chapey and Dennis O'Day of the Waldorf-Astoria engaged in a battle lasting for almost half an hour to subdue Leslie T. McCleary, son of James T. McCleary, Secretary of the American Iron and Steel Institute. McCleary, who is 45 years old, was armed with a large carving knife, had barricaded the door of his room and held hotel employes at bay for two hours.

In an adjoining room were McCleary's parents, with their door barricaded with furniture to prevent their son from gaining entrance. He was subdued after a struggle and carried to a waiting Flower Hospital ambulance, in which he was removed to Bellevue Hospital, where he is being held for observation.

Knowledge of McCleary's condition was discovered about 9 o'clock yesterday morning, when he began throwing from the window of his room, on the third floor, candelabra, knives, forks and napkins. On the napkins was written:

"One hundred dollars will be paid to you for my rescue; get Judge Gary; he will rescue me.

"LESLIE McCLEARY."

The disturbance attracted a crowd of several hundred persons on the Thirty-third Street side of the building, and the hotel detectives were notified.

According to the hotel detectives, when they knocked at the door of McCleary's room he said:

"I've got a bomb and a revolver in here. I'll blow to pieces the first man who enters; if you get by me, I'll jump from the window; candle and paper here will set fire to the hotel."

The detectives say they tried for an hour to persuade McCleary to open the door, but met with no success. At last they entered the room of his parents and climbing out the window made their way along a narrow ledge to the son's window, where they entered and found him confronting them with a knife in one hand and a heavy tray lid in the other. The detectives placated him temporarily by saying:

"Everybody is after us because we're friends of yours."

In the centre of the room was heaped a pile of papers and the drawers from the hotel dresser. Nearby on a serving table were a half dozen ignited candles. The room had been wrecked, with most of the furniture piled against the door.

While the hotel detectives were reasoning with the man, he telephoned to a newspaper and askd for a Mr. Curtis. He said:

"Mr. Curtis, you'd better get two reporters up here. I'm going to murder somebody; it'll make a good story."

Meanwhile Patrolman Kennedy of Traffic A and Patrolman Brown of the West Thirtieth Street Station were summoned. When they knocked at the door of McCleary's room he turned toward the door and the two hotel detectives then seized him and succeeded in wrenching away the knife. The patrolmen broke down the door, and, with the detectives, succeeded in overpowering the man.

A Good Cobbler Sticks to His Last

After all, there is one aim and end to the business of providing the play-going public with the best theatre tickets.

That is to help you get the seats you want when you want them, swiftly, understandingly and inexpensively.

We have spent 47 years trying to do just that.

We have not allowed ourselves to be distracted from our ideal by recurrent frenzies of gross overcharging.

We have not invented any tricks to distract you from our real business. We feel that it is a man's-size job to do that business well, without embroidery.

Our service fee is time-honored and fixed—50 cents over the box-office price.

All of which is probably responsible for the fact that you can't think of going to the theatre without thinking, quite naturally, "McBride's."

GIANTS BEAT SOX IN FINAL FRAME

Score a 6 to 5 Victory When Hoyt Blows Up in Ninth Inning at Nashville.

KAUFF'S SINGLE DECIDES IT

McCarty and Fletcher Assist in Winning Batting Melee — Frisch's Early Homer Big Factor.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 2.—The Giants hopped on Waite Hoyt for three runs in the ninth inning today and won a loosely played game from the Boston Red Sox by a score of 6 to 5. The erstwhile Brooklyn schoolboy had hurled three previous innings and was going well when he blew up. A single by Benny Kauff that scored Ross Young from third base decided the pastime.

Allan Russell started against the Giants today and was hit rather freely in the course of the five innings he pitched. Phil Douglas went to the hill for the Giants at the outset and was succeeded by Rube Benton in the sixth. The game was played on Dudley Field, on the campus at Vanderbilt University, as the local Southern Association ball park was a quagmire following the rains of the past few days.

The Sox were the first to score, rushing a run over the plate in the first inning. Hooper walked and McNally and Menosky poled handle hits into left center, filling the bases. McInnis hit into a double play, Hooper scoring while the two-ply killing was in progress. Frisch then threw out Eibel.

Frisch's Homer Ties Score.

Frisch tied the score unassisted in the second inning when he slammed the ball into the right field seats for the circuit.

In the third the Giants took the lead. Burns led off with a scratch hit past McNally. Young and Fletcher flied out, but Doyle singled to right and Kauff doubled to left, scoring Burns and Doyle.

They remained in front until the seventh, when the Sox forged ahead. Eibel, who led off, walked, and Foster flied to Burns. Scott then rapped the ball into the right field stand for a home run, Eibel jogging around ahead of him. Hager fanned, but Hoyt reached first on Fletcher's low throw of his grounder. Hooper singled to centre, Hoyt stopping at second, and when Frisch made a wild heave of a tap by McNally, Hoyt counted.

Sox Increase Lead.

The Sox increased their lead and apparently sewed up the game in the eighth. With one out, Kelly muffed Frisch's throw of McInnis's grounder, Eibel doubled to centre, putting McInnis on third. Foster hit to Fletcher and McInnis was run down between third base and the plate, but Scott again bobbed up with a timely blow, a single to left, on which Eibel scored. Foster also attempted to score, but was cut down at the plate on Burns's peg to Snyder.

Then came the ninth inning crash. McCarty, batting for Benton, slammed a double to right. Hoyt couldn't keep the ball over the plate and walked Burns. Barnes was put on to run for McCarty, and Hoyt filled the bases by walking Young. Fletcher pasted a single to centre, scoring Barnes and Burns and putting Young on third. Doyle hoisted a fly to Eibel, Fletcher advancing to second after the catch, and Kauff crashed one into centre field, scoring Young and putting an end to the game.

ROBINS HOLD FINAL DRILL.

Today's Game with Yanks Will End Their Stay in Jacksonville.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 2.—The Dodgers were put through their final Spring training workout at Barr's Field this afternoon, but they were on the field less than an hour when a heavy shower put an abrupt end to the drilling. However, before the rain fell Manager Robbie succeeded in sending them through a long batting practice and a batting exercise. Moffit, Mamaux and Miljus each took turns pitching to the batters.

The Dodgers have been ordered to report to Robbie early tomorrow morning at the training quarters of the Yankees and before lunch the rotund leader will send them through a strenuous workout.

Robbie is not satisfied with the way his team has batted against the Yankee slabsters recently and is peeved because the American Leaguers have won the last two games. The Brooklyns have a three game advantage over their rivals, and will make desperate efforts to increase the lead tomorrow afternoon when the eighth game of the series will b played.

Rube Marquard and Leon Cadore are slated to pitch for Brooklyn. Marquard was charged with losing the sixth game of the set and the elongated southpaw is anxious for revenge. After the contest, the Flatbush squad will prepare for its barnstorming journey northward. The team has been here five weeks and the players are looking forward to a change of scenery.

Boston Marathon on April 19.

BOSTON, April 2.—Under the auspices of the Boston Athletic Association, the twenty-fourth annual American Marathon from Ashland to Boston will be held as usual on Patriots' Day, April 19. The start will be made at noon. Prizes will be given to the first eight men to finish and a souvenir to the following twenty-five. The race will be run in accordance with A. A. U. regulations. Entries are receivable up to April 12, with George V. Brown of the Boston A. A., Exeter Street, this city.

Lehigh Wrestling Captain.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 2.—At a banquet of the Lehigh wrestling team tonight, Johnny Bertolet was the unanimous choice for Captain of next year's squad. Bertolet represented Lehigh in the 145-pound division. His home is in Reading.

Weaver Rejoins White Sox to Play Out His Contract

HOUSTON, Texas, April 1.—George ("Buck") Weaver, star third baseman of the Chicago American League Club, joined the team here today and participated in the workout. Manager Gleason of the Chicago team said Weaver would play out his contract. Weaver left the club at Waco, Texas, recently, asserting that he was not satisfied with his salary.

GIANTS' INFIELD IS SOURCE OF WORRY

If Kelly and Doyle Come Through McGraw's Pathway Will Be a Smooth One.

The chances of the Giants in the 1920 pennant race will depend almost entirely on how Manager McGraw's infield experiment turns out. With a pitching staff, catching department and outfield which ranks with the best in the league, it is the infield which must bear the brunt of the blame if the Giants fail to come through during the coming season.

Upon George Kelly's ability to play first base in big league style and on Larry Doyle's physical condition the success of the Giants' season largely depends. Kelly has been up in the major leagues more than once before, but each time he was not used regularly, and his work as a pinch hitter was not of marked success. However, he had thorough seasoning last year in the International League, where he attained high ranking as a batsman. He joined the Giants late last season, and for a time he was unable to hit. Toward the end of the season, however, he hit his stride, and when the season ended he was batting at a .300 clip.

Kelly is big, strong and fast, and has much natural ability as a ball player. Arthur Irwin, the veteran, who has had Kelly under his wing at Rochester, predicts a great season for Kelly. He says that what he needs is to be in the game every day, that it will take a couple of weeks to bring out his talents. Manager McGraw is going to use him at first from the start, and is confident that the big Californian is ripe for a great year in the majors.

Doyle Seems in Good Shape.

Larry Doyle is still a valuable ball player, but he has been in the game for a number of seasons now and he cannot stand the physical strain of the game as he could in the old days. Doyle started with the Giants in 1907. He has been through the stress of a dozen pennant fights and he hasn't the stamina of the former days. Last season Doyle was injured at critical times in the pennant race, and the club suffered. Just now he appears to be in perfect fair shape, but he has not dared to cut loose as the youngsters do at the training camp. Doyle is still a great man with the stick, and even if he is unable to cover second throughout the season, he will be of great value to the club as a pinch hitter.

McGraw is pretty well decided to start the season with Frisch at third base in Heinie Zimmerman's place. At San Antonio, where Frisch played third, he was a sensation, and he promises to be one of the outstanding figures of the game during the coming season. Frisch is fighting fit, and knows just how to play the ball. He covers a lot of ground, and for this reason alone he would be of greater value perhaps at second base. But unless McGraw is able to get a seasoned third baseman in a trade before the season opens, he will be forced to use Frisch at third. If the rumored trade for Stock goes through, Frisch will go back to second. Fletcher is still a fast, capable ball player, and he has more than one good season left. With this combination of new and old talent, Manager McGraw hopes to improve the infield situation which was such last season that it cost the Giants a good many ball games.

It is certain that Fletcher and Frisch will carry out their parts in the infield but whether Kelly will fill the bill at first or Doyle will be able to last out the season at second are problems which are giving Manager McGraw much food for thought down South.

Manager McGraw has five veteran boxmen and this staff should be able to carry the burden of a championship race. Benton and Neis, left handers, and Toney, Douglas and Jess Barnes, right handers, make up a staff which would be hard to equal in pitching strength. A few of the youngsters may be retained as utility boxmen for McGraw thinks well of Winters, Bill Ryan and Wilbur Hubbell. There are many other capable boxmen on the Giants' squad but they lack experience and will not be ready for big league duty until after another season or so in the minors.

Great Group of Backstops.

The catching staff of the Giants is the strongest in the game. McGraw has more catchers than he needs in McCarty, Snyder, Gonzales and Earl Smith. Some of the veterans will be used in future trades, and it is likely that Manager McGraw will use young Smith as a regular backstop, because he is ready for big league duty after last season's period of instruction on the Giants' bench. Smith is not only a fast, skillful catcher, but he is a powerful left-handed hitter.

The Giants' outfield is also one of the best in the game, with Burns, Kauff and Young. Arnold Statz, who has shown great talent this Spring in the South, is sure to be retained as a utility outfielder, and in case McGraw has to use one of his regular outfielders in a trade Statz may get a regular place. Bowen is another young outfielder who is sure to be heard from in the future.

The infield situation seems to be the only thing which stands between the Giants and another pennant. If Kelly and Doyle come through the club will have tremendious strength. But if the new first baseman does not fill the bill, or if Doyle is unable to stand the hard campaigning another season, it may be necessary for the Giants' manager to break up the strength of the other departments of his club in order to fill the gaps in the infield.

MAROON TO MEET VERMONT.

Strong Green Mountain Nine at Fordham Field Today.

The Fordham baseball team will play its second game of the season when it meets the University of Vermont nine at Fordham Field this afternoon. The Green Mountain aggregation is exceptionally strong this year and has already registered victories over Georgetown and Princeton.

Coach Arthur Devlin announced last night that Culloton, a youngster from Ulster Academy, will pitch for the Maroon nine and that Cousineau will do the catching. The rest of the lineup will be the same as that which started in the Boston College contest on Thursday.

YANKEES TO CLOSE JACKSONVILLE STAY

Will Start North After Today's Game with Robins—Fewster Out Until July 1.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 2.—The Yanks had their next to the last Jacksonville workout today, and just managed to get in a spirited batting and fielding practice when rain again chased them indoors.

The club has been getting so little work here in the last few days that Huggins called all hands to morning practice. It was well that he did, or another day would have gone to waste. Miller intended to put on the last interteam practice game this afternoon, but, when rain started to fall around 3 o'clock, he called it off.

It was warm here this morning and the players got a lot of fun and exercise out of kicking a basket ball around. Lefty O'Doul unearthed the basket ball and the players amused themselves with it like a bunch of kids.

The club will wind up its Jacksonville stay with a game with Brooklyn tomorrow. On Sunday both clubs will break camp and start on their trip North. It is only a five-day jaunt, the shortest made by any club. Games will be played in Columbia, S. C.; Greenville, S. C.; Chester, S. C.; Winston-Salem, S. C., and Lynchburg, Va.

Huggins announced today that Bob Rice, a young infielder, and Maree de Vitalis would leave here tomorrow night. Rice will go to Philadelphia and stay there until it is time to report to the Springfield Eastern League Club. De Vitalis will have his nose operated on in New York. He will probably be sent to a club in the Pacific Coast League.

Report from Fewster.

Following a written report to the club on Fewster's condition, it is realized that there is no chance of that player's being of any assistance to the club before July 1. Dr. Black wrote that the operation on Fewster was performed after an X-ray photograph had shown it to be imperative.

About a teaspoonful of clotted blood was removed from Fewster's brain and drainage tubes have been put in. The pressure also was taken off the nerves that paralyzed his speech. Fewster can utter a few words now, but the doctors say it will be at least a week or two before he really will start to talk.

It will be from four to six weeks before Fewster will begin to regain his strength, so it is evident that the club can expect little from him in the early months of the season.

The lifeless of Fewster's recovery has completely changed the plans of the club. Huggins intended putting over a deal of some kind which involved Pratt, but at present that seems to be off. Ward is being favored over Pratt at second base just at present, but this move is not regarded as permanent.

A Deal Brewing.

There is some kind of a deal brewing between the Yanks and the Boston Red Sox, which involves several players now on the New York Club. Boston is anxious to get a crack at some of New York's young pitchers. Business Manager Sparrow says that, if a deal is made, it will not be put over until after the team returns to New York.

Huggins today made positive announcement that he wanted Meusel regarded as his third baseman. There seemed to be a general impression," said he, "that when I put Meusel on third I still had a mental reservation that sooner or later Baker would be back. I don't think Baker will be back, and for that reason I advised Meusel that he would play the position not in a temporary capacity, but as a regular. I'm not considering him as makeshift third baseman either, but as a man who will make a reputation at the position."

THINK HUGGINS WANTS VITT.

Kelly, Yankees' Scout, Has a Chat with Red Sox Manager.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 2.—Joe Kelly, scout for the Yankees, was here today for the purpose of conferring with Ed Barrow, manager of the Red Sox. Neither Kelly nor Barrow would discuss the reason which impelled the former to come here, but it was reported that he was in quest of a third baseman and that he sought out Barrow to broach a deal for the services of Oscar Vitt, who is a holdout from the Red Sox ranks.

CLOSE CALL FOR SUTTON.

Narrowly Escapes Defeat by Cutler in Exhibition Billiards.

George Sutton again defeated Albert Cutler in the second of their series of exhibition 18.2-balkline billiard matches at Cranfield's Academy last night. The score was 300 to 288. It was one of the closest calls that the Chicago veteran has had in his recent games. With a little break in the luck, Cutler might have succeeded in winning with the score just reversed.

When Cutler stepped to the table for his fourteenth inning, he needed 129 points to win. At that time, the score stood 288 to 159 in favor of Sutton, and there did not appear to be even a remote chance of the former Bostonian pulling the game out of the fire. He gathered the balls quickly, however, and before he finally missed he had made a total of 117 points, his high run of the game, and came within twelve markers of winning. After his 117th point, the balls lined up on Cutler, and he was compelled to play an across-the-table bank shot. He missed it by the narrowest of margins.

This run was featured by some excellent billiards. After getting the balls together, Cutler nursed them delicately, displaying fine second ball play. It was seldom that he was compelled to drive either of the object balls the length of the table. Most of his counting was done at one end of the table and along the line.

After Cutler missed, however, Sutton went to bat and ripped off the twelve points he needed to clinch the game. Sutton averaged 21 6-14 and had high runs of 65, two of 52 each, 33 and 25. Cutler averaged 20 8-14 and made high runs of 117, 54 and 43.

The score by innings follows:

G. Sutton—65 0 1 52 23 13 52 3 4 25 33 12 5 12. Total—300. Average, 21 6-14; high run, 65.

A. Cutler—14 8 0 1 2 11 0 43 4 46 6 34 2 117. Total—288. Average, 20 8-14; high run, 117.

CARPENTIER TO SPEAK.

Will Deliver Address at Benefit for American Legion Post.

Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, will formally greet his comrades of the American Legion on the evening of April 11, from the stage of the New Amsterdam Theatre. The occasion will be the benefit performance of the S. Rankin Drew Post of the American Legion for the purpose of raising funds to complete the post gymnasium. William H. Cook, Chairman of the committee in charge of the benefit, has arranged with Carpentier and the latter's manager, Francois Descamps, for the appearance of the visiting Frenchmen on the stage. Carpentier, wearing the uniform of the French army, will deliver an address through his interpreter, in which the French idol will extend a greeting from his comrades in the army of the French Republic to the soldiers who were American comrades in arms. James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion, is also scheduled to appear at the performance.

Sunday Sports Bill Is Now a Law in Massachusetts

BOSTON, April 2.—Amateur sports may be played on Sunday afternoons in cities and towns which accept the provisions of a bill signed by Governor Coolidge today. An emergency preamble makes it possible for the legislation to become effective as soon as any municipality designates play grounds or buildings within which the sports may be held.

CORNELL TOPPLES VIRGINIA HANDILY

Ithacans Keep Up Good Work of Southern Trip, Scoring Victory by 7 to 4.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 2.—Cornell registered her second victory of the Southern trip by defeating Virginia today, 7 to 4. As in yesterday's battle with Georgetown, the Ithacans fielded sharply throughout.

The two errors charged to Gordon, the visiting twirler, were due to the muddy diamond. Harrison, pitching his second game for Virginia, was wild and received miserable support. In the fourth inning he issued three passes, made a wild pitch and a bad peg to first. These miscues, with singles by Howard and Gordon, gave Cornell a three-run lead.

The Southerners pushed two runs across in the fourth and knotted the count in the sixth.

For Cornell, Mayer and Howard opened the seventh with scratch hits. The former tallied on a fielder's choice and the latter on Baughman's fumble. In the ninth Howard was safe on Burnett's bad throw, and Spiers was given a life by D. Kuyk's error. Gordon scored both with a timely blow to centre.

A sensational one-hand stab of Captain Mahood's line drive by Murphy was the fielding feature. Bonagura covered much territory without a slip.

TIGERS BEAT JOHNS HOPKINS

Princeton Nine Thrashes Baltimoreans by Score of 16 to 5.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, April 2.—Johns Hopkins and Princeton University met in the initial game of the local season this afternoon, and the Tigers won easily 16 to 5.

The winners started their run-getting in the first inning by lacing Wellifer for four runs. Lee was the first man to score, after receiving a free ticket to first base. The next man was hit by a pitched ball, and a sacrifice and an error by Wellifer put Lee across the plate.

Hopkins shoved its first marker across in the same inning. Benson and Littman walked, after forcing Lee, and Shad Sherritt made a two-base hit. After this session the Black and Blue nine never gave the Tigers much trouble.

Bobby Owings was sent to the rescue of Wellifer, who seemed to be easy pickings for the Orange and Black. Owings clicked in very good fashion until the seventh inning, when the Tigers again went on the warpath and sent eight counters across the plate.

McNamara made a wonderful shoestring catch of Sherritt's line drive which seemed good for a couple of bases. Trimble caught a fine game for the winners, and his throwing to bases was excellent.

W. and L. Defeats Amherst, 5 to 4.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Va., April 2.—Washington and Lee opened its baseball season here today by defeating Amherst College, 5 to 4, after ten innings of thrills. The Generals got a two-run lead on their opponents in the first inning and held it until the seventh. In the ninth Cobb, the Generals' centre fielder, drove in a score with his third three-bagger of the game. McCullum pitched superb ball for Washington and Lee while Zink showed up well on the Amherst mound for the first five innings.

Stadium for Kentucky University.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 2.—The newly formed University of Kentucky Athletic Council has decided to replace the present wooden stands on the university athletic field with a modern concrete stadium. An athletic field house will be added to the plant. The stadium will be built a section a year, the whole plant to be completed in about five years. Dr. J. J. Tigert, former Wildcat football coach, Vanderbilt graduate, has been elected permanent Chairman of the council. The university is after the services of a nationally known coach.

Stars in Bicycle Races.

John Staehle and Gus Lang, two former amateur bicycle champions, will compete in a one mile match race, the best two out of three heats, against Harry Kaiser and Willie Hanley at the Velodrome in Newark tomorrow afternoon. The real feature race of the day will be a one mile match, best two out of three heats, between Frank Kramer and Arthur Spencer. In a special one mile "all star" invitation Kramer, Spencer, Egg, Madden, Staehle and other cracks will meet.

70 TO 1 SHOT IS WINNER AT BOWIE

Mallowmint Wins in the Mud and Pays $1,399 to $20—Wood Violet Takes Feature.

BOWIE, Md., April 2.—As a reaction following the thrills and enthusiasm of opening day, a very commonplace card was offered at Bowie this afternoon, all but one of the seven events being given over to the cheaper performers. In addition to this, the rain had left the track heavy with mud and this probably was responsible for the form flipflop experienced by the patrons. Where six favorites won yesterday, six went down to defeat this afternoon, and one of the day's winners paid as good as 70 to 1 in the mutuels.

The long shot of the day came in the final race when Mallowmint scored handily from Kingling over the mile and seventy yards route. Mallowmint paid $1,399 to $20 in the mutuels. Prunes, which was the favorite, was third. Mallowmint never left the issue in doubt. Going to the front at the start and opening up a gap of two lengths he won well in hand. Kingling and Prunes were always well up and the others were badly outrun.

The Martha Washington Purse, the feature on the program, provided an excellent contest and went to J. B. Dahlgren's Wood Violet, which just managed to get home in front of Tailor Maid with a head to spare, while the latter was but half a length in front of Cobalt Lass, which finished third.

The failure of Tailor Maid to win was one of the several disappointments of the day as this filly had been made a 7 to 10 choice. However, she was very badly ridden by Jockey Coltiletti who has shown many times that he can do better. His bad ride was due largely to overconfidence in his mount. He rode the entire race as though he felt he could go out and take the lead at any time, but when he did make his move he found Wood Violet doing her best and was himself unable to be of much assistance to his own mount.

The Martha Washington was a seven furlong dash and Allivan, with her usual alertness at the post, was away in front of the others. She cut out a fast pace for half a mile and seemed to revel in the mud. But turning into the stretch she tired badly from her exertions. Meantime, Wood Violet had been close up while Coltiletti had remained back with Tailor Maid. At the stretch turn Tailor Maid was brought up after being kept on the outside all the way and once permitted to run, quickly made up ground. It was a nip and tuck battle all the way when Wood Violet came through on the rail and rushed past Tailor Maid. It was then that Coltiletti discovered he had been too confident and he attempted to make a strong finish, but was too late, however, for Wood Violet managed to last to the end and gain the decision by a head. Allivan had dropped far back by this time, and Cobalt Lass moved up with a rush in the stretch to take third.

The first event brought out a field of ten starters for the four-furlong test for maiden two-year-old fillies. Several of these had never raced before and acted very badly at the post, with the result that two of them were left. These were Northern Lady and Segurola. Mary Erb, which had been tried twice in New Orleans, got up in time to take the race from Gorman by a head, with Cullinan, making her first appearance, finishing third. Josie Gorman, which had been made a strong favorite because of some good races in the South, got into the lead shortly after the start and seemed to have the race won easily, but entering the stretch she quit badly and the winner, having escaped interference at the start, came on with a rush and gained the decision. Cullinan ran like a good filly and after being in close quarters at the start ran a strong race and finished gamely.

DEFEAT OF GRANT AND SHAFER PLACES HARDY AND VOSHELL IN DOUBLES FINAL ON COURT

HARDY AND VOSHELL VICTORS AT TENNIS

Defeat Grant and Shafer, Former Indoor Champions, 7—5, 6—4, and Enter Final.

WILL SETTLE TITLE TODAY

Winners to Meet Tilden and Richards—Veteran Hardy Is the Star of Semi-Final Encounter.

Veterans of indoor tennis held the centre of the stage at the Seventh Regiment Armory yesterday, and, after two close sets of doubles, the new team of Samuel Hardy and S. Howard Voshell entered the final round of the team event, eliminating Wylie C. Grant and G. Carlton Shafer at 7—5, 6—4. They will meet the present champions, William T. Tilden, 2d, and Vincent Richards early this afternoon, following the singles final, in which the title holders will fight it out for individual honors at 11 o'clock this morning.

Yesterday's light was far from favorable to fast tennis, artificial illumination being necessary from the very start, and the eyes of the oldtimers were severely tried by the strain following the ball. Under the circumstances, it was surprising that the total of errors was no larger. Grant and Shafer have twice been indoor doubles champions in the past, and Shafer also won the title on one occasion with King Smith, while Grant has won the singles no less than five times, and had a share in the doubles honors on half a dozen occasions as well. With Shafer also holding the record of twice finishing as runner up in the individual event, this team represented a big share of indoor tennis history, and the spectators at yesterday's match had something more than an impersonal interest in their success.

It was Samuel Hardy, however, the oldest man of the quartet, who played the most effective tennis yesterday, so far as practical results were concerned. He handled the major portion of the chances for his side, since Grant and Shafer were at inclined to experiment with Voshell's famous volleying and overhead game, but Hardy's record was one of surprising steadiness and of point-earning power as well.

The Day's Best Showing.

In the two sets the veterans made a total of only seventeen errors, which included three double faults, and, although this was by far the best showing of the day, on the defensive side, he outstripped his fellow-contestants still more on the offensive, earning more than twice as many points as his partner and nearly equalling the total of his opponents combined.

Voshell was steady, so far as netting was concerned, but lost the greatest number of points by hitting out. His service was not quite the weapon that it generally is, and he could be credited with only one clean ace during the match, which was balanced by a double fault. Hardy, on the other hand, slipped over four service aces and earned no less than eleven points in the opening set alone by his drives and volleys. His success in this respect was chiefly due to the skill with which he picked his openings, for he seldom had to apply unusual speed to shoot the ball to the unprotected spots.

Grant and Shafer were exactly even in the number of their errors, but the latter had a slight advantage in placements and in general his mistakes were the less costly. They both depended much on team work and the ability to keep the ball in play.

Within Point of Set.

The former champions were three times within a point of the first set, leading at 5—4 on games and having Voshell in the hole at love—40 on his service. An ace and some fine smashing, however, pulled the eventual winners out of danger. In the second session Grant and Shafer lost by a single break in service and were always threatening right up to the finish.

The match began with a tremendous deuce game, which lasted through twenty-eight rallies, Shafer eventually winning his service by fifteen points to thirteen, one of the longest games on record indoors. Voshell's delivery brought quicker results, his opponents driving the ball out four times in succession. Grant, however, also won his serve, balancing a double fault with a clean ace, and Hardy repeated the trick in almost identical fashion for the splitting of the first round.

Shafer's second service game turned out badly, and his own errors at the net, added to a double fault, gave Hardy and Voshell the first break. They lost this advantage immediately, however, when the left-hander's delivery was also upset, with a double fault and a fine lob by Shafer aiding in his downfall. The games then alternated up to 5—4, when Hardy and Voshell narrowly escaped dropping the set, after seeing a score of love-forty against them by reason of their errors. Having pulled this one out of the fire, however, they promptly broke through on Grant with a love-game, in which the server did most of the damage by flubbing his volleys. Hardy made it 7—5 with a well-served game which started with a clean ace and a fine volley by Voshell.

Break Comes Early.

The break of the second set came early. They divided love-games at the start, and then Grant lost his service with two more volleying errors, in spite of a preceding ace. From this point to the finish, it was an even battle, with the server always on top. Shafer won the fifth game single-handed, mixing in an ace with two smashes and a winning volley for four straight points. Voshell was the server in the final game, with his team leading 5—4 in the regular rotation. He was at the short end of a love-thirty score by hitting out after Shafer had put over a clean placement drive, but two errors squared the points. Hardy then brought up the match-point with a splendid volley, and when Voshell found a short lob coming his way he smashed beautifully to the base-line for the finishing tally, taking the match at 6—4.

William Cunningham was in the umpire's chair, and the linesmen included Tilden, Fischer and other tennis stars.

Bobbie Jones, Young Golf Wizard, May Go to Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 2.—One of the most encouraging reports from a golf standpoint which has emanated from Harvard recently is that Bobbie Jones, the sensational youngster who last year was runner-up for the national amateur crown, would matriculate at Harvard next September. Jones has been a student at Georgia Tech in Atlanta for two years and the reason given for his inability to go abroad this Spring in search of the British amateur championship was that his parents insisted he continue his studies. His coming would bolster up what is now a rather weak Crimson golf team. Although Harvard has had several intercollegiate champions in recent years, such as James W. Hubbell, E. P. Allis, 3d, and F. C. Davidson, there has been no player here of the first flight since H. Chandler Egan, who captured the national amateur title at Baltusrol in 1904 and at Chicago the following year.

PITTSBURGH WINS FAST HOCKEY GAME

Defeats Kitcheners of Canada in Extra Period Contest by Score of 5 to 4.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 2.—The Pittsburgh Athletic Association hockey team defeated the Kitcheners of Canada tonight by a score of 5 goals to 4 after an exciting game that seesawed from one advantage to another until the tie was broken just before the whistle ended the third period. Several of the American Olympic team players were used in the game.

Parks and Kargles scored for the visitors in the first period, and Drury tallied once for the home team, while, in the second period, Parks again was the first to score for the Kitcheners, on a very pretty shot through the centre. Before the period ended McCrimmon and Drury tied it up, the former scoring on a pass from McGovern and Drury counting when he skated from the far end of the ice and never lost the puck until he had shot it into the net.

With the score 3 to 3 when the last period opened, each team put forth its best efforts, and Parks was again the first to score, but in a few minutes McGovern again tied it up when he shot through the visitors' defense. Just before the finish of the period "Silver" McCrimmon scored from the right side of the rink.

The lineup:

P. A. A. (5).		KITCHENERS (4).
Donney	G.	Hainsworth
Manners	P.	Hillman
Nagle	C. F.	Kargles
McCrimmon	C.	Parks
J. McCormick	R. W.	Carson
Drury	L. W.	Clarke

Substitutions—P. A. A.: L. McCormick, McGovern, Madden. Kitcheners: Fehmeur, Kelperho, Hillbourne.

Goals—Parks (3), Kargles, Drury (2), McCrimmon (2), McGovern.

FORM NEW TENNIS BODY.

Clubs of Four States Organize Missouri Valley Association.

KANSAS CITY, April 2.—Organization of the Missouri Valley Tennis Association, the district representative of the National Tennis Association in this section, has been effected and the organization placed in shape for the approval of the national organization. Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa are the States concerned. The organizations represented are Triple A, St. Louis Country Club of St. Louis, the Kansas City Field Club, Kansas City Athletic Club, and Rock Hill Tennis Club of Kansas City, Des Moines Golf and Country and Des Moines Golf and Tennis Clubs of Des Moines, the Sioux City Tennis Club of Sioux City, and the Omaha Field Club of Omaha.

The election of officers resulted in the choice of James H. Cravens of Kansas City as President; Roland M. Hoerr of St. Louis, Vice President; Carter H. Hull of Des Moines, Second Vice President; Dix Teachnor, Secretary; C. Drummond Jones, Treasurer. The Executive Committee will be composed of one representative from each of the clubs in the new body.

The organization as formed will now go to the national body for its approval. This latter is virtually certain, as the association here has been organized under the direct supervision of the national body. The latter will either accept the district association and place it in charge of tennis in this district or place it on probation for a year. Another matter that will come up before the national body is the admission of Oklahoma to this district. The latter State has asked that this be done. A field secretary will be named for each State in the district.

The Missouri Valley singles and sectional doubles tournaments have been awarded to Kansas City, starting on July 17. The Central States tournament will be held in St. Louis by the Triple A, starting on July 3. This will be the week previous to the national clay courts championship in Chicago, with the latter just ahead of the Kansas City tournament.

AWARDS FOR GREEN FIVE.

Dartmouth Basket Ball Team Given Letters by Athletic Council.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., April 2.—Seven members of the Dartmouth basket ball team have been awarded letters by the Athletic Council. They are:

Captain H. N. Browne, of Barre, Vt.; P. S. Hample, Montreal, Can.; R. W. Yuill, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; G. H. Chamberlaine, Washington, D. C.; H. W. Schulting Jr., Passaic, N. J.; C. Jakey, Greenfield, Mass.; G. V. MacDermott, Uxbridge, Mass.

All of these men, together with the crack Freshman five will be again eligible next year.

Armstrong as Tennis Captain.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 2.—Joseph A. Armstrong has been chosen by tennis players of St. Paul to lead the St. Paul Tennis Club. Armstrong is one of the leading exponents of the game in the State, and in 1917 was rated among the first ten stars in the country. Other officers elected by the saintly city racquet stars were S. J. Pfaff, Vice President; H. A. Hauenstein, Treasurer, and W. R. Rumble, Secretary.

Women Net Stars to Tour East.

KANSAS CITY, April 2.—The Misses Marjorie Hires and Evelyn Seavey, Kansas City tennis champions and holders of the Great Plains doubles title, and Miss Marguerite Davis of St. Paul, runner-up in the Great Western tourney at Chicago last Fall, plan to enter several of the Eastern meets this season. The trio will motor East in August and enter as many tournaments as possible.

Williams Tennis Outlook Good.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., April 2.—Williams is looking ahead to one of the best tennis seasons in late years, the addition of A. H. Chapin, a freshman, promising to add considerable to the team's strength. The youngster ranked fourth among the national junior players a year ago. He won handily in the college championship tournament last Fall.

PENN IS SLIGHTLY FAVORED OVER YALE

U. P. Crew Has Had Benefit of Earlier Practice for Today's Schuylkill Race.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—Ushering in what is expected to be the greatest year in the history of the sport, the crews of Yale and Penn will match oars over the American Henley course of one mile and five-sixteenths on the Schuylkill River tomorrow.

Two races will be rowed, the first at 4:30 o'clock between the junior 'Varsity boats and the other a half hour later between the 'Varsity shells. Penn is a slight favorite to win the 'Varsity race, which of course will be the big event, but the Yale blades have nevertheless made the better impression since their arrival here last Wednesday. Earlier practice is one of the reasons Penn is a favorite over the Elis. Coach Joe Wright and his Red and Blue blades were on the indoor rowing machines early this year, and they took to the water before the Yale crews. Wright also has done a lot of experimenting and shifting in the Penn boat to mold together a satisfactory combination. Guy Nickalls, the Yale coach, has not encountered this difficulty.

Yale has shown better racing form than Penn in practice skirmishes. On Thursday the Blue sweeps registered eight seconds faster for the Henley course than their Red and Blue rivals. The Yale 'Varsity beat the junior 'Varsity in 7 minutes 5 seconds, while the best Penn's first shell could do was 7 minutes 13 seconds. This is very poor time for the Henley course and is hardly a good test of the speed of the two crews. If the winning crew does not finish in 6 minutes 55 seconds tomorrow all dope will be wrong. This time was made in 1918, when Penn beat Yale over the Schuylkill course by a good four lengths.

Yale men are banking heavily on a victory, and no one more so than Coach Nickalls. It is the first crew the latter has coached since April, 1917, when he entered the Engineer Corps of the British Army, in which he remained until the end of the war.

During Nickalls's absence, Yale suffered frequent rowing reverses, being beaten both in 1918 and 1919 by Coach Wright's Penn crews. Returning to New Haven early in March of this year, Nickalls has had only a few weeks to build a crew, but has been aided by a wealth of good material, and a jolt for Penn may be in store for tomorrow.

The crews will line up as follows:

Penn 'Varsity — Gillette, coxswain; Thomas, stroke; Ellison, No. 7; Keller (Capt.), No. 6; Turner, No. 5; Copeland, No. 4; Swan, No. 3; Frank, No. 2; Ames, bow.

Yale 'Varsity — Carson, coxswain; Peters, stroke; Ellis, No. 7; Lovejoy, No. 6; Flagg, No. 5; Schieffelin, No. 4; McHenry, No. 3; Moulton, No. 2; Allen, bow.

Yale Junior 'Varsity—Hadden, coxswain; Lawrence, stroke; Driscoll, No. 7; Cowles, No. 6; Walker, No. 5; Herd, No. 4; Mail, No. 3; Carman, No. 2; Whitney, bow.

Penn Junior 'Varsity—Vanderhechen, coxswain; Prescott, stroke; Guenther, No. 7; Hinckley, No. 6; McElroy, No. 5; Shuman, No. 4; Deaver, No. 3; Howell, No. 2; Bedell, bow.

HARVARD TO ROW UNION.

Outcome of Today's Race May Settle 'Varsity Boating.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 2.—"I expect to be able to announce definitely tomorrow night whether the present order of the 'Varsity crew will hold for our race with the Naval Academy on April 24," declared Coach William Haines of the Harvard 'Varsity crew, who will pit his first and second eights late tomorrow afternoon against the Union Boat Club crew, which he also coaches.

The three shells will square off for a two-mile race at the Cottage Farm Bridge. Haines recently shook up his Harvard shells and has been keenly desirous since that time of seeing them under a real test to determine whether the move was a wise one. Tomorrow's race will afford him this opportunity.

Th Unions are former Harvard men and row in the following order: Stroke, Captain Lund; 7, Jeffries; 6, H. Parkman; 5, Torch Parkman; 4, Whitman; 3, Coolidge; 2, White; bow, Murray; coxswain, Kreger.

An innovation in Spring rowing will be produced this year in the form of weekly races for the lower crews, which will be held every Friday for the class and lower Freshman eights. Dr. Paul Withington, Coaches William Haines, Edward Brown and Burt Haines will follow the races in launches.

The crews will be ranked according to the result of the races, and may challenge other shells in higher standing. This new plan is known as a ladder tournament, and is expected to add greatly to the interest in rowing. The system is so arranged that if a sixth crew defeats a fifth crew the winner becomes the fifth instead of the sixth, and the loser drops a rung on the ladder. This system creates a spirit of team work in the daily practice with a definite goal to reach.

Americans Lose Hockey Game.

CLEVELAND, April 2.—The Tigers of Hamilton, Ont., defeated the Cleveland hockey team, 4 to 3, in an overtime game here tonight.

HERRICK MAY DRILL CREWS.

Asked to Coach Union B. C. Oarsmen for English Henley.

BOSTON, April 2.—Invitation has been extended to Robert F. Herrick, former Harvard oarsman and head coach, to coach the crews of the Union Boat Club of Boston in preparation for the English Henley this Summer. Mr. Herrick's decision is expected within the next few days, and only one obstacle, that of possible interference with business obligations, can prevent his acceptance.

Mr. Herrick coached the Harvard crew which defeated the Union Boat Club at the English Henley in 1914, winning the Grand Challenge Cup, the premier trophy of rowing. He likewise coached the Harvard crews of 1916, which were the victors over every opponent they encountered. Personally, Mr. Herrick could still comply with the English definition of an amateur oarsman, which prohibits professional coaching of crews entered for six weeks prior to the race concerned.

The Union Boat Club has two eights which are practicing daily on the Charles River. The club crew will engage in a regatta with the Naval Academy on the Severn May 1, and will likewise be represented in the American Henley on the Schuylkill at Philadelphia on May 29.

The first eight is rowing at present as follows:

Stroke, Charles Lund; 7, Amory Jeffries; 6, Paul Withington; 5, Henry Parkman; 4, Fred Whitman; 3, Amory Coolidge; 2, J. White; bow, H. J. Morray; coxswain, Henry Kreger.

SKATERS WAIT FOR ACTION ON ENTRIES

Miss Weld and Niles, Leaders in Figure Work, Plan to Sail Wednesday for Antwerp.

BOSTON, April 2.—Two Boston skaters probably will represent the United States in the figure skating championships to be contested in Antwerp from April 20 to 30. Miss Theresa Weld and Nathaniel W. Niles, who hold several national titles, accompanied by Mrs. Niles, who is herself a figure skater of national prominence, are planning to sail on the steamship Finland from New York next Wednesday. Their entries have been made by the American Olympic Committee, but some uncertainty enters into the matter of their acceptance because of the fact that the names were not sent to Olympic headquarters until two days after scheduled closing of the lists. The Boston party will consequently delay its departure until definite assurance has been obtained that the entries have been accepted officially.

Miss Weld recently won the international figure skating title at the meet at Iceland Rink in New York and Mr. Niles, who is the former titleholder in the same event in the men's competition, lost the title this year to Sherwin C. Badger, the 18-year-old star of the Boston Skating Club. Mr. Niles was suffering from a lame knee at the time of those competitions, however, which undoubtedly had its effect on the results, and there is no question of his standing as one of the strongest, if not the strongest, representatives of America who could be put forward for Olympic competition.

At present, however, the Olympic plans are most unsatisfactory to the American Olympic Games Committee, in view of the early closing of entries. The American authorities have sent word to Belgium that it has been practically impossible to select competitors a full month in advance of the time when the events are scheduled to begin. Reddington Fiske, Belgian Consul in Boston, has cabled to Colonel Osterreith, head of the Belgian Olympic Committee, earnestly requesting that the American entries be accepted.

Mr. Badger, who is the present international figure skating champion, would be unable to compete in the Olympics for reason that he is a coxswain candidate of the Freshman crew at Harvard. Mr. Niles, although he has lost the major title, is at present champion with Miss Weld for pair honors.

Lafayette Game Is Cancelled.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., April 2.—The Lafayette College baseball team was idle again today. The game scheduled here between Lafayette and William and Mary College was called off because of wet grounds. This is the second consecutive day that the Lafayette team has had its game called off as a result of wet grounds. Tomorrow Lafayette is slated to meet Richmond at Richmond, Va.

HARVARD RENEWS FISHER'S CONTRACT

University Football Coach Plans Minor Changes in System for Next Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 2.—F. W. Moore, graduate manager of the Harvard Athletic Association, announced tonight that Robert T. Fisher had renewed his contract as head football coach. Fisher himself declared that he had not arranged for his assistants, but hoped to have his associates of last season with him.

While little is being said officially about revising the Haughton system, it is known that, while the basic fundamentals of Harvard's game will be as for so many years, the charge of the backs will be quickened and a more compact interference offered them in close formation. Considerable direct passing will be used in addition.

Coaches Fisher and Jimmie Knox are now working out a dependable defence to stop an attack similar to that used by the Oregon offence against Harvard tackles last January.

HARTE ON TRIP TO SOUTH.

Tennis Expert Hopes to Recuperate for Davis Cup Competition.

New York lawn tennis players have learned with considerable interest that Richard Harte, who, although not entered in this week's national indoor lawn tennis championship tournament, nevertheless has been the sensation of the indoor tennis courts this season, has left Boston for Aiken, S. C., where he hopes to obtain a complete rest and recovery from the effects of a recent attack of grip.

Harte, who has two indoor victories over William T. Tilden, 2d, to his credit this season, to one defeat by the same player, intends to abstain completely from competition during his visit to the South. In fact, he will not take a racquet with him on his trip. He will remain away two weeks. Harte recently was asked by the United States Lawn Tennis Association to hold himself in readiness to represent this country in the forthcoming matches for the Davis Cup.

The question has been raised among tennis followers as to whether Harte will be as effective in outdoor tennis as he has been in the indoor game, but all who have noted the improvement in his performances this winter and who are familiar with his record as an all-around athlete at Harvard, where his best work was done under the stress of the sort of competition that demands the ability to arise to an emergency, are confident that his strokes will be in even better working order in the outdoor campaign. Harte has played only one match in the last month, wherein he scored a victory in doubles with Richard Norris Williams, 2d, against the New York team in the Boston-New York match on March 20.

"...And I, too, was wedded for life—to Ricoro."

"I know well who discovered Ricoro cigars," declared the minister, as he gazed over the tops of his glasses and beamed expansively at his vestrymen.

"The disclosure of this profound secret came to me—not by divine revelation, but through the performance of what is perhaps my most pleasurable office—the joining of two souls in wedlock.

"The groom was a keen, earnest young man. The bride had something very sweet and womanly about her. They came to the parsonage late one evening.

"'Doctor', said the young man, as we shook hands in parting, 'you've insured my lifelong happiness. May I offer you this?'

"'This' was a bank-note wrapped around a cigar. I remember the bank-note vaguely—it was sizable. But as to the cigar—its charm, its rich bouquet—well, gentlemen, as I said before, he was a most excellent young man. That cigar was a Ricoro."

Sooner or later, you'll discover Ricoro—and the sooner the better. You'll discover in Ricoro the subtle bouquet—the rich and balmy mellowness—peculiar to fine imported cigars. FAVORITES SURVIVE IN PINEHURST GOLF

Ouimet Puts Scofield Out of Running in North and South Tourney by 3 and 2.

GRAHAM HAS HARD MATCH

Goes to Extra Green Before Eliminating Standish—Adair, Winner of Medal, Yields to Newton.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2.—Perry Adair and Jim Standish went down to defeat in today's first match round of the North and South amateur championship tournament at Pinehurst. Adair, who won the qualifying medal yesterday, played against F. C. Newton, the Massachusetts team captain, in today's round and lost by 3 and 2. Standish lost to Sam Graham of Greenwich, the match going to 19 holes.

Ellsworth Augustus and Francis Ouimet both finished their matches 3 up and 2 to play. Augustus went out in 35 against A. W. Brand of Garden City. Ouimet defeated E. L. Scofield of the Woodway Club.

R. E. Bockenkamp, the young St. Louis expert, had things all his own way during the first half of his match with R. H. Gwaltney of Baltusrol and was 6 up at the tenth hole. Then Gwaltney started on a remarkable spurt, played the next six holes in a total under par, won five of them, and reduced his disadvantage to 1 down going to the seventeenth. There Bockenkamp came across with a winning 3 and brought the match to a close.

Ouimet Gets Third Eagle.

Ouimet in today's match with Scofield registered the third eagle 3 that he has made on the first hole during the past week. This time he was within easy distance of the cup in 2. He just missed a birdie three at the next hole, but his four was good for a win. Scofield ran down a long putt for a winning birdie three on the fourth hole, but was 2 down at the turn, lost another hole by virtue of a stymie on the way in, and was finally beaten by 3 down at the fifteenth.

Newton also registered an eagle 3 on the first hole today in his match with Adair, getting to the edge of the green on his second shot and sinking a long putt. Adair was stymied at the second hole and lost that one and also lost the third and the fifth. This put the young Atlantan 4 down and he was still 3 down at the turn.

Adair Putts Well.

Coming in, each won three holes, the match ending at the sixteenth, with Newton 3 up. Adair took 40 to go out, but come home flying. All of the three holes that he won coming in were garnered with the help of long-distance putts. He sank one from the edge of the eleventh, had another long one on the thirteenth, and went down from the edge of the fourteenth for an eagle 3.

The lower divisions fairly bristled with extra hole matches, the most curious of which was the match in the second sixteen between Captain A. T. Roberts of Detroit, who lost a ball and a hole going to the seventh, and Charles S. King of Essex County, who lost a ball, a hole and the match going to the twentieth.

The summary:

First Sixteen.

S. J. Graham, Greenwich, defeated J. D. Standish, Jr., Detroit, 1 up (19 holes); F. C. Newton, Brookline, defeated Perry Adair, Druid Hills, 3 and 2; E. S. Danforth, North Fork, defeated S. M. Newton, Country Club of Virginia, 5 and 3; R. E. Bockenkamp, Midland, defeated R. H. Gwaltney, Baltusrol, 1 and 1; Ellsworth Augustus, Mayfield, defeated A. W. Brand, Garden City, 6 and 5; Harold Weber, Inverness, defeated L. A. Hamilton, Garden City, 3 and 1; J. M. Oakmont, defeated A. L. Mendes, Siwanoy, 3 and 2; Francis Ouimet, Woodland, defeated E. L. Scofield, Woodway, 3 and 2.

Second Sixteen.

F. H. Gates, Moore County, defeated T. S. Fuller, Ardsley, 7 and 5; A. E. Ranney, Greenwich, defeated E. P. Watson, Baltusrol, 2 and 1; A. M. Reed, Garden City, defeated W. S. Dillon, Alpine, 3 and 2; R. F. Munday, Garden City, won from Herbert Buchanan, Shackamaxon, by default; G. H. Howard, Halifax, defeated J. Ernest Smith, Wilmington, 1 up (20 holes); Charles H. Hanes, Merion, defeated Tom Moore, Washington 2 and 1; J. D. Chapman, Greenwich, defeated Fred B. Elliott, Woodland, 5 and 4; A. T. Roberts, Detroit, defeated Charles S. King, Essex County, 1 up (20 holes).

TASK FOR OUR GOLFERS.

Hagen and Barnes Must Play Over Dissimilar Links in British Open.

American contestants in the British open golf championship this Summer will have plenty of obstacles, perhaps more than they bargain for, according to Captain Charles Clark, the Englishman who recently arrived to become the professional at the Engineers' Country Club at Roslyn for the season. Their greatest task will be to accustom their efforts to the two totally different courses, St. George's Hill for the qualifying and Deal for the championship play.

Captain Clark found himself in an argument one day last week at the offices of the P. G. A., but edged his way out by explaining a few truths about the English golf courses. He was talking at the time to Sleck Pirie, Secretary of the P. G. A. Pirie is a Scottie by birth but a worshipper of American golfers by experience. Clark forgot this when he expected Pirie to hail the British professionals as the greatest ever.

"Hagen is liable to win the British open," ventured Pirie.

"Ah," said Clark, "but an Englishman may win the national open at Toledo."

With that the argument got under way. Pirie has been away from Scotland long enough to respect golfers of this country, whereas Clark, who arrived here in the off season, still judges everything by what he has seen abroad. But the latter did offer valuable information to those Americans who will invade England this Summer.

"I was raised at Weybridge, where the St. George's Hill course is located," said Captain Clark, "and I know every foot of it. Moreover, I know the Deal course too. The contestants in the British open will have to play over two courses as different as can be. St. George's, the scene of the qualifying test, is a typical inland course. Fairways are straight and narrow, and any deviation in direction, except perhaps the slightest cut to the ball, will reach the rough. The rough is not long grass, but thick, rich heather, sometimes two feet in height. A ball lost in it is rarely found.

"The greens at St. George's Hill were probably the first of the undulating variety constructed in England. They are certainly wicked. Abe Mitchell played his first golf after turning professional there and learned to his discomfort the treachery of those putting surfaces. A ball tapped a bit too hard will roll past the pin, up a slope, and then back down again sometimes to where it started. St. George's had to be improved a great deal last season because during the war the clubhouse and grounds were used as a hospital. It is nineteen miles from London, in Surrey, and is often reputed as the hardest course in England.

"And when the qualifiers move on to Deal to play in the championship proper they have gone to the other extreme. Deal is a typical seaside links, quite flat, and with the greens level for the most part. Englishmen who have been playing over both courses for years almost dread the idea of changing their game so extensively when they move from St. George's to Deal. As for Hagen, Barnes, Hutchison and others from the United States, I am skeptical. I wish them luck."

MAJOR JOHNSON WINNER.

Makes Clean Score in Military Rifle Association Match.

Major G. H. Johnson of the 22d Engineers, who won the officers' match on Wednesday evening with a perfect score of 75, added more laurels to his record last night in the fifth day's events of the six-day shooting tournament being conducted by the Veteran Military Rifle Association at the 22d Regiment Armory. Just to demonstrate that his previous feat had not been accidental, the Major last night again rolled up a flawless score in the 47th Regiment match, a contest of skill and accuracy that took into account only bulls eyes. No other shots were reckoned in the final results.

Major Johnson proved himself equal to the exacting task by making a perfect shot in every one of his attempts. The conditions of the match called for fifteen shots prone, bulls eyes only to count, and no sighting shots. The competition was open to any active or veteran member of the New York National Guard or the New York Guard or veteran associations of the State of New York.

The winning marksman went about his work with customary coolness and deliberateness and sent each shot home with perfect preciseness. When he maintained his perfect record on his tenth try, it became apparent that most of the field would be eliminated in short order. Several of the contestants had then fallen by the wayside, having missed enough shots to put them out of the running.

On the last five shots, Major Johnson received formidable opposition from Lieutenant J. H. Johnston of the Twenty-third Veteran Association and Lieutenant W. P. Black of the Seventh Infantry Veteran Association. The latter, however, fell down on one of the difficult tries and finished with only thirteen bulls eyes. Lieutenant Johnston hit the target perfectly all but once, and Major Johnson continued his flawless work, never falling in the critical task.

The other match of the evening was the Thirteenth Regiment Match, which called for ten shots prone and two sighting shots, with a possible score of 100. Teams of two men each were entered by many units of organizations attached to the New York National Guard, and the prizes were presented by the 13th Regiment Veteran Association. A team representing the association carried off the first prize with a combined score of 97. Captain Vickers and Lieutenant Kerrigan were the members of the winning duo, the former making 49 and the latter 48.

The 71st Veteran Association's representatives took second place, also with a score of 97, losing to the other aggregation because of better placed shots by the victors. The team of Company E, 71st Infantry, was a close third with the same total, 97.

The summaries:

Thirteenth Regiment Match (10 shots prone, 2 sighting shots, possible score 100)—Won by Thirteenth Regiment Veteran Association (Captain Vickers and Lieutenant Kerrigan), 97; Seventy-first Regiment Veteran Association (Sergeant Bryan and Sergeant Dougherty), 97, second; Company E, Seventy-first Infantry (Sergeant Stabile and Private Kapparo), 97, third.

Forty-seventh Regiment Match (15 shots prone, but 3-eyes only to count, no sighting shots)—Won by Major G. H. Johnson, Twenty-second Engineers, 15; Lieutenant J. H. Johnston, Twenty-third Regiment Veteran Association, 14, second; Lieutenant W. P. Black, Seventh Regiment Veteran Association, 13, third; Sergeant H. C. Gerdes, Old Guard, 12, fourth; Captain P. J. Rocchietti, Old Guard, 12, fifth.

DUEL FOR HOTEL TEAMS.

Quartets Will Settle Relay Supremacy in K. of C. Track Games.

The dispute between the relay teams representing the Hotel McAlpin and the Pennsylvania Hotel over the awarding of second place to the former in the recent inter-hotel relay race at the Sanaciar A. A. games will be settled at the Knights of Columbus meet at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory on Saturday evening, April 10. At that time the two rivals will clash in a half-mile relay race open to teams of four men each.

The event has been added to the Knights of Columbus program at the special request of the Sanaciar A. A., which is anxious to decide the rivalry between the two hotel aggregations. In the race in question, both teams were in a near dead heat for second place. The judges gave the decision to the Hotel McAlpin representatives, amid a storm of protest from the Pennsylvania runners, who contended that the place should have been theirs. The question is expected to be settled definitely at the K. of C. games.

WINS LONG WALK IN SPAIN.

Vasquez Covers 62 Miles in 13 Hours 38 Minutes 8 Seconds.

MADRID, Spain, April 2.—Gonsales Vasquez today won the cup given by the Minister of War for the 100-kilometer (62.14 miles) walking championship of 13 hours 38 minutes 8 seconds, beating Spain. Vasquez covered the distance in the previous Spanish record by three hours and ten minutes.

The race was held over the road from Madrid to Guadalajara and return. About 100 contestants started, of whom fifteen finished within twenty hours.

DR. PETERS WINS GOLF CUP.

Wilmington Linksman Takes Pinehurst Trophy in Playoff of Tie.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2.—Dr. Walter P. Peters of Wilmington, Del., won the Chisholm Beach Memorial Cup in golf at Pinehurst today on the playoff of yesterday's tie with R. B. Wasson of Baltusrol.

The contest was a net score affair held in connection with the North and South qualifying round.

Record Gymnastic Entry.

A record list of title aspirants will seek Metropolitan A. A. U. gymnastic championships in the annual title tournament at the Newark Y. M. C. A. this evening. A total of ninety-seven acrobats have submitted entries for the nine events which will be contested. These include competition on the horizontal bar, parallel bars, side horse, long horse, tumbling, rope climbing, flying rings, Indian club swinging and all-around test. This entry far exceeds any ever before received. The heavy list of title seekers is taken by A. A. U. officials to foreshadow the most successful gymnastic tournament ever held by the local body.

GERMANS TO CONFER HERE ON SEA ROUTES

Hamburg-American Line Officials Sail to Meet Shipping Board.

CREWS TO BE NATURALIZED

American Fleet Will Be Manned by Men in Service of Former German Lines.

Chairman Cuno, who succeeded the late Albert Ballin as head of the Hamburg-American Line, and Director Huldermann sailed from Christiania on March 30 for New York on the Norwegian-America liner Bergensfjord with special permits from the State Department, to confer with the United States Shipping Board in Washington over the routes that are to be taken up by the American steamships and the prospects of cargoes. The two officials of the Hamburg-American Line will be met on their arrival at the Norwegian-America Line pier, foot of Thirtieth Street, South Brooklyn, on April 9, by William G. Sickel, Director of the German steamship company in the United States, who will accompany them to Washington.

Shipping men said yesterday that when peace with Germany has been restored the former German passenger liners operating under the U. S. Shipping Board flag from Hamburg and Bremen will be manned to a large extent by officers, engineers and petty officers, oilers, quartermasters, &c., from the Hamburg American and North German Lloyd steamship companies, after they have taken out their first naturalization papers declaring their intention to become American citizens.

The attention of Andrew Furuseth, President of the National Sailors and Firemen's Union, was called to this contingency and he opposed the plan of the Shipping Board to use its vessels for re-establishing German trade routes, but failed to accomplish anything because the Chairman and majority of the members of the Shipping Board were impressed with the idea that if the United States did not seize the opportunity to get hold of these steamship routes to South America, South Africa, China and Japan, the British steamship companies would do so.

At present the captains and officers of the German companies are marking time in Bremen and Hamburg on half pay waiting for the United States to sign the treaty and send the steamships there to operate on all parts of the world.

Captain Charles Polack, who formerly commanded the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, now the U. S. Army transport Mount Vernon, and was interned in this country during the war, was dismissed from the employ upon his return to Bremen because he turned back to New York with the $10,000,000 in gold he had in the specie room instead of running the gantlet of the British warships round the north of Scotland to a German port when he got warning by wireless that war was going to be declared against France. The code message was "Willy has appendicitis."

The American Line has opened its office, 2 Boersenbruecke, Hamburg, with a staff sent from New York, and in addition to the regular service it has started a line to Montevideo and Buenos Aires and is advertising its sailing list in the German newspapers. The name "American Line" is painted on the window of the office, but no American flag has been hoisted over the building, because officially the United States and Germany are still at war.

MAY END ARMENIAN MISSION.

War Department Considers Recall—Holyoke Plea for Mandate.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The War Department is considering the withdrawal from Armenia of military members of the mission headed by Colonel W. N. Haskell sent over last year to supervise the work of the American Relief Administration and the Committee for the Relief of the Near East.

Since the functions of the officers of the mission are not of a military nature, the department has wished to recall them for some time and the State Department may be asked for information as to the advisability of bringing the mission to an end.

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass., April 2.—An appeal for an American mandate over Armenia, signed by President Mary E. Woolley and 581 members of the Faculty and student body of Mount Holyoke College, has been sent to President Wilson, the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House. It gives the following as reasons why the United States should accept such a mandate:

"Through the work of American missionaries America has occupied the position of guardian of the Armenian race; because of her great wealth and resources America has the equipment necessary for the task; she has no material interests in that part of the world and is known to have none; the inhabitants of the Turkish Empire have a confidence and trust in the disinterestedness of the American nation which they accord to no other people; throughout her history America has consistently stood for the accomplishment of liberty from oppression and for moral rather than for material interests."

ACCUSED OF ROBBING GYPSY

Young Man Held When $1,340 Vanishes in Fight.

Thomas Campione, twenty-two years old, of 365 Warren Street, Brooklyn, was held by Magistrate Ten Eyck in Tombs Police Court yesterday in $2,500 bail for examination next Tuesday on a charge of having robbed John B. Costello, a gypsy, of $1,340. The robbery was alleged to have taken place in front of 209 Canal Street during a quarrel in which nearly thirty gypsies living in that neighborhood took part.

Campione stated that he had stopped to see what the trouble was about when he was seized by a policeman. According to the police a considerable sum of money was found on Campione, who said he had received it from his mother to pay for an automobile.

The quarreling gypsies made many complaints when Policeman Thomas Corbett, of the Elizabeth Street Station, dispersed them, but stated in court that they had no desire to press charges against one another.

EX-SOLDIERS FINED $900.

Three Failed to Notify Police Their Auto Killed Man.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., April 2.—William Rohrback, Michael Ritz and Thomas Mallon, former members of the American Expeditionary Force, and residents of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, pleaded guilty before County Judge Frank L. Young at White Plains today to a charge that they fled after the automobile in which they were riding had accidentally killed a man. After the accident, it was alleged, they carried the body down a hillside and ran away. Judge Young fined each man $300.

"These young men are entitled to a good deal of consideration on account of their reputation and faithful service they rendered their country," said the Judge. "I am sorry, however, that I cannot excuse them, because they left a man dead or dying without notifying an officer after the accident. They made a great mistake."

WANTS ORDER ON BUSES.

Brooklyn Railroad to Ask Court for Immediate Suspension.

Justice Cropsey of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn will be asked this morning to order immediate suspension of the bus lines, which the Court decided on Thursday were operating illegally. The lines are competitors of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company. If such an order is signed the city is expected to apply to the Appellate Division for a stay pending an appeal. Application for the order will be made by counsel for the Brooklyn City Railroad Company.

Assistant Corporation Counsel William E. Carswell will ask the Court to restrict the decision against the buses to the three lines which the railroad company especially objects to and not to have it apply to all lines. Other suits are to be begun against other bus lines, so that if Justice Cropsey is sustained on appeal the buses will have to go.

Mr. Carswell said that the city would do everything it could to keep the buses going because of a conviction on the part of the City Administration that they were sorely needed by the public.

Concerning the bill introduced in the Legislature by Senator John A. Lynch of Richmond County to give the city power to buy and operate buses, Grover A. Whalen, Superintendent of Plant and Structures, said the city was behind the measure and, while the city believed it had the right to establish bus lines, the safe way was to have the proposed expenditure of $1,000,000 authorized by the Legislature.

"It is most vital," said Mr. Whalen, "that authority be conferred upon the city to better transportation conditions in the city. The present temporary emergency bus lines are serving 300,000 people daily; so that the people who are now patrons of the present bus lines may not be compelled to walk or be thrown back into the already overcrowded surface cars throughout the city, and so that there cannot be any question as to the right of the municipality to provide for the comfort and necessities of the travelling public, this relief should be immediately granted by the Legislature.

"I am going to Albany on Monday night to urge the passage of this bill."

THREAD TRACES MILK THEFT

Fastened to Bottle, It Leads to Janitor's Arrest.

Frank Scott of 2,153 Clinton Avenue, the Bronx, is one of a number of tenants in a block of apartment houses whose bottle of milk has been stolen morning after morning recently so that in some cases their children have had to go to school scantily fed. A sentry system failed to disclose the thief, so yesterday morning, after two bottles had been delivered at his door, Scott with paste and paper affixed the end of a cotton thread to the bottom of one bottle, led it into his bedroom and there fastened the other end to a broom and dustpan so arranged that the least little tug would send them clattering down.

At 5 o'clock he awakened as the trap was sprung, rushed to the hall and there, so he told Magistrate Silberman, in West Farms Court, he found Rudolph Hornikel, janitor of the apartments, hurrying away with a bottle of milk, the thread trailing after him.

The distributing company sent a representative to court to aid in the prosecution. Hornikel was held in $200 bail for trial in Special Sessions.

DRIVE OUT WITH BAYONETS.

Navy Puts Into Practice Its New Punishment for Disgraced Men.

BOSTON, April 2.—The punishment which the navy now provides for disgraced men furnished an unusual spectacle at the Charlestown Navy Yard today. Instead of drumming the man out as in former days, bluejackets with fixed bayonets drove him from the yard. A seaman on the U. S. S. Savannah who had been discharged for bad conduct.

The seaman was formally ordered from the deck of the Savannah and with guards on either side, behind and ahead of him, to direct his departure and call attention to his disgrace, was marched through the yard. At the main gate the guard was halted, drawn up in a front with bayonets bristling, and the discharged man was ordered on his way.

Take Over Warehouses.

Announcement is made that the warehouses of the Jarvis Stores, Inc., have been taken over by the Vandam Warehouse interests. The properties absorbed consist of three large modern warehouses at Greenwich and Perry Streets and Grenewich and Charles Streets, these two occupying the entire block front on Greenwich Street, and the warehouse at 501 Washington Street, running through the block to Greenwich Street, which is a United States bonded store.

The Jarvis Stores, one of the old warehousing organizations in the city, has been in business for about eighty-five years, and their acquisition by the younger organization marks an important step in warehousing development at this port. The Vandam Company will now control sixteen local warehouses of which twelve are in this borough and four on Staten Island. The other Jarvis interests will be in no way affected.

New Australian Tariff.

According to an announcement from the Commissioner of the Commonwealth of Australia, 61 Broadway, the new tariff for that country is in the form of a triple levy, consisting of British preferential rates, intermediate, and general rates. The intermediate tariff applies only in case of special tariff agreements. Some of the items carry the following rates: Cotton piece goods—British, free; general, 15 per cent. Apparel—British, 40 per cent.; general, 55 per cent. Manufactures of metal—British, 35 per cent.; general, 45 per cent. The new tariff became operative March 25 last.

Color Card Growth.

One hundred new members have been added to the list of the Textile Color Card Association during the past three weeks. The association now has a membership roster of nearly 500, it is announced, representing every industry interested in color development. The circulation of the American card now reaches into every State in the Union, with a constantly growing demand in England, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Switzerland, France, South America, Holland, Italy, China and Japan. The new members cover a wide range of industries, and include one firm in New Zealand and one in Japan.

Sell for Terms Difference.

In their desire to secure the necessary working capital which the banks are no longer willing to furnish, many small jobbers in the silk and piece goods markets are converts to the policy of quick turnovers. This is somewhat different from the former methods, which consisted in holding merchandise for a rise in price. Many of the transactions of the speculative element, it is said, are now made on the basis of a profit which comes from the difference in terms. In other words, if the can buy on better terms than they sell, the profit, even though small, is eagerly accepted.

Tweeds Are Sought.

Tweeds have become one of the leading novelties, where orders from the garment manufacturers are concerned. The women's wear houses, it is said, not only welcome the unconventional designs which are usually to be found in such fabrics, but are of the opinion that the mannish style effects which they give will continue to be strong. The exclusive suit maker is one featuring such goods for this season, and the usual prediction to be made is that such materials will be among the favorites of the garment trade next Fall. Though tweeds have had their greatest popularity in the sport clothes branch in the past, they will, according to fashion authorities, be well represented in the regular lines for the new season.

Gray Goods Sales Fair.

Business was fairly active in the local gray goods market yesterday, in spite of the semi-holiday and the early closing by many houses. Large business was done in Eastern 38½-inch 60-48s at 23 cents for May-July shipment, while for delivery in May and June buyers took 38½-inch 6—60s at 24½ cents. Spot lots of Eastern 39-inch 56-44s brought 21 cents. May-July deliveries of 5-yard sheetings were sold at 19½ cents. Some trading in fine-yarn cloths was done, a few lots of spot 40-inch lawns having been let out at prices slightly under the market.

To Have No Deferred Billing.

The current week has developed one piece of news of much interest to the retail coal trade, Saward's Journal will say today. At least some of the companies, it is understood, will continue to sell prepared sizes at the Winter circular until a new wage scale agreement is arrived at or a strike declared. The independents are expected to adopt the same plan. This does away with the system of deferred billing which was resorted to the last time that wage negotiations ran beyond the first of the coal year. The termination of Government price control on April 1 found the bituminous market in great confusion. There was a wild scramble on the part of buyers, especially those in New England, to find operators who were in a position to accept orders for prompt shipment.

Look for Big Rubber Season.

Because of the high cost of all-leather sport shoes these days, as well as canvas shoes with leather soles, a record retail business is anticipated here this season in rubber footwear for sports use. A big business in rubber overshoes at wholesale is expected as well, due to the marked depletion of retail stocks that resulted from the unusually stormy weather of the last week. With stocks of these goods, as well as rubber boots and arctics in limited supply in the hands of the manufacturer and jobber, early buying for Fall delivery is advised by them. Apropos of the reference to the high price of canvas shoes with leather soles, one model of that type shown here for men—a kid lined oxford—retails at $18 a pair.

It May Be the Last Straw.

A great deal will depend on today's weather as to the garment retailers of the country having a happy Easter or not. While a generally rainy day is likely to spoil the disposition of more than one of the big merchants, following the poor weather of last Monday and yesterday's drizzle, it is likely to be even a harder blow to retailers in many of the smaller cities and towns.

In many of those places a large part of the Easter business is done during the afternoon and evening preceding that day and stormy weather is sure to spell serious loss. Cold weather, also, will hurt. Particularly in the smaller towns is it the custom of the men to hold off on the purchase of their Easter finery until the next to the last minute.

Record Prices Predicted.

Record prices are predicted by experienced fur men for the three sea otter pelts that are to be disposed of at the forthcoming auction of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation which will begin in the Masonic Hall here on April 19. Not only are they said to be the finest specimens of this type of fur that have been shown in this country in years, but they are among the largest ever seen. While well-known writers on natural history say that the average length of a sea otter is from four to five feet, the smallest of the three pelts in question is only a little less than six feet long. The largest one measures seven feet in length, and the third one is but two inches shorter. It was announced yesterday that only during the first week of the coming auction would the selling be done in the Masonic Hall. The rest of the sale will be held in Hotel Pennsylvania.

Special Knitted Fabrics.

Owing to the rapid growth in the use of knitted fabrics in directions where they have replaced woven goods, the manufacturers of such materials found they were not able to offer special constructions for special needs of their customers. Thus it has been the experience of such producers that their goods were not correctly used in many cases. To remedy this and preserve the fair name of their product, it is proposed to manufacture grades of knitted goods fitted for the various purposes for which they are used. To the waist trade, for instance, the manufacturers of tricolettes and other knitted materials will make special weights and constructions designed to give most satisfaction. As the production of knitted fabrics is said to be three or four times faster than the manufacture of woven goods, the industry sees a brilliant future.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

They Moved Upward in General Except in the Foodstuffs.

Wholesale commodities prices, as reported in Dun's list, again showed a slight excess of advances over declines this week. Out of a total of seventy-two revisions, thirty-eight were upward. Last week there were forty-two advances in eighty changes. Foodstuffs declines nearly doubled the advances, despite the upward trend of the general list. There were not many features.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

Thirteen of the twenty revisions in foodstuffs were downward, although all of the provisions changes which took place locally were advances. Bacon advanced. Spring patent flour went up 25 cents a barrel, and Winter straights moved up 5 cents a barrel here during the week. The strike in the stockyards at Chicago made quotations on live meats out of the question there this week. Mess pork did not change, but both Middle Western lard and short ribs declined.

The price tendency was downward in the local market for dairy products. The best creamery butter dropped a cent a pound, and State dairy stock, common to fair, was off 2 cents. There was no revisions in the price of cheese. The best eggs, fancy nearbys, advanced 2 cents a dozen to a point 10 cents above the corresponding 1919 figure. That was the only advance, however, as the best Western eggs dropped sharply. They declined 7 cents a dozen, and now cost half a cent a dozen less than at this time last year.

In the fresh fruits fancy apples showed a decline of $1 a barrel for the week. The dried ones contributed advances in choice apricots and cleaned currants and declines in choice apples and muscatel raisins. Vegetables changes were few, consisting chiefly of declines in choice marrow beans and onions. The latter dropped $2 a bag, which makes a decline of $3 a bag in the last two weeks. Teas were unchanged. No. 7 Rio coffee was nominally lower. The best raw sugar advanced again, and drew up pretty close to the price of fine granulated, which did not change. Spices contributed declines in nutmegs and in black and white Singapore peppers. Corn, oats, rye and malting barley supplied the advances in the grains, while the declines were in prime timothy hay and long rye straw.

The hide situation was again somewhat unsettled, advances being shown by No. 1 heavy cows and No. 1 Texas stock. Declines occurred in No. 1 native packers, No. 1 country steers and No. 1 buffs. Leathers were quotably unchanged. The changes in the metals were all upward this week and they took place in lake and electrolytic coppers, spelter and tin. In the combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils there were twenty-four changes, of which fourteen were upward. A drop in foreign refined camphor and an increase in menthol supplied the chief features.

Turpentine moved still further. It now stands at $2.45 a gallon, against 75 cents a gallon at this time in 1919. Tallow and plantation crude rubber supplied the remaining declines for the week. The other advances were in hemp, hops, English vermillion paint, M. F. book paper (nominal), and Japanese raw silk.

Prices on gray goods, more especially printcloths, moved up slowly but steadily during the week, and supplied the main features of the week's dealings in cotton fabrics. In the burlaps the price situation was unsettled but, on the strength of somewhat bullish reports from primary markets, the local trade closed the week with quotations a bit firmer than they were at the beginning of it.

TURNED DOWN A BUYER.

Briton Did Not Like Terms Made by Sellers in This Country.

The American Chamber of Commerce in London reports an instance which has come to its attention and which is said to represent what happened in many quarters. One of the largest manufacturers in Glasgow of a world-known brand of pajamas, shirts, &c., turned down an order from an American buyer running into four figures and sold the goods elsewhere. It was not, the chamber understands, because this manufacturer does not wish to sell to America. In fact, he, in common with many other British manufacturers feel a sincere desire to cultivate the American market and to respond to the appeals made by the Government and by the American chamber to adopt this means of rectifying the sterling exchange on America.

The reason this big manufacturer turned down the American order was as follows: He himself has to buy textile machinery from the United States. The American seller demands cash against documents and will sell on no other terms. On the other hand the American buyer who wishes to purchase this manufacturer's goods insists on 60 days 2½ per cent., or cash 6 per cent. terms. It was this manufacturer's comment that if it were necessary to give credit to any buyers he would prefer to give it to those countries whose exporters granted similar terms in selling. Until American traders realized there were two sides to the game and brought their buying and selling policies into conformity he would rather do his business elsewhere.

TO PUSH BRITISH TRADE.

Empire Commerce Chamber Makes Extensive Plans Here.

The British Empire Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday that at a recent meeting plans were laid for an extensive organization representing interests in this country from all parts of Britain. E. F. Darrell, Chairman of the Organization Committee, presided; R. L. Nosworthy, Trade Adviser, represented the Embassy, and H. G. Armstrong, Consul General, and others attended. George Parmly Toby, a visitor from London, told of the success of the American Chamber of Commerce in London. Ample financial backing was assured the enterprise.

Pending complete organization, obtaining a charter and establishing suitable quarters, the office of the association will be in that of Mr. Darrell at 11 Broadway.

Best Easter Week in Dry Goods.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods trade say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods has been greatly in excess of the corresponding week a year ago and of any previous year. Orders from salesmen on the road, both for immediate and future delivery, are also very much larger. More customers were in the house than during the same week last year. Retail business continues excellent. Collections are very satisfactory."

CUT $705,660,000 FROM DEBT IN MARCH

Treasury Reports Reduction Twice as Great as in Any Previous Month.

TOTAL NOW $24,698,000,000

Certificates of Indebtedness Retired in Anticipation of Heavy Tax Receipts.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—A reduction of $705,660,000 in the national debt—more than double the amount by which the debt was lowered during any previous month—was accomplished during March, the Treasury reported tonight. The national debt now stands at $24,698,000,000.

Officials said that this record could not be used as a basis for forecasting further monthly reductions. They regarded it, however, as "sound evidence" of the success of the Treasury program for financing the post-war period when Government expenditures continue to run high.

March payments on the public debt were confined almost wholly to the retirement of certificates of indebtedness issued in anticipation of income and profit taxes.

The reductions by months since the retirements began were: October, $15,538,000; November, $94,478,000; December, $278,973,000; January, $168,689,000, and February, $264,057,000. Heavy payments on the debt in December and February were traceable to the retirement of certificates of indebtedness. The amount of obligations retired each month, although fluctuating, has been on the increase.

Future monthly reductions will hinge largely on new appropriations and tax legislation, officials say. They expect that the operation of the sinking fund will reflect more and more on the gross national debt each month hereafter. None would venture a prediction as to the net reduction for the calendar year.

As the public debt now stands, it is made up of $15,616,800,000 comprising the four issues of Liberty bonds, $4,422,700,000 of Victory short term notes, $2,067,220,000 in Treasury certificates, $870,000,000 in War Savings certificates and approximately $1,000,000,000 in bonds issued prior to the World War. The greatest single item among those old bonds is the issue of consol of 1930, which aggregate $600,000,000.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

The trade reviews of the past week lay stress upon the appearance of seasonal buying, especially in retail trade.

Dun's Review says:

Seasonal characteristics appear in retail distribution, which develops increased animation as Spring advances, and reports of the Easter turnover, notwithstanding the prolonged era of extreme prices, are almost uniformly favorable. After several years of rising prices, embracing practically every commodity, the continued large movement of goods into consumption is especially noteworthy and demonstrates that the enhanced purchasing power accruing from the higher wages and the unusually profitable returns from business and agriculture is still present in many channels.

Measured by the first quarter's insolvency statement, which discloses fewer failures than any previous periods in four decades, trade and industry maintain a position of strength and stability and the recent turn for the better in foreign exchange has rendered financial aspects more reassuring and has been helpful to general sentiment.

Bradstreet's says:

Trade in general has moved in good seasonable volume during the week, retail business in particular being stimulated by Easter buying. As a rule, carefulness continues to be exercised in purchasing for any but nearby needs, the feeling that there may be a recession in prices still exercising an influence. Purchases for immediate requirements are, however, made freely enough, though prices in staple lines show little or no tendency to decline; in some cases, indeed, advances over a year ago are noted. Meanwhile credits are being closely watched, loans for purposes of a speculative nature are discouraged, and there are not lacking evidences of the infiltration of a more economical spirit among the people.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

BUTTER—The receipts yesterday were 11,095 packages. Owing to the harbor strike the market ran short of the desirable table qualities. Prices were not quotably changed. Danish butter sold in round lots at 62@63c, with jobbing sales higher. A car of fancy California boxes sold at 67@67½c. Renovated dragged. Ladies and packing stock were without change. EGGS—The receipts yesterday were 42,554 cases. Arrivals continued heavy, but there was interference by the harbor strike, and some recent receipts have been ordered off the market under shippers' limits. Jewish holiday and Eastern requirements have been satisfied, but there is still some demand for current use. Values were not well defined, but some recovery in prices was established. White eggs were easier, the demand quieter; but the decline would undoubtedly have been greater but for the strike. MARCH CUSTOM DUES BREAK ALL RECORDS

Port's Collections of $22,281,878 Exceed Receipts of Any Two in World.

GERMANY RESUMES TRADE

Sends Shipload After Shipload of Goods, Says Newton—Depleted Force Causes Delay.

With a total of $22,281,878.55, all customs collection records were shattered last month, Collector of the Port Byron H. Newton announced yesterday. Ten years ago in October $21,068,921.73 was collected and that sum remained a high-water mark till last month. Incidentally Mr. Newton called attention to the fact that there were 4,000 employes of the department in 1910, against 3,000 now.

"This port," Mr. Newton said, "collects more money than any two other ports of the world, even including London and Southampton. A check kept by the local offices on the amount of precious stones in the world also shows the United States now has more than two-thirds of the precious stones of both hemispheres."

Discussing the imports that have made this port the leader in customs collections, Mr. Newton said there was a surprisingly large amount of fancy laces, silks, jewelry and rare articles of chinaware brought in here.

"In the first three months of the present year," he said, "many of the countries that were hard hit by the war managed to rehabilitate themselves considerably. Imports from France and Germany, especially the latter, are gradually resuming their pre-war status. Germany has sent shipload after shipload of her cutlery here. She is also sending other articles in large quantities.

"The volume of business at the New York offices has assumed such proportions that for the most part warehouses where appraisals are made are simply jammed with goods," Mr. Newton went on. "At the present time the Appraiser's warehouse is piled high with articles awaiting shipment to firms in this country."

Firms all over the country, according to the Collector, are complaining in every mail about the slowness of delivery of their goods. In some instances firms say they are losing large sums in insurance on undelivered shipments. When they reach destinations some articles are out of season. This is especially true of some bulk shipments. The Collector attributed the trouble to customs employes, who, being underpaid, have left the service to go into other lines of endeavor, and claimed his small force was totally inadequate to handle the work.

GARVAN WOULD HOLD GERMAN PROPERTY

Custodian Urges It as Guarantee of Our Collecting Billion in Claims.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Before turning back German property seized in this country Congress should consider the claims American citizens have filed against Germany, the Alien Property Custodian, Mr. Garvan, said today before the House Interstate Commerce Committee at a hearing on bills relating to the status of American women who married aliens. Mr. Garvan said State Department records probably would show that American claims exceeded $1,000,000,000.

"While individuals ought not to be made to pay injuries inflicted by the German Government," he said, "it might be wise to hold the seized property until there is assurance that Germany will pay damages. I am in favor of holding it until Germany furnishes security."

Mr. Garvan said he did not believe a joint resolution declaring the war ended, even if signed by the President, would affect the situation respecting alien property.

"I think it necessary," he said, "that Congress enact comprehensive legislation providing relief for American women who married aliens and whose property now is in my possession. There are about 47,000 cases.

"I would like to see relief provided for the people of Alsace-Lorraine, who, though controlled by Germany, never lost their loyalty to France. Although their land has been returned to France, they find that we hold much of their property, and France has protested that it be restored."

MALT AND GRAIN REPORT.

Shows Net Profit of $186,892 for Fraction of Year.

The American Malt and Grain Company in a report issued to stockholders for the period between June 10, 1919, and Feb. 29, 1920, shows a profit on malting and storage operations of $288,246. After charges and expenses, due to organization, betterments and the like, there was a net profit of $186,892.

After discussing the Volstead act and the meaning of concurrent power in its enforcement, Russell H. Landale, President of the company, has this to say of the brewing business:

"After an exhaustive investigation into the brewing and use of near beers, it has been ascertained that in those States where the sale of near beers only has been permitted for a year past, a large trade has developed which is rapidly increasing, with the result that brewers found it necessary to brew from malt and hops solely, according to their best old-time formula and to de-alcoholize their product to the legal alcoholic content by any one of several processes.

"Many brewers who at first declined to make a product as above outlined or who attempted the use of substitutes instead of malt and hops and tried to sell beverages made by processes of checked fermentation, found their product unsalable and are installing at considerable expense de-alcoholizers, brewing excellent near beers and deriving considerable additional profit from the alcohol extracted."

WABASH RAILWAY NOTES.

Company Planning to Meet $1,500,000 Issue Maturing May 1.

Plans are being considered by the management of the Wabash Railway Company for providing for the issue of $1,500,000 collateral 4 per cent. gold notes which mature May 1. Just what disposition will be made of this maturity, it is said, has not been decided upon. The amount being relatively small, there is a possibility that the company will be able to find the necessary funds out of current cash, or, in the event that this is not possible, it is considered likely that a private loan with the company's bankers will be arranged. It is not expected that any public offering will be made of new securities to refund the notes.

The maturing issue, which was dated Nov. 1, 1915, was given to the Noteholders' Committee of the old company to carry out part of the reorganization of the Wabash Railroad Company. The notes are secured by pledge of 2,400 shares of the Belt Railway Company of Chicago and 1,217 shares of American Refrigerator Transit Company stock. The collateral, especially that of the latter company, is said to have a value well in excess of the amount of the notes.

RUMOR AGAIN TRAPS BIG MAN IN STUTZ

Stock Exchange Announcement That Only Small Traders Were Caught Is Disputed.

COMPLICATIONS INCREASED

One House Holds Call for Shares at Profit, but Can't Ask for Delivery During Ban.

There was no word yesterday to indicate that any settlement in the Stutz Motor Car Company corner was near. The New York Stock Exchange, which announced a suspension of trading in the shares last Wednesday, and most of the brokerage houses were closed. With a pause in developments, however, the financial district had an opportunity to mull over the situation, and there was a keen interest in banking circles as to what constituted the short interest in Stutz.

According to the New York Stock Exchange, the shorts are mainly odd-lot traders—at least this was the report when the suspension was announced—and it was asserted that in its ramifications the short interest led to all parts of the country. There were some yesterday who took issue with this version. It was pointed out that there hardly would be any particular glory to a corner which merely trapped small traders, and opinion veered once more to the original rumor that some large operator had been caught short of the shares and would have to pay dearly. Several new names were linked with the corner, but in no case was there any tangible proof that the persons mentioned were caught in the squeeze.

Allan A. Ryan, who controls the Stutz corner, was not at his office yesterday, nor were members of the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange to be found. One report that several of the odd-lot houses were short of the stock were denied. This rumor was, however, repeated in several quarters.

The complications arising from the suspension of trading are being scanned with interest. It was said one Stock Exchange house put a call on 100 shares of Stutz stock which showed a handsome profit, but that the house was afraid to call for delivery, as the Stock Exchange had ruled that none of its members could trade in Stutz in any manner. The situation was complicated further by the fact that the call might run out before trading in Stutz was resumed so that the price of the shares might break sharply on news of a settlement between Allan A. Ryan and the shorts, in which case the call might be valueless.

One odd story of a profit reaped on the long side in Stutz was told in this wise. A trader went short of ten shares of Stutz at about 109. The shares at once began to move against him and before long he had a sizable loss, considering the extent of his transaction. Becoming decidedly nervous he determined to cover, or buy in stock against his short sale. In his excitement he told his brokers to buy 25 shares of stock instead of ten, as was his intention. This made him long of fifteen shares of Stutz, but he did not realize he was on the long side. When Stutz began to climb toward 400 his brokers called him up and asked him what he wanted to do about his long stock. Finding himself long fifteen shares he promptly went out Thursday morning and sold them at 402, with a nice profit on the transaction.

It was believed yesterday that no further steps would be taken by the New York Stock Exchange until Monday or Tuesday. Those who predicted this, however, were unable to give any idea of what the Stock Exchange could possibly do in the matter. The declaration of an additional stock dividend of 80,000 shares on Friday by the Stutz Company, it was admitted, complicated the situation.

10-CENT CONEY FARE WINS.

Appellate Decision Does Not Affect 5-Cent Compact.

The decision of Justice Neiper of the Municipal Court of Brooklyn that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company had a legal right to charge a 10-cent fare to Coney Island was affirmed yesterday by the Appellate Term of the Supreme Court. The suit was instituted by Julius Merksamer as a test case. The decision is based on the contract of the company with the city which permits the company to charge a double fare for the trip to Coney until all of the rapid transit lines are constructed and thus permit a through ride without change.

An agreement recently reached between the company and Transit Construction Commissioner John H. Delaney established a 5-cent rate to the Island to begin on May 1. The decision has no other effect therefore than to protect the company from possible suits for damages for overcharging. An appeal is unlikely.

DECLARES LABOR LOYAL.

American Federation for Americanism, Says Frayne.

Hugh Frayne of the American Federation of Labor, who addressed the luncheon of the American Association of Advertising Agencies yesterday at the Hotel McAlpin on "Industrial Unrest," pledged the Federation "always to support, first and last, the Government and American ideals." He said that no matter what should arise from the unrest the "A. F. of L. would stand for Americanism."

Mr. Frayne said he knew there were "certain dangers and an element of unrest about the country." He said that he knew that doctrines contrary to the Government were being preached, but that labor was opposed to all insidious propaganda. The remedy for the unrest, according to Mr. Frayne, is not "deportation or force, but education and understanding."

Steel and Coal Workers Buy Homes.

PITTSBURGH, April 2.—Highly paid steel workers and coal miners in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County are not spending all their money, but are using a considerable part of it to buy their own homes, according to John D. Graham, Recorder of Deeds, whose report for 1919 was made public today. During the year the number of deeds and mortgages filed in the County Court House was 60,437, compared with 31,395 in 1915, and for the first quarter of this year the number was 16,385, compared with 7,060 in the first quarter of 1915. Many large corporations are assisting their employes [illegible] homes.

SWISS CITIES SEEK LOANS FROM AMERICA

Basle, Berne, Geneva and Zurich Competing with the Swiss Federal Railways.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERNE, April 2.—The municipalities of Basle, Berne, Geneva and Zurich are all involved in financial difficulties and all are holding out hands to America, hoping to induce her to grant them loans. The Canton of Zurich, with an estimated deficit of 23,000,000 francs at the end of 1920, has already applied to American financiers, but unsuccessfully. Berne is now preparing to make application, but the Swiss Federal Railways, which have a deficit of 200,000,000 francs, are also attempting to raise a loan in the United States, and the railway authorities are naturally doing their utmost to prevent the municipalities from getting what they themselves so greatly covet and need.

The reason why the Swiss municipalities and railways are unable to raise a European loan is that money in the neighboring countries of France and Italy is worth two-fifths or less of its normal value, while German, Austrian and Hungarian money is worth almost nothing.

By way of raising money the Swiss Government and the cantonal authorities are proposing to increase taxes on all property, levy heavy death duties and raise the rate of taxation on foreigners—proposals which are already having the effect of causing a good deal of foreign capital to leave Switzerland.

RAISE ITALY'S COST BURDEN

New Taxes, Higher Prices, Cut in Diet—Civil Service Strike Spreads.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, April 2.—Italian citizens had an unwelcome surprise in the form of fresh and heavy taxation restrictions in diet and a rise in prices of 10 per cent.

A super-tax has been imposed on the sale price of new clothing and all sorts of silver goods. A 15 per cent. levy attaches to gold watches, pearls and jewels. The sale of meat is forbidden on two days in the week.

While the cost of petroleum and benzine has undergone a sudden additional increase of 42 and 75 lire per quintal, their scarcity has provoked a decree prohibiting the use of private motor cars after dusk or at any time on Sundays and holidays.

The new strike in the Italian Civil Service is assuming serious proportions, 7,000 employes at the royal mint, military and naval arsenals, lighthouses and tobacco manufactories being now involved. The strike has become general in the capital and big cities such as Milan, Turin and Naples, besides important coastal centres such as Spezia and Taranto.

HOLD TWO IN DRY LAW CASE.

Charged With Conspiracy to Obtain Bond Alcohol by Bogus Permits.

Charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law through the use of bogus permits to take alcohol out of bond, Ernesto Mechiorre, 29 years old, and Alfred Caruso, 27 years old, of the lower east side, were yesterday held by Federal Commissioner Hitchcock in $15,000 bond each for trial April 9.

Agents of the staff of Chief Probation Officer Shevlin allege that the defendants obtained a number of permits from the office of the Commissioner of Federal Revenue to take alcohol out of bond and signed the name of the Collector of Internal Revenue to them.

The men are charged with having offered to sell to John C. Lee, 34 Moore Street, two barrels of alcohol for $1,128. Louis D. Schwartz, Assistant Federal District Attorney, who appeared before Commissioner Hitchcock, said that other prosecutions would follow.

The number of cases of intoxication tried in the Adams Street Court, Brooklyn, increased twenty-four in March over the February number. There were fifty cases tried in March. The defendants usually told the Magistrates they got their whisky from friends.

"APRIL FOOL" ALIBI FAILS.

Youth Caught with Plunder Pleads Guilty in Court.

Matthew Cohen of 469 Washington Avenue, Brooklyn, entered his apartment late Thursday night to find clothing piled on the bed and the floor and ready to be carried away. A search revealed a youth calling himself William Needham, 19 years old, hiding in a closet, with $1,200 in Liberty bonds and two diamond rings in his pockets.

"Don't get mad, it's only an April fool joke; have a cigarette," the youth pleaded, but when he was unable to tell the friends who had arranged the pleasantry, Cohen had him arrested.

In Gates Avenue Court yesterday the prisoner pleaded guilty, saying he had come from his home in Portsmouth, N. H., where he had a widowed mother, had slept two nights in Grand Central station and had tried stealing because he was penniless. Magistrate Brown held him without bail for the Grand Jury and directed the police to communicate with his mother.

Bituminous Chairman Wants Miners to Work More and Talk Less.

Thomas F. Brewster, Chairman of the Scale Committee of the bituminous coal operators, said yesterday that statements of miners that operators were going to "gouge the public," because of the recent increase of 27 per cent. in miners' wages, was sheer nonsense. Due to a shortage of supply, he said, large consumers were offering higher prices than the operators were willing to accept.

"All responsible operators will condemn any unwarrantable prices or any profiteering policies, Mr. Brewster said. "The Bituminous Coal Commission, having awarded the miners a wage scale giving them very high earning power, the public now has the right to demand more work, with advanced coal production and less talk."

PROSPERITY FALSE, VANDERLIP HOLDS

Fundamentals Are Violated, He Says—Hears Labor Is 60 Per Cent. Efficient.

CAPITAL DIFFICULT TO GET

Inflation of Currency and Credit Chief Cause of High Prices, He Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Frank A. Vanderlip, former President of the National City Bank of New York, who was in Chicago today on his way to Japan, where in connection with a committee of financiers he will investigate conditions governing trade relations between the United States and the Orient, made three speeches before leaving for San Francisco.

At noon he spoke before the City Club, and at 4 o'clock he addressed the Woman's City Club. In the evening he made an address before the students of the School of Commerce of Northwestern University along the lines of international relationship from the financial point of view.

Mr. Vanderlip seemed to startle the business men who assembled at the City Club when he told them that the United States was bucking its way through an era of false prosperity and that unless vital changes were made in the industrial situation of the country an explosion was due.

"There are three things upon which real prosperity must be based," he said.

"These are ample fresh capital, efficient labor and an apprehension of sound economic principles. We are prosperous today in the face of all the three fundamentals, and our prosperity is false as well as dangerous.

"Incomes today are larger than ever before. Profits are larger. Yet fresh capital for business enterprise is less available than ever before. The chief reason for this is the Government taxes.

"About one-third of one per cent. of the nation hold bonds and provide he capital for big industry. Today the Government tax reaches as high as 70 per cent. on individual income. The result is that a 4½ per cent. tax free obligation equals a 17 per cent. taxed obligation and that today $14,000,000,000 are tied up in 4½ per cent. enterprises. The main source of fresh capital has been dried up.

"But even were the tax reduced, the situation would not be sound. There is labor. I have talked with scores of big business men. The consensus of their opinions is that labor is today 60 per cent. efficient.

"Never before in the history of our country was there so much employment. And yet, despite this fact, our productivity is lower than it has ever been.

"The reason for this, or rather the reasons, are obvious. Labor is unsatisfied. You may say this is due to demagogues, to foreign-born agitators and so forth and be quite correct. It is also due to fallacies which have crept into labor's mind, and it is due to the fact that a class consciousness has arisen and that labor thinks its employers have been unfair.

"And labor thinks correctly on the subject. Employers have been unfair and they must now make up for it by being fair in the face of labor's unfairness. Shop councils and different varieties of reform are necessary. I recommend for your attention the report of the Industrial Committee made in Washington, of which Mr. Hoover was a member. But even with labor efficient and capital plentiful our prosperity would still be on a false bottom.

"The inflation of currency and of bank credit has more than anything been responsible for the 250 per cent. rise in prices in the last six years. Wages have not kept pace with prices and false inflation has added to the chaos.

"Unrestrained extravagance is our national scourge; only the capital of the smaller capitalists when it too is dried up by taxes is being squandered in the purchase of unproductive things."

Mr. Vanderlip said that while it was true he had been quoted as not favoring any further loans to Europe, he considered that "it is essential to Europe and important to us that we give credit in the way of raw material which will give European industry something to work with and furnish employment to people who are now idle."

east of that parcel of land patented to the City of Toronto on December 18th, 1903, on the south by the new windmill line, and on the west by the easterly limit of lands patented to the City of Toronto on December 18th, 1903, and further known as Lot A Parcel 5 of the water lots between the old and new windmill lines.

In the year 1906 negotiations were had between the Company and the City of Toronto with respect to purchase by the Company of the property mentioned above as Lot (G); subsequently and in or about the year 1911 negotiations were commenced with the City of Toronto looking to the closing of Frederick Street—being Lot (F) above mentioned—and to the leasing by the City to the Company of said lots (F) and (G) above mentioned; subsequently it is said the City of Toronto conveyed the said lots to the Toronto Harbor Commissioners subject to a lease to the Company, which lease, however, had not been executed by the City of Toronto—in pending litigation between the Toronto Harbor Commissioners as Plaintiffs and the Company as Defendants. The Company contends that it is entitled to a lease of lots (F) and (G) from the Toronto Harbor Commissioners upon the following terms:—the lease to run for the term of forty years from 1912 at an annual rental of $2,930.50 for the first twenty-one years and $3,019.33 for the last nineteen years of the said term, and taxes and said rent to be payable quarterly, and the Company alleges that the lease among other provisions provides for the closing of a portion of Frederick Street by the City of Toronto and the erection of a dry dock by the Company.

A one-story frame, felt-clad Joiners shop,
One steel frame, ironclad Boiler house,
Lumber shed,
Garage and two wooden sheds,

STEAMSHIP FIRMS BUY FOR OCCUPANCY

Scandinavian-American Line Acquires Southeast Corner of Whitehall and Bridge Streets.

PLANS A NEW BUILDING

Other Shipping Interests Purchase Parcel on Pearl Street Opposite the U. S. Army Building.

Two important transactions in which steamship companies figured as purchasers were closed yesterday, which epitomize the recent buying movement at the extreme southerly end of Manhattan Island. Competition for space has become so keen in that locality that the Scandinavian-American Line, now at 1 Broadway, has bought from Mary Knief the business building at the southeast corner of Whitehall and Bridge Streets, on a plot 32.7 by 58, diagonally opposite the Custom House and in the heart of the shipping district. The reported price of $178,000 is said to establish a new record for plottage in this section of the city. The buying company plans to replace the present building on the site with a modern six-story building for its own occupancy.

Another steamship company, whose identity could not be learned, yesterday purchased from the Hungarian Relief Society its five-story building at 34 Pearl Street, southeast corner of Moore Street, on a plot 20 by 56.11, opposite the United States Army Building. This building will also be used for occupancy by the purchasing company.

Other business building deals involved properties on Vesey, Pearl and West Streets. The Lebertan Corporation sold 58 and 60 Vesey Street, 50 by 101, two five-story heavily constructed loft buildings, for all cash over a mortgage of $110,000 to Wolfson Brothers for their own occupancy. The property has been held at $190,000. Charles E. Moore was the broker. The Lebertan Corporation bought from a client of E. F. Dyckman 320 and 322 Pearl Street, a store and loft building, covering a plot 48 by 98. The purchaser paid all cash over a $30,000 mortgage. The property had been held at $90,000. Walter F. Smith was the broker.

Max Marx resold to C. C. Galbraith & Son, one of the present tenants, 117 and 118 West Street, two five-story business buildings with stores, occupying a plot 48 by about 75. This property is located within one block from the site which was acquired by the New York Telephone Company for a large building. The property was held at $75,000.

Ames & Co. sold the three-story building at 226 West Twenty-ninth Street to Philip Ziering. The new owner will remodel the premises for occupancy.

Trading in the Bronx.

N. Boscamp and Murrary & Hill Co. sold for John H. Buscall to an investor the five-story new law apartment house, 453 East 178th Street, arranged for 20 families, on a plot 50 by 109.

R. Rasmussen sold for G. C. Kuehnert, 1,075 Union Avenue, a three-story three-family house, 20 by 100 to A. Goldberg.

Robert Levers sold for the Debb Realty Co., a three-story, two-family house, 2,318 Loring Place. George V. W. Pels represented the purchaser.

John F. Prendergast sold for Mrs. J. H. Seebeck the five-story flat at 439 East 135th Street, 30 by 100, to Lillian Margulies; also for the O'Connell Estate the dwellings, 371 and 373 East 141st Street, to Ellen Rooney.

Frederick Brown has resold to Harry Cahn the southwest corner of 180th Street and Harrison Avenue, a plot 90 by 100. Mr. Cahn purchased recently from Mr. Brown a plot, 120 by 100, on the north side of Grand Avenue, near 180th Street. Mr. Brown also sold to the I. & S. Building Corporation the plot, 100 by 120, at the northwest corner of Kingsbridge Road and Morris Avenue. B. H. Weisker was the broker.

Queens Borough Transactions.

Dr. H. Walte, President of the Walte Manufacturing Company of Manhattan, purchased through Ira L. Terry the property at 19 Claverly Place, Flushing, which includes a plot 60 by 100 feet improved with a dwelling. The property was sold by the estate of J. Wright. Gilbert H. Rhoades, lawyer, acting for the executors.

The Ricker-Brown Realty Company sold to Ella I. Moore a two-story dwelling on Ditmars Avenue, between Chauncey Street and Goodrich Streets, Arleigh, for $10,000.

PACKARD COMPANY BUYS.

Will Build New Showrooms on Brooklyn Plot.

The Packard Motor Car Company of Detroit purchased the block front on Bedford Avenue, between Sullivan and Malbone Streets, a plot measuring 200 feet on Bedford Avenue, 500 feet on Malbone Street, and 100 feet on Sullivan Street, as a site for a three-story ornamental building to be devoted to showrooms and sales departments.

Senator Charles C. Lockwood and Leslie Frank were the attorneys for the motor car firm in the transactions, and plans have been filed with the Bureau of Standards and Appeals, together with an application for permission to build the structure.

The plot was assembled by William P. Rae as broker and the various owners were the Realty Associates, Mrs. V. Stilwell, known in the literary world as Laura Jean Libby; Abraham Belowsky, and John H. Eckhoff. The building planned for the plot will be one of the largest in the borough devoted to motor car showroom. The opposite corner was recently sold to one of the new gasoline and oil firms as a site for a service station. These transactions indicate that the motor car district is extending along Bedford Avenue toward Flatbush.

$1,500,000 FIFTH AVENUE PURCHASE

Frederick Brown Acquires Property at Northeast Corner of Fifty-second Street.

HICKSON IS THE TENANT

Marks First Venture of Operator in Avenue Realty North of the Public Library.

Frederick Brown, the operator, made his first venture on Fifth Avenue, north of Forty-second Street, yesterday, when he purchased from the Investors' Estates Corporation, represented by the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, the eight-story business building at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-second Street, on a plot 50 by 115. The property was held at $1,500,000. Most of the space in the building is occupied by Hickson, Inc., importers.

Gerald L. Bethel of Ewing, Bacon & Henry negotiated the deal. Mr. Brown's last Fifth Avenue operation involved the property at 471 and 473 Fifth Avenue, facing the Public Library, with an "L" running through to 4 and 6 East Forty-first Street, which he purchased from the Guardian Holding Company, at a holding price of $1,500,000, giving in exchange the Cluett Building at 19 to 23 West Eighteenth Street.

Finishing touches to another Fifth Avenue transaction were added yesterday when the Supreme Court authorized the closing of the lease between The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, as Trustee for the estate of Edward M. Knox, as lessor, and the Portieth Street and Fifth Avenue Corporation, Benjamin Mordecai, President, as lessee, covering the lease of the Knox Building at the southwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Fortieth Street, for a term of twenty-one years with two renewals, twenty-one years each. The building is ten stories in height, 33 feet on Fifth Avenue by 110 feet in depth.

Fine Residence Sold.

Worthington Whitehouse, Inc., sold 7 East Eighty-ninth Street for Captain Louis Josephthal to an unnamed purchaser. The dwelling is a five-story English basement house on a lot 28 by 100.8½, overlooking the garden of W. R. Jones and the restricted plot now being improved by Fulton Cutting with three modern residences. It was held at $225,000.

General Electric Buys Plant.

Joseph P. Day closed a contract yesterday between the General Electric Company and L. Feuchtwanger & Co., whereby the General Electric Company acquired the Feuchtwanger plant at Little Ferry, N. J. The Edison Lamp Works of the General Electric Company will use the property in their lamp business. The plant is located in Little Ferry, N. J., about seven miles from New York City, and fronting on the Hackensack River. The buildings are of brick construction and have a total of 35,000 square feet. The plant was used for many years for manufacturing several kinds of chemicals and as it offers the possibility of shipping by water it is especially adaptable for General Electric work.

Adds to 57th Street Realty.

William A. White & Sons sold 142 to 144 East Fifty-seventh Street to Erskine Hewitt. The property consists of two three-story houses on a plot 37.6 by 100. The seller of 142 was Henry B. Anderson and of 144 John Ammon. The buyer has made no definite plans regarding the future of the property. The Hewitt Realty Company, in which Mr. Hewitt is interested, recently accumulated the plot at the southeast corner of Lexington Avenue and fifty-seventh Street through the same brokers.

SUFFRAGISTS TURN TO SOUTH TO WIN

With Ratification Beaten in Delaware, They Look to North Carolina and Louisiana.

MRS. CATT IS CONFIDENT

Delay at This Moment Political Suicide for Offending Party, She Says.

Checked by defeat in Delaware and as yet unable to get the Governors of the Republican States of Vermont and Connecticut to call special sessions of the Legislatures, the suffrage leaders are now turning their attention to the Democratic South to get the thirty-sixth State necessary for ratification of the Federal woman suffrage amendment. Without abandoning hope of Vermont and Connecticut, the suffragists are now counting upon ratification by Louisiana, which has a regular session of the Legislature on May 10, and upon North Carolina, which will have a special session later in the Summer. At national suffrage headquarters it was said that suffrage sentiment was strong in Louisiana and that on a State referendum in 1918 the country districts were carried for suffrage by 7,000, which was offset by 10,000 adverse majority in New Orleans.

Great political pressure by national Democratic leaders was being exerted in Louisiana, it was said, in order that the party might gain the credit of finally putting the amendment through. It was expected that the desirability from the Republican viewpoint of having a Republican State be the thirty-sixth to ratify might have an effect in Vermont, where Governor Percival W. Clement was said to have signified his willingness to call a special session if he could obtain a stipulation that the Legislature would do nothing but vote on the amendment.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, said yesterday that it was not at all certain that the Delaware Legislature would not reverse itself and ratify. She expressed complete confidence in ratification before the Presidential election.

"Suffragists long ago eliminated the word defeat from their vocabulary," said Mrs. Catt. "The most that happens in the suffrage struggle is delay.

"The Democrats of the South are becoming more and more alive to the strategic advantage of wresting the thirty-sixth and thirty-seventh places on the honor roll for the glory of the Democratic Party. Day by day adds to the list of possibilities in Democratic Legislatures, with North Carolina and Louisiana now heading the list.

"I repeat that woman suffrage cannot be defeated. It can only be delayed. That delay at this moment is political suicide is fully recognized, not only by the seventeen million women who will vote in the Presidential election this Autumn, regardless of ratification of the amendment, but by every political leader of acumen in the United States."

DELAWARE WOMEN TO STUMP THE STATE

Suffragists Start Speaking Campaign in Effort to Change Sentiment and Gain Ratification.

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, Del., April 2.—With the members of the Delaware House and Senate at their homes for the Easter holidays and with anti-suffrage headquarters closed and little activity at suffrage headquarters, excitement over the question of suffrage ratification has subsided for the present. What comment there was, however, was over the entry of Alfred I. du Pont into the fight at the last minute. The consensus of opinion was that as other pressure has failed to move the legislators he will not be able to make any considerable number of them reverse their votes.

That the suffragists are as determined as ever to push the fight for suffrage in Delaware was shown today by an organized effort to tour the State, visiting every town and hamlet, to make speeches for suffrage, with the hope of changing the opinion of the constituents of members of the Legislature, especially in Sussex County, where the opposition is strongest. This campaign started this afternoon with Mrs. Hilles and other national party workers going into Lower Kent and Sussex Counties.

After the tour, attempts will be made to get petitions and signed statements from as many constituents as possible to present to the legislators.

The suffragists claim the House has three legislative days to reconsider yesterday's vote and that if this fails the Senate measure can be brought into the House at any time for consideration if it is passed by the upper branch. Yesterday's vote of 28 to 6, they declare, was not an indication of their potential strength, as they had fifteen votes in line for the resolution if they could have mustered three more, eighteen being required to ratify. Should the House decide to reconsider its action, the suffragists expressed confidence today that they could win over these three additional votes and at the same time hold the fifteen conditional pledges in line.

Style Leaders In The Easter Parade

IF you don't wear your hat inside out Easter Sunday, no one will give you credit for paying more than is necessary to get a good hat.

Stand on the sidewalk and watch the Parade go by, and I'll bet a new Spring bonnet you can't tell whether a man paid $3.85 or $13.85 (including war tax).

I don't know how you feel about it, but I think it's a lot more fun to save the difference than pay the penalty.

The high price labels that new customers left in my store last week as souvenirs convince me that thousands of men who can afford to pay what they want to,—don't pay any more than they have to,—to get what they want.

They're all one Price $3.85

"Absolutely the Biggest Hat Values in Town

—You can't buy them from the factory at such low prices,"—said to us a big hat manufacturer, who was in one of our stores a few days ago

He was entirely right. At the present market we cannot buy these Spring Felts and Derbies at the prices we are selling them. But we contracted for them months ago—selected the best materials for their making—had them styled in the smartest blocks. And here they are—ready for your choice—the widest variety of distinctive styles you'll find anywhere. Other stores are asking $7 and $8 for their counterparts. Get yours now—wear it Easter—and no one will be better hatted than you.
